WILLIS WARNS AGAINST MARINES' RETURN

NEW DRIVE BEING MADE TO ENFORCE RELIGIOUS LAWS

Score Of Sisters Taken In Josefina Convent Raid Ordered To Start Journey To Laredo, Texas, Sunday—Strong Government Forces Being Employed To Run Down "Rebel" Bands.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 28 — (I. N. S.) — Twenty Roman Catholic nuns, arrested in the recent police raid on the Josefina convent here, were ordered deported today to Laredo, Tex., as a further drastic effort to enforce obedience to the Mexican religious laws, it was announced tonight.

The order was signed by the minister of the interior, and the deportations will be carried out immediately. The nuns will start their journey by railroad for the Mexican-United States border tomorrow.

At the same time it was learned that an attempt by the military police to arrest the Right Rev. Miguel de la Mora, bishop of San Luis Potosi, has failed. A warrant was issued charging the prelate with conducting Catholic religious services in defiance of the law, but when officers went to serve the warrant they found the bishop had learned of their coming and had fled.

Although War Minister Amaro reports that the religious rebellion, is being put down, reports continue to trickle in of desultory fighting.

Strong government forces are being employed to run down the rebel bands.

Fled Several Months Ago.

It was not generally known that Bishop de la Mora was in Mexico, as it was supposed he was still in the United States, where he fled several months ago when the government gave the members of the hierarchy their choice of jail or exile. This choice was not a movement directed against religion, but

AUTHOR'S WIFE WINS DIVORCE

Decree Granted Mrs. Harry Leon Wilson at Salinas, Calif.

SALINAS, Cal., Jan. 28—(U. P.) —The final chapter in the marital difficulties of Harry Leon Wilson and his wife, Helen Cooke Wilson, was written on the records of the Monterey County court late today.

Judge Fred A. Treal entered a formal decree granting Mrs. Wilson a divorce from he rauthor husband.

The original divorce complaint from Mrs. Wilson charged her husband with cruelty and incompatibility of temper, but it was later amended to contain other stipulations.

She asserted, among other things, that her husband was entirely devoid of a sense of humor.

Custody of the two children, Harry Leon Wilson, jr., and Helen Wilson, was awarded to the mother, but the father will have the right to visit them at any time.

Mrs. Wilson received a settlement of $86,000 worth of the community property and was given occupancy of their home at Carmel, although the title remains in Wilson's name.

Her request for $500 a month alimony and support money was denied, but the court directed Wilson to day a "reasonable amount" toward the support of the children.

Wilson made no attempt to contest the divorce case. He did, however, file an answer to his wife's allegations in demanding the property settlement.

He denied he had hidden away $100,000 worth of community property and gave his income as "less than $100,000 a year."

Penn State G. O. P. to Abandon System of Jack Pot Funds

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—A new policy of "every man for himself" probably will be adopted by the republican organization in Pennsylvania for the 1928 elections, it was reported tonight, as an outcome of the slush fund attack on Senator-elect William S. Vare, republican, of Pennsylvania.

A group of republican leaders from the Keystone state, who conferred with Vare here in the last few days, were said to have approved a program by which each republican congressional candidate in the April primaries will finance his own campaign, maintani a separate organization, on paper, at least, and dissolve all financing partnerships.

This will be in direct contrast to the policy followed in the 1926 election, when a "jackpot" was raised to finance the campaigns of all republican congressional candidates.

An Epidemic Closes Schools In Colorado

DENVER, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—An epidemic of contagious disease in several northern Colorado towns has resulted in the closing of public schools and theaters and banning of all public assemblages, according to Dr. S. R. McKelvey, head of the state health department here.

The situation has become so serious, Dr. McKelvey said, that further drastic action may be taken.

Forty cases of diptheria were reported in Longmont, five spinal maningitis cases in Lafayette, scarlet fever is reported dangerously prevelent in Louisville, and several persons are afflicted with rabies in and near Boulder.

Board Walk Fire Rages

ATLANTIC CITY, Jan. 29 (Sunday) (UP) —Fire was raging uncontrolled along the entire length of the board walk at 1:40 a. m., today. Bath houses and all frame structures facing the walk for a distance of 300 feet are thretened.

Hickman's Neighbor In Prison a Suicide

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Rumors that William Edward Hickman had hanged himself in the Los Angeles county jail were set at rest today when it was learned that Edward Buie, 34, of Montebello, Calif., a barber and alleged drug addict, had committed suicide in his cell one floor above the kidnaper's steel cage.

Jailers found Buie's body dangling from a rope he made woven out of strips torn from his prison dungarees.

THREE KILLED IN CROSSING CRASH

WARSAW, Ind., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Three persons were dead here today as the result of a grade crossing crash between a Big Four passenger and an automobile.

The dead:
John Cole, 60.
Roy Remy, 25.
Mrs. Roy Remy, 22, daughter of Cole.

COTTON WEEVIL WARNING SENT

Pink Boll Worms Spread To Western Texas.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(UP)—Warning of a "very serious outbreak" of pink boll worms, menacing the south's cotton crop for this year, was issued by the agriculture department tonight. A statement urging that the boll weevil not be regarded as completely eradicated by recent cold weather also was issued.

A new and extensive outbreak of the boll worm in three counties of the great west Texas cotton producing section constitutes the greatest menace to the entire cotton area since the first infestation was discovered in Louisiana and eastern Texas in 1917, the department said.

The government intends to undertake a vigorous campaign against the boll worm, one of the most serious cotton pests.

The boll worm, of Indian origin, reached Mexico by way of Egypt in cotton seed and the great 1915 hurricane scattered the pest by strewing Mexican cotton from Galveston wharves all along the Texas coast.

Extensive scouting and field work is now under way, the department said, and steps have been taken to obtain funds for the fight.

AMITY MARKS FIRST PART OF HAVANA PARLEY

Little Ill Feeling Has Disturbed Pan-American Conference.

THIRD OF WORK NOW COMPLETED

Economic Co-operation and Air Treaty Plans Formulated.

HAVANA, Jan. 28. —(U .P.) —A conference of amity and betterment of international relations will be the historical classification of the Pan-American congress in session here, a checkup of accomplishments during two weeks showed today.

With delegates representing the twenty-one nations at the conference joined today with Cuba in celebrating the birthday anniversary of Jose Marti, Cuban patriot, secretaries who kept a record of the congress since it was opened January 16, by President Coolidge made notes of accomplishments.

Thus far no serious ill feeling has disturbed the conference, which has now completed one-third of the work originally planned.

Economic co-operation has been favored by the delegates. This was taken as an indirect attack on the United States tariff policy, which Argentine has claimed.

U. S. Not to Join.

It appears certain a code of international private law will be formulated although the United States probably will not join in this, due to federal organization in the United States.

A commercial air treaty, carrying provisions for adequate safeguards at the Panama canal, also may be expected before the conference closes.

Reorganization of the Pan-American union, with its functions augmented especially in the field of agricultural cooperation, also seems likely.

The matter of increased cooperation in agriculture is being pressed by Paraguay, which country would establish within the union a special commission to promote co-operation

NEBRASKA FIRES CLAIM 45 LIVES

Property Damage In 1927 Over Two Million; 105 Injured.

Explosion of Oil and Gas Takes Heaviest Human Toll.

Forty-five human lives lost, 105 persons burned or otherwise injured, and property destroyed to the value of almost $2,500,000 represent the toll taken by fire in Nebraska during 1927, as revealed by State Fire Warden Trouton's annual report to the governor.

Kerosene caused 1 of the deaths; lightning, 13; gasoline, 4; playing with matches, 3, and bonfires, 2. The others are classed under a miscelelaneous heading.

Of those who perished, 23 were men, 10 women, and 12 children.

Among the injured, the men numbered 57, including 19 firemen hurt while on duty fighting conflagrations and rescuing people from burning buildings. Twenty-three women and 25 children suffered injuries. Direct causes of these injuries were.

Kerosene, 16; gasoline, 32; fireworks, 3; torpedoes and dynamite caps, 9; bonfires, 2; playing with matches, 4; moving picture films ignited, 2; miscellaneous, 18.

One Killed in Lincoln.

The list of fatalities includes Thomas Brick, an employe of the Iowa-Nebraska Public Service company, who suffered death from coming in contact with a live wire, which also burned part of his clothing.

Ten of the injured were residents of the capital city. Most of these escaped with minor burns.

Lincoln's fire losses in property destroyed and damaged came to $511,123 during last year, of which $159,857 was on buildings and $351,266 on contents. The total value of buildings where fires occurred was $1,055,655, on which there was insurance of $677,430 Merchandise and other personal property involved was valued at $595,403, with insurance thereon amounting to $435,795.

In Lancaster county outside Lincoln, buildings worth $57,800 and insured for $39,550 were burned or damaged to the extent of $15,710; while contents valued at $31,875, covered by $18,315 of insurance, suffered damage to the amount of $7,819.

Figures for Whole State.

Herewith are the fire statistics for 1927 in Nebraska as a whole, embracing cities, villages, and rural territory:

Word has been received by Mrs. L. Romick, Mariposa apartments, of the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Gladys Clinkenbeard, 32, who was instantly killed January 21, when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a fast mail train near Fulfport, Miss. Mrs. Clinkenbeard was the wife of Earl Clinkenbeard and a former resident of Lincoln.

Mr. Clinkenbeard is connected with the Woods Brothers company and has been at Gulfport for the past two years in connection with the construction of a sea wall there. The family lived in Lincoln for about five years, residing at 1040 — street.

Besides her husband Mrs. Clinkenberd is survived by two children, Dorothy and Kenneth. The body is being brought to Lincoln and will arrive Sunday morning. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon at Henry Brown's chapel.

Many Mexicans Killed In Battle

NOGALES, Ariz., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Fifty-one Mexicans were killed in a close engagement between rebels and federal troops in the state of Nayarit, on the west coast of Mexico, according to William F. Blocker, American consul at Mazatlan, who is here today.

The fighting took place last week in the mountainous country near Ixtlan. Thirty-seven rebels were slain, while fourteen federal soldiers lost their lives. The government troops were commanded by General Beltran, a sub-general under General Figueroa, in command at Ixtlan.

WILL INVESTIGATE MINERS' CHARGES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—The senate interstate commerce committee, with but five members present, voted today to hold hearings on the Johnson resolution calling for an investigation of United Mine Workers' charges that the New York Central, Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads were engaged in an alleged "conspiracy" to beat down coal prices and miners' wages.

Hearings also were ordered on the Brookhart resolution for an inquiry into an alleged "movie trust." It was requested by the independent producers and theater owners.

A vote on the Walsh power trust investigation was postponed until Monday.

Monument Leap Fatal

BALTIMORE, Md., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—An unidentified man about 30 years old was instantly killed here today when he jumped from the top of the 180-foot Washington monument. He landed in a ten-foot snowbank and had to be dug out.

NORRIS RENEWS HIS CHARGE OF A 'POWER GRAB'

Assails American Cyanamid Co., Muscle Shoals Lease Proposal.

SAYS 'BIGGER GIFT THAN FORD SOUGHT'

Bid Defended by Chester H. Gray, American Farm Bureau Head.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Senator Norris of Nebraska today proposed that nitrate plant No. 2 at Muscle Shoals be leased to the American Cyanamid company, free of charge for fifty years in order to prove that the production of fertilizer there is a "scientific impossibility."

Norris assailed the cynamid company's bid for a fifty-year lease for the entire project, declaring its plan for manufacture of fertilizer at Muscle Shoals was being advanced simply as a cloak for a wholesale "grab."

The bid is incorporated in a bill introduced by Senator Willis of Ohio, and Representative Madden of Illinois.

The company wants the government to build additional dams for generating power and the Willis-Madden bill would appropriate $75,000,000 for this purpose.

Makes Charge at Hearing.

Norris charged at a hearing before the senate agriculture committee today that the bill would give the company sixteen times as much power as it needs for the manufacture of fertilizer.

"It would be a much bigger gift than the one sought by Henry Ford," he contended. "It would give the company one million horsepower for almost nothing."

Chester H. Gray, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, defended the bid on the ground that it would be a boon to the farmr. He declared it would provide a 4 per cent return to the government. Norris replied that the return would be only 2.6 per cent.

Norris has introduced a resolution calling for continued government operation of Muscle Shoals.

Holdup Rifles Cash Register While Partner Covers Proprietor.

Gun Held at Carlile's Back; Loot Mostly Currency.

While one bandit covered Paul Carlile with a gun his companion looted the cash register of Mr. Carlile's grocery store at 865 North Twenty-third street of $285.45 at 6:45 Saturday evening.

Both bandits escaped and Mr. Carlile, who was the only man in the store at the time of the holdup, was able to give only a very general description of the two holdups.

The loot consisted of a check for $4.14, about $30 in silver and the remainder in currency. All but $95 of the amount had been received during the day.

Mr. Carlile was standing in the rear of the store with his back towards the door when the two bandits entered. Before the proprietor could turn around one bandit shoved a gun against him, ordered him to "stick 'em up" and not to move. The second holdup man went directly to the cash register and took all of the contents but a little small change, and then left by the front door.

The bandit covering Mr. Carlile made him walk to the front door, then ordered the store owner to face to the rear and made his escape.

Mr. Carlile was unable to see whether the robbers left in a car or not. He told police both men were about 5 feet 7 inches tall and of medium build. One wore a gray overcoat and black cap and the other bandit had on a dark suit and cap but no overcoat.

Detective Towle and Officers Meyer, Schappaugh and Davis investigated.

A School Boy Takes 8 Shots At Girl's Dad

DURANT, Okla., Jan. 28—(U. P.) —Roy Underwood, 16 - year - old school boy of Colbert, near here, was held on a $2,000 bond tonight, charged with firing eight shots at H. G. Digman, who had taken the youth to task for writing notes to his daughter.

Digman had remonstrated with the youth for "bothering" his 12-year-old daughter in school. Underwood later accosted him and opened fire, but none of the shots was effective.

HEIRESS AND $26 A WEEK HUSBAND MAKE AN ESCAPE

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 —(I. N. S.) —An heiress to a $5,000,000 estate skipped across a series of roofs with her $26-a-week husband today to escape from a crowd of curiosity seekers.

Sybil Sayer Brown, niece of Jules Bache, banker, and Vincent Brown, New Jersey realty clerk, were the fugitives and they made their escape from a $17-a-week room where they planned to spend their honey-moon. The counle was married on Thursday, it was said today, while Sybil's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Bache, believed their daughter was preparing for a visit to friends in Europe.

PREPARE TAKE TESTIMONY IN HICKMAN TRIAL

Prosecution Announces It Will Accept Tentatively Chosen Jury.

Defense Attorney Walsh Lays Plans to Demand a New Trial.

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—The burden of proof that he was insane at the time he stole and slew Marion Parker will be thrust upon the shoulders of William Edward Hickman, when his trial for the kidnaping and murder of the 12-year-old school girl is resumed next Monday morning.

With three women and nine men tentatively chosen to sit in judgment upon Hickman, the way was paved today for the taking of testimony and the resumption of the trial by the announcement that the state is satisfied with the jury.

District Attorney Asa Keyes, who yesterday reserved the right to exercise his unused challenges, precluded the possibility of any further delay in swearing in the jurors by declaring the prosecution would accept them.

Defense attorneys already have passed the jury.

The California law, which requires the defense to offer its evidence of insanity before the state opens its case, will place Hickman's witnesses on the stand first.

Will Testify Youth Insane.

These witnesses will be called to testify that Hickman was crazy and did not know he was doing wrong when he lured Marion Parker from her school and put her to death.

A Decision on Remus Expected Wednesday

LIMA, O., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—George Remus, wife slayer and former "king of bootlegegers," will learn next Wednesday whether he is to go free or continue his confinement in the state hospital here until such time as officials consider him sane, according to indications today.

Hearing on a writ of habeas corpus, schedeuled to be filed Monday before Common Pleas Judge Fred C. Beckers, has been tentatively agreed upon for Wednesday.

Arrest Terrorists

PALERMO, Sicily, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)— Continuing the fascist government's vigorous campaign against the Sicilian Mafia society, agents today arrested ninety persons suspected of being members of that organization. The arrests were made at Alta Villa and Bagheria.

The backbone of the gang which terrorized Sicily for years was broken recently when more than one hundred persons, including many women, were sentenced to long terms of imprisonment after a trial at Termini which lasted several months.

Those arrested today were believed to have been stragglers of the larger group.

New Prescriptions

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—New physicians' liquor prescriptions, to guard against counterfeiting, were obtained today by Prohibition commission Doran.

Because a number of bootleggers were forging doctors prescriptions and druggists were having difficulty in keeping records of legitimate transactions, Doran ordered that all prescriptions be issued in duplicate.

Republican Presidential Candidate Declares Monroe Doctrine Will Collapse If American Devil Dogs Are Withdrawn From Republic In South—Necessary To Prevent Reign Of Terror And Bloodshed.

COLUMBUS, O., Jan. 28—(U. P.)—The Monroe Doctrine will collapse if American marines are withdrawn from Nicaragua, United States Senator Frank B. Willis declared here tonight, in an address at the state republican glee club banquet.

THE WEATHER.

CHICAGO, Jan. 22—The weather outlook for the period from January 30 to February 4, inclusive, follows.

Upper Mississippi and lower Missouri valleys: Temperature mostly moderate south portion and frequent alternations north portion; no general precipitation likely first half of week, but may occur toward close.

Nebraska: Somewhat unsettled Sunday and Monday; colder Sunday in west portion.

Kansas: Partly cloudy Sunday and Monday; slightly colder Sunday in northwest and north central portions.

IRISH PRESIDENT PAYS A VISIT TO VALLEY FORGE

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 28—(U. P.) —President William T. Cosgrave of the Irish Free State today was given a realistic impression of the Valley Forge which was used as a bivouac by the American army under Washington in the winter of 1776-77. He motored to the historic camping ground through a blinding blizzard.

He made the journey after placing a wreath on the statue of John Wanamaker in Penn square.

President Cosgrave was much impressed with the historic spots in Valley Forge and visited every point of interest. He returned to Philadelphia in the late afternoon and was guest at a reception at the Academy of Music, which was thronged with local notables, despite the blizzard. Tonight he was guest at a banquet in his honor by the Loyal Friends of St. Patrick.

Lancaster Hotel Company Renames Present Directors

The annual meeting of the board of directors of the Lancaster Hotel company, which owns and operates the Cornhusker hotel, was held Saturday.

All members of the board were reelected. They are Harry L. Weaver, president; J. Lionberger Davis of St. Louis, chairman of the board; R. E. Campbell, Don W. Stewart, and Theo H. Wigge of St. Louis.

Countess to Wed Englishman After Shooting at Him

LONDON, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)— The stormy romance of the Countess De Janze, formerly Alice Silverthorne of Chicago, and Raymond de Trafford, a wealthy young English sportsman, which almost resulted in violent death for both in Paris last March, will culminate very quietly at the altar in Paris within a short time, according to reports printed here this evening.

This unconfirmed announcement recalled the shooting at Paris last March when the countess fired a bullet into De Trafford's body, then shot herself. Later the countess was arraigned upon a minor charge and was acquitted.

Subsequently the count obtained a divorce.

BISHOP SENTENCED.

MOSCOW, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)— Bishop Skalsky, Polish Roman Catholic priest, today was sentenced to serve ten years' imprisonment upon being convicted of attempting to start a counter revolution.

BOAT RESCUES 4 FROM ISLE

Two Couples Are Marooned When Boat Springs Leak.

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 28—(INS)— Missing two days in their chartered fishing launch, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gorman of Philadelphia, and Mr. and Mrs. David Shipley, of Newark, N. J., were found on an isolated Florida key suffering from exposure and thirst by a passing ship today.

The two couples were stranded when their boat sprang a leak and they were forced to put in for land.

The banquet was in the form of a political rally commemorating the birthday anniversary of President William McKinley. It was the first Ohio speech Willis has made since announcing his candidacy for the republican presidential nomination.

Willis touched on the present tariffs and France's attitude toward disarmament, but centered chiefely on the administration's Nicaraguan policy, which he asserted was sound.

Policy Defended.

"We are in Nicaragua because we were asked to prevent a reign of terror and bloodshed during the Nicaraguan general election," Willis declared. He denounced as without foundation criticism of the administration policy as imperialistic

Willis said that without the protection afforded by the United States, any so-called election in Nicaragua would simply be an expression of the law of the mob.

He denied the government sent marines to Nicaragua to protect American financial interests.

"Our withdrawal from Nicaragua," Willis continued, "would endanger the lives of American citizens. Furthermore, because of the Monroe Doctrine, we would have certain obligations in Central America.

At Mercy of Bandits.

"Foreign governments have called us to protect their citizens. If we abandon this, citizens would be left to the tender mercies of the bandits. With the landing of European forces

PROBERS READY HEAR STEWART

Continental Trading Co., Story May Be Revealed Soon.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(U. P.) —The long concealed story of the mysterious Continental Trading Co. of Canada may be revealed to the senate Teapot Dome committee next week by Col. Robert W. Stewart, head of the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, committee members were reliably informed tonight.

Stewart is on his way back from Havana and is preparing, the United Press, was informed, to tell for the first time about information of the company, which made $3,000,000 profit in one oil deal—and then lost all its records. He is to appear at the resumption of the investigation Tuesday.

This is expected to bring to light a second new chapter in the oil scandals to match the sensational story told this week by M. T. Everhart, son-in-law of former secretary of the interior Fall. Everhart disclosed he had taken $233,000 in Liberty bonds to Fall from Harry F. Sinclair, oil man, who leased Teapot Dome from Fall.

Other witnesses called for Tuesday include:

B. G. Dawes, brother of Vice President Dawes, and head of the Pure Oil Co.; A. E. Humphreys, jr., Denver; E. G. Seubert, president of the Standard Oil Co., of Indiana; J. G. Clark, Denver, of the Midwest Refining Co., and A. L. Carlson, Tulsa, Okla., secretary of the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Co.

COUNTERFEITING MACHINE LANDS OWNER IN JAIL

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—An offer to sell for $2,000 the secret of making $20 bills from blank paper, landed Emil Brown, 33, in a cell here.

According to police, Brown, who also is known by the aliases of Leo Singer, L. E. Webber and Oscar Miller, is wanted on similar charges in San Francisco, Joplin, Mo., Salt Lake City and Chicago.

Brown was arrested by Sergeants William Cascadden and James Hoye, who by previous arrangement hid in an adjoining room as Brown was demonstrating the machine to George Schuster, 40, who runs a soft drink parlor here. Brown had offered to sell Schuster the "secret" for $2,000.

SCHOOL EXPENSE LESS PAST YEAR

Enrollment and Attendance of Pupils Also Declined in 1926-27.

Census of Children and Number of Districts Show Increases.

Public school revenues and expenditures in Nebraska during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1927, declined somewhat as compared with the preceding year, along with enrollment and attendance of pupils. The number of one-room schools operated in rural territory was also less than before, due largely to the consolidations; but in the towns and the larger country districts there were more. These are among the facts disclosed by State Superintendent Taylor's annual summary, just compiled.

The school census of the state (children between the ages of 5 and 21) registered a small gain, from 415,053 in 1926 to 415,131 last year. There were also a few more districts—7,065 as compared with 7,052 in the previous annum. School building increased in number from 7,653 to 7,659, the gain being almost entirely in municipal areas.

Enrollment in all the common schools decreased from 327,472 to 317,659, while average daily attendance fell off from 267,833 to 263,985.

Attendance in city and village schools came nearer keeping up with 1926 than in the rural districts. The former show an average of 175,397 last year, being a loss of 1,077 from the year preceding. In the country, the daily record for 1927 was 88,588, or 2,771 below 1926.

The number of rural schools operated last year was 6,056, being 129 fewer than the year before. Graded schools increased by eight to a total of 889. There were seventeen more accredited high schools, the total being 473.

Attendance of tuition students in high schools increased from 17,251 to 18,467.

Some Teacher Statistics.

Country schools in 1927 employed 6,786 teachers, which was 152 fewer than during the previous year. In the graded schools, 7,709 teachers were on duty, that number being 136 more than in 1926. Accredited high schools had a combined teaching staff of 3,231, an increase of 492.

There were 1,682 men teachers in service and 12,813 women, being a gain of forty for the men and a loss of fifty-six for the women.

The average yearly salary paid to men instructors in cities and villages last year was $1,223.45, while women drew an average stipend of $1,210.53. Comparative figures in this instance are valueless, as school superintendents were included with teachers in 1926, while the figures for 1927 are for teachers alone, including principals who perform instructional duty.

Wages of rural men teachers advanced from $797.24 two years ago to $882.20 last year, as an average. Those of women, on the other hand, declined from $797.59 to $753.10.

The number of normal training high schools, which carry courses to fit teachers for country schools, was 239 last year, a decrease of four from the year before; but their student enrolment went up 159 to a total of 5,595. Graduates of these courses numbered 2,595, an increase of 561.

Fifty-six schools received state and federal aid under the Smith-Hughes law for agricultural instruction, and sixty-four in home economics. This was five more of the former but one fewer of the latter, than in 1926.

Finances of the Schools.

Income of the public schools from all sources diminished by over 1¼ millions of dollars in 1927. Receipts ottaled $35,860,434 as against $37,151,921 the year before.

The year's outlay aggregated $30,892,072, compared with $31,200,710, a decrease of $308,638.

Expenditures of city and village schools came to $23,543,692; those of rural schools amounted to $7,348,380.

The cost per pupil, based on total enrollment, was $118.43 in cities and villages, $61.82 in rural districts, and $97.25 for all combined.

On the basis of average daily attendance, the cost per pupil was $134.23 in town schools, $82.95 in the country, and $117.02 for the state as a whole.

City and village schools received funds, while the rural districts got $518,252 from that source.

Tax levies yielded $15,251,513 for urban schools and $6,116,654 for those in country districts.

City and village schools derived $4,512,123 from borrowed money and sale of bonds during the year. Rural schools realized $221,639 from that source.

The gross sum of $9,372,854 was paid to city and village teachers in salaries. Of that amount, $7,795,826 went to women instructors and $1,577,028 to men.

Rural teachers drew $5,139,350, of which all but a comparatively smal amount was earned by women.

ANDERSON TALKS TO COUNTY BAR

Differences in Kansas and Nebraska Legal Practice Discussed.

Roland Max Anderson addressed seventy-five members of the Lancaster Bar association at dinner in the Lincoln hotel Saturday evening on the differences in Kansas and Nebraska legal practice.

Attorneys in the southern state, he said, are enthusiastic over a newly-formed judicial council, composed of prominent judges, practicing lawyers, and legislators, which each year sifts scores of suggestions on improved procedure and reports to the governor with recommendations for changes.

Much blame that wrongfully rests on the legal profession, he asserted, is removed by this council and placed on shoulders more fit to bear it. In its first annual report, for instance, the council wrote that 36 per cent of the cases filed in Kansas courts were disposed of in ten days, another 24 per cent in thirty days, and but thirty-six petitions out of the thousands recorded went over for more than a month without judicial action.

Members of the council as.. that editors, civic groups, farmers organizations and anyone else submit suggestions for betterment of the statutes.

Mr. Anderson mentioned that the court has now been on that bench chief justice of the Kansas Supreme about sixty-three years and in his present position more than fifty years. Before going into technical details on several differences in Kansas and Nebraska procedure, such as the declaratory judgment law, the speaker paid tribute to the "integrity courtesy and perspicacity" of Nebraska lawyers. For a number of years he practiced in Kansas but during the past six months has been located in Lincoln.

Chamberlin Makes Hop Through Snow

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 28—(U. P.)— A snow-encrusted airplane dropped down on Middletown army field here today and Clarence Chamberlin, trans-Atlantic flier, stepped out into eight inches of snow, after a heavy wind from the west helped the tiny Sperry biplane.

Chamberlin will spend the night here and tomorrow morning, weather permitting, will take off for New York.

BANK REPORTS ON NEW FORM

Secretary Bliss Compiles Blanks Calling For More Detailed Data.

Latest Schedule Combines Best Features Of Many Systems.

Beginning this week, all examiners working for the Nebraska banking bureau will make their reports to it on blanks calling for more detailed and complete data regarding the condition of every bank inspected than have been in service heretofore. The schedules to be used and the objects to be gained thereby were explained by State Trade and Commerce Secretary Clarence G. Bliss at a conference with the thirteen field men, held Saturday at his office.

About six months ago, Secretary Bliss wrote to the banking commissioner of each state in the union, and also to the comptroller of the currency of the national bank system requesting that they furnish him a complete set of their bank examination forms. Upon receipt of these forms, several months were spent in a thorough study and by combining their best features a new set of examination blanks, which is regarded as the most complete and thoroughgoing in use anywhere was developed.

Furnish More Information.

Secretary Bliss says that the new system of making and filing reports will furnish the office much more information than the old forms did. They are to be made up by the examiner on a typewriter in triplicate. The original copy is filed with the banking department, one copy goes to the bank being examined, and the other copy is kept for the examiner's file.

There had been very little change in the examiner's forms in Nebraska for the past twenty-five years and as the supply of old ones was nearly exhausted and it was necessary to replenish them, Mr. Bliss thought it an opportune time to make a change without creating any unwarranted extra expense.

It has been suggested from time to time that one of the causes of bank failures was the lack of proper examinations. Secretary Bliss feels that the change now being made will enable the banking bureau to keep closer tab on the condition of each individual bank than in the past.

"With the aid of these blanks, evolved from the best ideas gained in a study of forms used by all other states and the federal government, supplemented by the requirements of our own state bank laws, I feel that there is no better examination form being used in the whole country, and if banks fail it will not be through lack of thorough examinations," he declared.

The following examiners were in attendance and received instructions as to how their reports should be made henceforth:

NOTED WELFARE WORKER TO TALK AT GRAND HOTEL

Lincoln social welfare workers will have the opportunity of hearing one of the outstanding young men in social service fields of this country in the person of Orville Robertson, who will address the annual meeting of the Social Welfare society at the Grand hotel Tuesday night, C. B. Anderson, president of the society will preside.

Mr. Robertson is general secretary of the associated charities of Omaha, having taken the position a month ago. He was formerly a social welfare executive at Duluth, Minn., where he served for two and a half years. He assisted in organizing the council of social agencies at Duluth and was president of the Duluth social workers club. He was also a member of the executive committee of the Minnesota state conference of social work.

As evidence of Mr. Robertson's national recognition he was made a member of the national committee on social service training and chairman of the 1928 program committee of the national organization of family welfare societies. He is a senior member of the American association of social workers.

MY PLATFORM

In filing for the nomination for Congress in the First District on the Democratic ticket I have but one purpose in view. I want to help the farmer get on a sound business basis. The ultimate goal of the farmer, now that he has increased and diversified production, is to sell his produce for a profit. This means that the price must be fixed upon a cost of production basis. That is the basis upon which practically every other business is operated, and is the only sound, sensible, and paying basis for any business.

Two economic laws control the price of every article of commerce: the law of cost of production and the law of supply and demand. Adam Smith in his "Wealth of Nations" calls one the natural price and the other the market price, and goes on to say that whenever the market price falls below the natural price a hardship is worked upon the producer. The aim, therefore, of every business is to operate upon a cost of production, or budget basis, and to get out from under the competitive and destructive effects of the law of supply and demand. Nearly every other branch of industry and labor has been helped by the Government to make this change through such legislation as the tariff, the Esch-Cummings act, the Immigration law and the Federal Reserve law. These enactments have had to do with competition, either at home or abroad, and the handling of surpluses. The farmer is the last to attempt to make this change, and I believe that he is entitled to the same consideration and help from the Government that other business and labor have had.

The problem of the farmer now is not so much the raising of the grain as the selling of it at a profitable price. The man who produces and owns the grain ought to have something to say about the price. Under present conditions he has nothing to say about it. Not only that, but the price as now fixed by the Chicago Board of Trade is not based upon any economic law, but a mere matter of speculation. The price rises or falls as the gamble goes. This must be changed if the farmer is ever to get upon a cost of production basis. The first step in putting agriculture upon a sound business basis is to pass a law that to sell on the Board one must have the grain or a warehouse receipt for it. Gambling in the property of the farmer must cease. No other business could succeed under such conditions, and no other business allows it. The farmer is not only subject to the competition of his neighbors who have grain to sell, but has to meet the competition of those who have no grain but are allowed to sell on the board something they do not have. It is gambling pure and simple, and gambling is a relic of barbarism. That is the difference between civilization and barbarism: in barbarism one takes without paying or giving any service; in civilization one refuses to take without giving compensation or service. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back is the modern merchant's way of expressing this fact.

Price fixing is the most important element in farm relief. If you are dissatisfied with the present method of fixing the price of grain and want to see the farmer have something to say about it, you can vote for me for I will strive to have that made possible; if you think the farmer should have an economic price for his produce, a price based upon cost of production plus a profit, then too you can give me your support for I will labor to that end. Just what legislation will be necessary to enable these results to be achieved one cannot say at this time, but some law dealing with the handling of surpluses, probably some form of the McNary-Haugen Bill will have to be passed, and I stand for something of that kind.

In this world we go forward step by step, but often before we can start we must remove some obstruction. I think the big obstacle to co-operative marketing is the present rule of the Board of Trade allowing the sale of grain by those who have no grain. No holding of grain for a price can be effective so long as this rule is in force. Though no grain goes to market the price is broken every day. This is the cross upon which the farmer is being crucified. No price is economic or just which does not take into consideration the cost of production. To get upon a profitable basis the farmer must sell for more than it costs him to produce. This is simply sane, sound business sense. In other words, the farmer must get upon a a cost of production basis. Other businesses and labor have been helped by the Government to gain this end, and the farmer is entitled to the same consideration from the Government. If a protective price is all right for the manufacturer, why isn't it all right for the farmer?

...what we are doing!

Having taken over Mayer Bros. Company's store at the retirement from same of Mr. Eli Shire, we put on a Clean Sweep Event to dispose of the remainder of the stock on hand.

It will take about two weeks more to accomplish this, in the meantime, our buyers on their way to the New York markets, together with our New York buying office are assembling new stocks of merchandise for the opening of Mayer Bros. Company's store under the new management.

The new merchandise that is being selected will be of the very best quality, the newest styles and will be presented at prices you will be glad to pay.

While this Clean Sweep Event is going on, there are carpenters, painters, electricians, plumbers and other workmen renovating this building from cellar to roof, ----painting and reconstructing fixtures--in fact, when all have been completed, we will present to you Mayer Bros. Company store under the new regime. We feel that you, as well as ourselves, will be justly proud.

Everything about Mayer Bros. Company's store will be new, spick and span, all except Mayer Bros. Company's organization which will remain exactly as before except that Mr. A. L. Resneck has taken the place of Mr. Eli Shire.

The new management will continue all the good policies that were in force and will endeavor to strengthen others that may not have been to your satisfaction.

To all charge customers of Mayer Bros. Company, and the many new ones we hope to make, we extend a standing invitation to visit this store often and make regular use of the conveniences and privileges of our charge services.

The fact that we have invested over $200,000 in this business is your guarantee of our faith in the future of this store and our confidence in the people of Lincoln and Nebraska.

This will be a bigger and better first class store with quality merchandise, standard new styles when they are NEW, and sold at prices that will make a reasonable profit and at the same time give you the utmost for every dollar you spend.

We are here to grow with A Greater Lincoln, to gain your confidence and merit it by our untiring efforts.

STOCK PRICES RISE SHARPLY AFTER A DROP

Reaction Follows Heavy Selling Due Rediscount Rate Boost.

Commercial Results Of Past Week Reports Encouraging.

BY W. S. COUSINS.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—For the first time since the latter part of 1926 the rediscount rates of two of the Federal Reserve banks were revised upward this week. Coming as a surprise to the financial and speculative markets, the advance in the Chicago bank rate to 4 per cent precipitated heavy selling of stocks on Wednesday, with headlong declines in prices, but Wall Street took the view that the raising of the Chicago rate was simply the restoration of the rediscount basis for which that bank has contended since the forced cut in its rate last year, and a reassuring statement from the treasury department fairly substantiated that view.

The sharp rally in prices at the weekend was led by the independent steels and a few motors. Since the steel companies marked up prices or plates, snapes and bars a dollar a ton there has been a wider acceptance of the belief that the earnings would be larger this year and this was substantiated by the heavy influx of orders for railroad equipment, construction and motors.

The commercial results of the week were encouraging, according to the weekend business reviews. Dun's review reported a gradual widening of the circle of expansion, due in part to the wilingness of manufacturers and distributors to make more liberal future commitments. Bradstreet finds improvement in the industrial reports of the week in the iron and steel trade, where the influx of new buying has been unusually heavy.

A Broad Expansion.

The remarkable rise in industrial specialty stock prices has its basis in the broad expansion of investment buying in the last two or three years. Thousands of shares of the stocks of American enterprises have been taken out of the market by private investors, investment trusts and investing institutions of various kinds, to be withheld from active trading buyers were inclined to hold off for the lower prices.

The trend of prices in the wholesale comomdity markets was downward. Dun's review reporting forty declines and twenty-eight advances in sixty-eight price changes. Bradstreet's food index number, the sum total of the prices per pound of thirty-one articles of food, is $3.34, unchanged from last week, and comparing with $3.50 in the corresponding week of last year.

Bank clearings for the week aggregated $10,495,315,000, a gain of 10.8 per cent over the same week of 1927.

Grains Close Lower.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Grains closed lower than a week ago. Wheat was off ¾c to ⅞c; corn, 1c to 1¼c, and oats, ⅞c to 1¼c.

Today's prices were ¾c to ⅞c higher for wheat, unchanged to ⅛c lower for corn and ⅛c higher for oats.

Wheat displayed heaviness most of the week, in line with business at foreign markets, poor outside support and reports from Canada that thep resent total estimates of stocks there would exceed those of a year ago by 50,000,000 bushels. The domestic demand was fair and export trade slow. However, there was not much pressure to sell wheat.

Covering by shorts and buy by bulls on reports of crop deterioriation from severe weather conditions in Illinois caused firmness in wheat, while corn was up on buying on reports of export sales.

The bearish sentiment in corn resulted from reports of increased movement following the heavy country acceptances of last week.

Hog Market Steady.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Hogs finished on a par with a week ago, steers steady to 25c lower, cows 25c to 40c lower, lambs 50c higher.

Hogs sold actively most of the week in spite of larger receipts which were estimated at 275,000, against 257,000 last week and 178,000 a year ago. Shippers were the best buyers, especially today, when they boosted prices 10c in buying up the light supply of 12,000, which included a 7,000-holdover. Good hogs sold at the narrow range of $8.00 to $8.35. Top was $8.40. Light hogs brought $7.75 to $8.00; pigs, $7.00 to $7.85; packing sows sold at, $7.00 to $7.65.

Choice steers sold slowly as buyers say they are unable to sell the high-priced beef freely and are getting away from the big heavy steers as much as possible. Top for the week was $18.25, with very few sales higher than $17.00, with the bulk at $12.00 to $15.00. The plain and medium grades sold quite actively. Common lightweight steers were scarce because of a strong feeder competition for anything that was fit to be sent back to the country. Receipts for the week totalled 46,000, against 47,000 last week and 59,000 a year ago.

Big heavy cows finished at $8.50 to $10.50. The cheaper cows sold at $6.25 to $7.75. Canners and cutters sold steady at $5.00 to $6.25. There was a good outlet for fat heifers at $11.00 to $13.50. Calves closed steady with a week ago. Light and medium weight vealers sold at $12.50 to $14.00. Stockers and feeders were stronger all week at $9.00 to $12.65, the highest of the season.

Sheep receipts for the week were 79,000, against 68,000 last week and 90,000 a year ago. The market was active and better all week for lambs. Not many of the farm-fed lambs from $13.00 to $13.50. Feeder lambs moved at $12.50 to $13.50. Ewes sold actively at $6.00 to $8.25, which is 50c higher.

Cotton Prices Drop.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Cotton finished from 73 to 113 points under a week ago. Further mill curtailment, poor goods trade and larger government cotton ginning figures than had been expected caused the sharp break here.

Today's closing prices were from 23 to 35 points lower. March closed at 17.33c, down 34; May 17.35c, down 25; July 17.26c, down 35; October $17.10c, down 20.

Dedication of United Presbyterian Church.

Left—The First United Presbyterian church which is to be dedicated Sunday morning. It was recently completed at a cost of $27,000, at the northeast corner of Trity-fifth and F streets.
Right—Rev. S. M. Morrow, pastor of the church.

The new First United Presbyterian church edifice at Thirty-fifth and F streets has been completed and will be dedicated Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. S. M. Morrow is the pastor, and R. E. Park, superintendent of the Sunday school.

The services today are the climax of five days of meetings, beginning Wednesday evening, "Home Folks" night. Thursday evening was "Community Folks" night and the young people were in charge Friday night.

The dedicatory sermon will be preached by Rev. W. P. McGarey, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church at Kansas City. He will also preach at night.

The First United Presbyterian organization is thirty-seven years old, the church being organized in 1890. Rev. O. S. Morrow was the pastor. The first church was the building recently abandoned at the southwest corner of Sixteenth and R streets. It was dedicated May 14, 1893.

Award Contract August 11.

The contract for the new building was awarded August 11, last year and the cornerstone laid September 18.

The Sunday morning program follows: Prelude; Doxology, and invocation.

Singing—Dudley Buck's anthem, Te Deum, quartet.
Scripture reading, and vocal solo by John Carnahan.
Pastoral prayer, announcements and offertory.

York county: 170 acres, W. V. Powell estate at auction sale to Ray Boulton, for $126.25 an acre.

MORAL LEVELS IN CITIES NOT LOWER, DECLARES KNEIER

Prevalence of vice in cities does not necessarily indicate that the urban population is on a lower moral level than that of the country, C. M. Kneier, assistant professor of political science, said in a radio talk last week.

"There is no evidence that vice has any particular hold on city people," Professor Kneier said, "and it seems to me that the excess of crime in cities is of no great significance. It is questionable whether this crime shows that cities breed criminals, that the excess is probably due to the greater opportunities offered by the cities for carrying on crime, especially crime against property.

"However, since the city is a fertile field for crime, and those with such inclinations go there to ply their trade, the American city must face the situation and provide a police force adequate to cope with the lawless element."

City government alone, Professor Kneier said, will not solve municipal problems. "Since it is the people themselves who operate this governmental mechanism, and in turn, it is upon them that it operates, the social structure of the city must be considered as well as the functions to be performed by the government."

CHURCH SCHOOLS TRAIN TEACHERS

Classes in Religious Leadership Will Start Sunday in Four Different Sections of City.

Four schools in religious leadership will be started in as many sections of the city this week. One will be at Bethany, another at Grace Methodist church, and a third at Tabernacle Christian. Twenty-second and South streets. The fourth will be at the First Presbyterian church, Seventeenth and F streets.

The Bethany school will be at the Christian church. It begins Sunday afternoon at 3 and will continue through the week. "The Pupil," "Junior Materials and Methods," and "Church School Administration," will be the subjects.

At Grace Methodist, Twenty-seventh and R streets, the subjects are "Principles of Teaching," "Primary Department Administration," "Intermediate Methods and Materials," and "Church History." Classes are on Monday nights for six weeks.

The school at Tabernacle Christian also continues six weeks, beginning Tuesday night.

Miss Etta Warner, an experienced story teller will be in charge of the story-telling class. The purpose of the course is to teach story-telling. Appreciation of story-telling art as a means to character building, the way to test story material, and helping a child to express the story, also will be taught.

Other courses include "Old Testament," by Rev. Carl Wilhelm, and the "Message and Program of the Christian Religion," by Rev. Sears F. Piepma. Prof. F. M. Gregg is in charge of the study on "Later Childhood."

The First Presbyterian school opens Wednesday night and continues the same evening each week for six weeks. Circle No. 1 will serve and the subjects are "The Business of Missions," "New Paths for Old Purposes," "Our Church and the Spread of the Kingdom," "Young Japan," and "Our Japanese Friends."

All schools are open to anyone, and interdenominational credit will be given.

University Notes

A painting by Charles Schwartz, formerly a resident of Omaha, has just been installed in the permanent collection of the Nebraska Art association, hanging in the corridors of the school of fine arts, Morrill hall. It is "The Tents of Illusions," and was among the collection exhibited in Morrill hall by Mr. Schwartz at the time of the convention of the American Federation of Arts last November.

Prof. J. P. Senning of the department of political science gave the first of a series of lectures, "An Examination of State Administration in Nebraska," before the Women's clubs of Omaha Friday. The beginning lecture was on "The Jacksonian Conception of Democracy and Administration." Those to follow will take up "Government as a Business Corporation," "Adjusting the Machinery of Government to Twentieth Century Needs," "Evaluation of the Administrative Organization of Nebraska Since 1919," and "The Next Step in Administrative Organization in Nebraska."

Dr. Herman G. James, professor of political science and dean of the college of arts and sciences, who has been appointed special advisor to the charter committee which will draft suggestions for a revision of Lincoln's municipal government, is the author of a book on municipal administration and has had much experience in such problems. Dean James served on the city charter commission of Texas and drafted the city charter which was adopted there as a model. This charter, which carries the city-manager feature, has been adopted by Austin, Tex. Dean James was also a member of the committee of the National Municipal League to develop the technique of drafting city charters.

Dean O. J. Ferguson, Prof. C. C. Engberg, and Prof. O. W. Sjogren have been appointed a committee to select one or two students to compete for the award in May of twenty traveling fellowships by the American-Scandinavian foundation. The fellowships are of $1,000 each and offer opportunities for engineering study and research in Scandinavian countries. Albert P. Strom, of Wahoo, a graduate of the college of engineering in 1926, was the holder of one of these scholarships. He is now an instructor in electrical engineering at Purdue university.

Among recent visitors at the college of engineering were: Gilbert R. Fish, civil engineering '27, now with the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey; Jacob D. Gavenman, civil, '21, superintendent of the Metropolitan Construction company at Omaha; and Alvin A. Steel, civil, '99, of Parma, Idaho.

Leroy S. Lambert, a graduate in electrical engineering in 1912, assistant to the president, Northwestern Bell company of Omaha, and Col. R. I. Reese, vice-president of the same firm, were visitors at the college of engineering Thursday, and entertained at a luncheon at the Cornhusker hotel for Dean O. J. Ferguson and Professors J. W. Haney, V. L. Hollister, and O. E. Edison. From the college of business administration Dean J. E. LeRossignol, Prof. O. R. Martin, and Prof. T. T. Bullock were guests at the luncheon.

Prof. Paul H. Grummann, director of the school of fine arts, has been made educational director of the temple tours for the Missouri valley district. The purpose of the tours is to acquaint people with the art activities of Europe, and are conducted especially during the summer vacation months.

Prof. F. S. Bukey of the college of pharmacy spoke to the Beatrice Rotary club January 19 on the problem of the corn borer and its control. Professor Bukey spent last summer at the Ohio state corn borer laboratory at Oak Harbor, which is in the highest infested area in the United States. During the present year he has been working on the isolation of the odoriferous principle in green corn which workers believe to be one of the substances which attracts the corn borer moth.

Dean J. E. LeRossignol of the college of business administration has been appointed a member of the advisory committee which will assist the federal bureau of education, of the United States department of the interior, to make a survey of land-grant colleges and universities in the United States. The aspect of the survey in which Dean LeRossignol will be interested is the study of instruction in commerce and business in these colleges.

Dean J. E. LeRossignol's class in labor problems and Prof. C. E. McNeill's class in economics for engineers, an audience of about 80 students, heard an address on January 20 by Joseph Gilbert, editor of the Nebraska Craftsman. Mr. Gilbert spoke on the company union with special reference to the Rockefeller plan in the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and the dispute that is now going on between the Interborough Rapid Transit company of New York and some of its employes who wish to be affiliated with the American Federation of Labor. After Mr. Gilbert's address, Edward Bunting of London, a manufacturer, spoke, taking the opposite side from Mr. Gilbert and explaining the troubles which English manufacturers have had with labor unions. Mr. Bunting is a brother of Prof. Albert E. Bunting of the college of engineering and is visiting in this country.

Dr. C. J. Frankforter of the department of chemistry will speak before a meeting of district engineers Tuesday evening at the Grand hotel. The meeting will be sponsored by the Nebraska Culvert and Manufacturing company of Wahoo. A film, "Production of Iron and Steel" will be shown, and Dr. Frankforter will speak on "The History and Production of Iron."

A motion picture, "The Geysers of Yellowstone National Park," prefaced by a talk on geysers, is the feature of the museum program at Morrill hall Sunday afternoon. C. B. Schultz will give the talk.

AMITY MARKS FIRST PART OF HAVANA PARLEY

between the countries of the Western Hemisphere in agriculture, forestry and animal raising.

In addition, it is expected a large variety of other projects, including those for improvement of hygienic and social conditions in the Americas, will take form before the conference ends.

Nicaragua Holds Stage.

HAVANA, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Revolution, that hardy, perennial indigenous to Central America, came before the sixth Pan-American conference here today for vivisection, with Nicaragua, the little country in which the plant has shown most recent development, holding the center of attraction.

Seasoned by recent experience, the two delegates from Nicaragua were able repeatedly to give other delegates to the conference practical suggestions for attempting to root out the evil from the Western hemisphere.

The most important suggestion put forward was one designed to prohibit shipments of arms, munitions, recruits or other form of aid to a revolutionary movement in another country. This suggestion had particular reference to Mexico because of the alleged shipment of arms and munitions from Mexico to the Sacasa revolutionary element in Nicaragua during the uprising in Nicaragua a year ago.

Adopted Without Protest.

This suggestion, in the form of a resolution, which was adopted without protest, was offered immediately after the reading of the first article of the recommendations approved last year by the meeting of international commission of jurists at Rio de Janeiro, dealing with the "obligations of states in event of civil war." Dr. Fernando Gonzales Roa of Mexico, read this report to the commission on international law and as soon as the end of the first article was reached Dr. Maximo Zepeda of Nicaragua, was on his feet with a motion to amend.

The original proposals, Dr. Zepeda pointed out, pledged the governments only to prohibit revolutionary forces from "crossing the frontier." This, he declared, was not sufficient.

Without specifically mentioning the aid given to the Sacasa forces, Dr. Zepeda asserted that there should also be a strict prohibition against the "embarkation of ships carrying men and munitions of war for the military forces" of the rebels.

Omaha sustained structural losses of $363,466 within the annum, on buildings valued at $8,790,740 and insured for $5,454,050. Contents and other personal property were burned amounting to $288,554, out of a total of $6,870,286 exposed to fire hazard, on which the total insurance was $6,067,151.

Fire Marshal Trouton estimates that 20 per cent of all blazes occurring in the state were of incendiary origin. In many cases it is diffcult to prove arson where the crcumstances strongly point to it. The fire marshal urges that evidence of any kind indicating incendiarism be left untouched until it ca be photographed for evidential purposes.

LORD SACKVILLE DEAD.

LONDON, Jan. 29—(I. N. S.)—Lord Sackville, member of one of England's best known families and prominent in social and military circles, died today at the age of 60.

Plan Vigorous Fight On 'Al'

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Pulling on its fighting clothes, the republican party, at a conference here today of leaders and county chairmen, selected the "Big Seven" delegates-at-large to the republican national convention next June, and laid plans to give Gov. Al Smith the greatest battle of his political career in New York state in the event he is nominated for president by the democrats.

Despite the fact that here was all kinds of Hoover-for-president talk in the hotel lobby before the conference opened, the leaders went on record in favor of sending the New York delegation uninstructed to the republican national convention next June.

Nye Warns Both Parties.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—(U. P.)—Senator Gerald P. Nye, North Dakota, predicted tonight that the leaders of both parties would prevent distinct issues being placed before the voters n the 1928 campaign. He spoke before the Westchester County Bankers' associatonsi at the Commodore hotel.

Nye criticised the administration's Nicaraguan policy and asserted that unless the farm relief situation is met and remedied, a new political alignment "which you people in the east seem to believe impossible," will be created.

WILLIS WARNS AGAINST RETURN OF U. S. MARINES

in the Isthmian country the Monroe doctrine would be at an end.

"To have European states establish themselves at various points in Central America would endanger our control of the Panama canal," Willis said, "and would be in violation of everything that we have done for more than 100 years."

Willis said the "old-fashioned doctrine of tariff for the protection of American industries must remain one of the cardinal doctrines of the party."

Lull in Nicaragua.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—A lul has developed in the skirmishing between United States marines and Nicaraguan rebels under Gen. Augustino Sandino.

According to word received here this evening, the marines in the El Chipote district have lost conatct with the rebels owing to the fact that the small rebel bands have withdrawn into the dense jungles where there were no trails.

The whereabouts of Sandino has developed into a mystery. Marine officers are now confident that he is still alive, although he may be wounded. Native and rebel stragglers who were arrested protested ignorance of the whereabout of Sandino.

Marine aviators continue to make wide reconnaissances over the whole district around El Chipote mountain, but have not seen any large organized bands.

It was reported from Corinto that Maj. Gen. John A. LeJeuene, commandant of the marine corps, sailed for theq Panama Canal zone today upon the U. S. cruiser Rochester. He has made an extensive investigation of the situation in Nicaragua and said he was well satisfied.

HEART TROUBLE FATAL.

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., Jan. 28—C. L. Teague, station agent at Sabetha, Kas., for the St. Joseph & Grand Island railroad, dropped dead at his home from an attack of heart trouble, according to word received here. He was formerly agent for the company at Home City. He had been in the service of the road for twenty years or more.

NORRIS RENEWS HIS CHARGE OF A 'POWER GRAB'

proposal was blocked by Senator Heflin, deemoecrat of Alabama, who asked that the cyanamid company be given time to consider it. An executive meeting was called for next week to consider the Norris plan and vote on the Willis-Madden bill.

Johnson Optimistic.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Prediction that the senate irrigation committee would favorably report the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill within ten days was made tonight by Senator Johnson, republican of California, co-author of the bill.

A similar forecast was made by Representative Smith, republican of Idaho, chairman of the house irrigation committee, with respect to the action of his committee.

Public hearings on the Swing-Johnson plan lasted several weeks. State officials and other Arizona citizens attacked the bill at the hearings on the ground that Arizona would not receive a fair portion of the water and power rights to be distributed among seven states under the proposed legislation.

California representatives played a leading role in defending the bill.

In the opinion of Secretary of the Interior Work, neither Arizona nor Nevada should be permitted to derive revenue from the sale of power generated at Boulder dam until the federal government's investment in the project has been amortized. He made known his views on the subject in a letter to Senator Johnson, which was made public today.

MANY MEXICAN NUNS DEPORTED

a drastic attempt to enforce the new religious laws of the state, officials pointed out.

The bishop was one of the most militant leaders of the Catholic cause.

According to the police, he returned secretly, taking up his residence in this city, ostensibly to incite rebellion. Secret police reportported that the prelate had been in communication with the liberator rebels in Jalisco and also with agents who were attempting to procure arms and munitions for the insurgents.

Leaders of the religious faction will strive hard for a compromize of some sort or other before the end of President's Calles' term next December. They feel that they stand a better chance of arranging satisfactory terms with President Calles than they would with Gen. Alvaro Obregon, who will undoubtedly be President Calles' successor.

Priests Jailed In 1915.

It was pointed out that in 1915 when General Obregon was in command here all the priests in the city was imprisoned. Clericals also accuse General Obregon of allowing church property to be looted.

One of the outstanding issues between the church and the state is the presidential decree of July 2, 1926, calling for the enrollment of all priests with the municipal authorities. The hierarchy objected strenuously to this measure, claiming that enforcement would put control of the priesthood under the secular authorities.

Only registered priests were allowed to conduct services under this decree.

Priests and nuns taken in recent raids in this city will be charged with conducting religious services without permits from the authorities. The lay prisoners will only be fined, but more drastic sentences probably will be imposed upon the clericals.

Indications are that the struggle is approaching a crisis, although its climax may not be reached for some months.

Raid Alleged K. C. Headquarters.

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Jan. 28—(U. P.)—Scenes reminiscent of July, 1926, when Mexico's restrictive church rules became effective, were re-enacted at police headquarters today.

While police questioned Catholics whom they sought to connect with rebellions outside the capital, anxious and weeping relatives of those detained filled the station house. The scene at police headquarters was only one of many occurrences during the day which caused sensational interest in what appeared to be a renewal of the campaign against alleged anti-government movements.

A raid on the alleged headquarters of the Knights of Columbus had occurred earlier. A quantity of documents said by raiders to be seditious were seized, but the place was deserted.

Question Six Priests.

Six priests taken earlier were held for further questioning at headquarters, also was Senorita Gargarita Lascuraln, a prominent Catholic woman. Earlier reports had said she was president of the League of Catholic Women; but these later were denied.

Reports of a Catholic revolt in the capital were denied by police, although they insisted that papers seized showed a connection between Catholics here and the rebellion in Jalisco and Aguas Calientes. They also reiterated that Archbishop Francisco Arozco y Jiminez, archbishop of Guadalajara, is continuing to take active charge of the rebels in Jalisco.

One of the priests told correspondents that a prominent bishop, who was among those arrested yesterday and released because the authorities failed to realize his identity, had since been detained again. The police had searched him for seditious documents, the priest said.

NEW YORK CITY IS PAID A VISIT BY BOSSY GILLIS

was not at his office because this is Saturday, so Bossy could not be received in state at the city hall.

Then too, it was snowing and sightseeing was uncomfortable.

Thus there was not much to do but lean back in a chair, deposit No. 10 shoes, with turned-up toes, on Mrs. McAlpine's starched counterpane and talk with reporters. Which, after arranging a gaudy evening's entertainment, including a musical comedy and a night club frolic, Bossy did.

"Well, boys," he said, "I'm here to fix up some national business. That's all you need to know."

Further than that, concerning the cause of his visit, he would not speak. It was said, however, he came in connection with syndicated articles on municipal problems, which were contractede for after Bossy, the former gob and village "bad boy," came to political power.

Bossy was dressed in a blue serge suit, set off by a red and blue tie. He wore a white shirt—dollar shirt. "Boys, you don't catch me in any of those soup and nutters."

MISSING WORKERS SAFE.

McCAMEY, Tex., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—The death list in the fire which late yesterday laid waste the tank group of the Humble Oil Co.'s refinery near here, will not exceed one, according to officials of the refinery, after a thorough check today. The twenty missing employes have been accounted for, and twelve of them are suffering from burns.

LINDY READY HOP SUNDAY TO CARACAS

in Bogota and the people are sincerely regretful that he has to leave so soon. They would like to keep him here a few days longer.

High honors were showered upon the famous young airman.

President Mendez personally congratulated Colonel Lindbergh. A medal was bestowed in recognition of his courage and important achievements.

The Flying Colonel plans to leave shortly after daybreak Sunday morning with his Spirit of St. Louis for the flying field outside of Caracas, Venezuela.

Decoration Awaits.

CARACAS, Venezuela, Jan. 29—(I. N. S.)—A Venezuelan decoration wil lbe bestowed upon Col. Charles A. Lindbergh before he leaves Caracas, it was learned tonight. The Lone Eagle's stay in this city will necessarily be brief and the program for his welcome and entertainment has been arranged to utilize every minute that Lindbergh can spare from his own personal affairs.

Judging by all indications, Sunday will be an unprecedented gala day in the city. Thousands of visitors are expected, as the railways will run special excursion trains. It is likely that from 50,000 to 75,000 persons will mingle their cheers in greeting when "Lindy" arrives, first at the flying field at Maracay seven miles from the city, and then in Caracas, itself.

City Decorated.

The city is gaily decorated. Triumphal arches have been erected over streets through which the flier will be carried in a motorcar.

Pictures of Lindbergh appear in many windows.

It is 600 miles from Bogota to Maracay and the route lies over vast, dense, unexplored jungles and mountains along the upper part of the Orinoco valley. An accident to the Spirit of St. Louis while passing over that part of his route might have the most serious consequences, as there are few, if any, places where a landing would be possible without the gravest dangers.

Lindbergh is expected about 4 o'clock and will be welcomed by an official committee, the president of the republic, government officials, and the United States minister.

Ask Share In Oil

AMARILLO, Tex., Jan. 28—(U. P.)—Suit for one-third intereset in the Panhandle oil field property, including virtually all of the Wilcox pool valued at $15,000,000, was filed in Gray county today by Amarillo attorneys.

Burt A. Worley and his two sisters, plaintiffs, charged in the suit that their grandmother, Phoebe Worley, Albert Coombs, E. E. Reynolds and about twenty-five oil and gas companies, fraudulently deprived them of their one-third interest of $5,000,000 in the estate of Henry Worley. Worley died in 1892.

The plaintiff's father, Burton Worley, was deprived of his share in the estate by his mother and others, despite a promise that he would be provided for, the complaint allegese.e

EXPECT A FIGHT ON FLOOD RELIEF

See Passage of Measures Differing From Administration's Plan.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(UP)—Sharp controversy over flood relief legislation, when it comes on the floor of the cong.ess, with probable passage of a measure differing considerably from the administration plan, was forseseen tonight, as congressional investigation committees, were making their reports.

Chairman Reid of the house committee, said tonight he expected to report a measure to the house within two weeks. It will be taken up shortly thereafter. The senate will wait until the house bill is received before it acts. Two or three weeks will be required by the house for passage of a bill.

As the situation shaped tonight, it appeared congress would challenge the administration's financial plan for flood control, its proposals as to what authority should direct the work and some of the engineering features urged by Jadwin.

The house committee, at least, will favor payment of the entire cost by the federal government and lodging authority in the Mississippi river commission, instead of the board of army engineers.

LUNETTA GETS LIFE.

CHICAGO, Jan., 28—(I. N. S.)—Pasquale Lunetta, 26, was sentenced here this afternoon to serve a term of life imprisonment on a plea of guilty to the murder of Frank Moy, Chinese merchant. Saverio Cortese, 25, Who pleaded guilt as Lunetta's accomplice, was given a sentence of thirty-five years. The murder occurred during a robbery.

CONGRESSWOMAN HITS CENSORSHIP AS UN-AMERICAN

Florence Kahn of California Addresses Movie Board of Review.

Says Solons Must Ever Guard Against Organized Minority.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Censorship in any form—motion pictures, press or pulpit—"is un-American, unconstitutional and in[illegible]ctive," Congresswoman Florence Kahn of California, declared today in [illegible] address before the annual convention of the National Board of Review of Motion Pictures.

"One cannot legislate morality into people," she said. She told the delegates that the greatest trail members of congress are the floods [illegible] overwhelmed. It comes from advocates of 'blue laws,' Sunday closing, federal censhorship of books, magazines and movies.

Censorship of the radio would be the next logical step to be attempted if federal censorship of pictures was to prevail, sheasserted.

There is no broad public clamor for censorship of moving pictures," Mrs. Kahn said. "But let that not deceive you—the organized minority is at work, creating in their small groups an activity that, unless care be taken, may put something over as has been done before in other lines of prohibitive legislation."

Losing Potency.

She said congressional legislation has been looked upon as a "cure all" for the ills of the nation. But, she continued, the nostrum is beginning to lose its potency.

"Let each community settle its problems," she urged. "Let each state decide its needs and let the federal government concern itself with those problems that affect the country as a whole."

Mrs. Kahn declared that any censorship, any regulation of movies, should be done under state regulation. She added this, however:

"There is no indication that the public itself wants censorship—it is its own censor. Many people make the mistake of thinking the public doesn't know what it wants, and even if it did it shouldn't be allowed to have it.

"The American people are alive, their consciences are not dull. They need no moral guardians to tell them what to see and what not to see. Public disapproval is the [illegible] popular censorship.

"The movies, like the press, have a direct influence on thought and opinion and should be safeguarded just as free speech and free press," she declared in conclusion.

HILL ATTORNEYS PLAN DEFENSE

Hint Surprise Witnesses To Appear; State Fails to Score.

OTTAWA, Ill., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—The defense was preparing its witnesses tonight for presentation next week in the trial of Harry Hill, 22, of Streator, Ill., accused of murdering his mother, Mrs. Eliza Hill, wealthy recluse.

Hints that two surprise witnesses were to appear circulated in Ottawa tonight, but Chief Defense Counsel Lee O'Neil Brown refused to verify the rumors. Brown expressed pleasure over the fact the state had failed to score with two witnesses placed on the stand.

The first, a dentist, Dr. George Mason, refused to identify a set of false teeth as those of Mrs. Hill. The teeth were in the body of a woman discovered in a shallow grave in the Hill home. The state contended the body was that of Mrs. Hill. Dr. Mason, at the coroner's inquest and before the grand jury, was reported to have identified the teeth as belonging to Mrs. Hill. Today on the stand a clothier could not positively identify a pair of blue trousers as the ones he had sold Hill in Febrary, 1926, and the state charged these were worn by Hill when he was alleged to have shot his mother.

These two witnesses were deemed the most important the state could produce.

Plans Not Revealed.

The defense has not revealed its plans for attacking the maze of circumstantial evidence the state piled up against Hill. Hill will not plead insanity, according to Counsel Brown. It is believed the Streator youth will deny the slaying and ask Prosecutor Russell O. Hanson to furnish the jury with proof he committed the crime.

During the week the state put on the stand an array of witnesses who testified as to the manner in which the body was discovered in its basement grave, the manner in which Hill quarreled with his mother, the manner in which Hill fled to Seattle following the finding of the body, and the manner in which he might have committed the murder.

But the state did not prove, according to the opinion of three defense lawyers, one direct thing to attach the blame to young Hill.

"There is a motive lacking," said Attorney Brown. "Common sense tells me that no boy would slay his own mother because she bawled him out for petty forging of checks. There is not the least doubt in my mind but that he will be acquitted. We are merely going through a necessary and tedious proceeding to save the boy's life."

Civil Service and Prohib Offices Agree to Modify Dry Agents Requirements

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—The bitter controversy between the federal prohibition office and the civil service commission as to the intellectual qualifications of dry agents probably will be terminated soon with a material modification of present requirements, it was learned today.

Commissioner J. M. Doran said that he had been assured by the commission that new examinations would be called in most of the districts and that as a result a majority of the 1,500 agents of the dry army who failed in the first test would ultimately be qualified.

Eligibles certified as a result of the first and second examinations will form the basis for a satisfactory prohibition force, according to Doran. The commission was informed that a strong protest has been made by Federal courts, United States attorneys and marshals at the elimination of some of the government's star dry performers.

Dry Organizers Object.

Pressure likewise has been brought on the civil service authorities by temperance organizations, who object to the "wrecking" of the dry army, even though many of them were shown to be shy on intellectual attainment.

Initial examinations stumped about 75 per cent of the dry agents. Prior to these tests prohibition authorities said they had gone through the organization carefully and eliminated virtually all of the crooked or inefficient agents, leaving a force of trained and qualified men.

Because of failure of applicants to qualify for executive posts new examinations for administrators will be called in five districts and other tests in many districts for the various classes of assistant administrators. Examinations for administrators, jobs paying from $4,400 to $6,000 annually, will be held in the Georgia-Florida, Missouri-Arkansas-Texas, Nevada-Northern California and Arizona-Southern California districts.

Examinations To Be Practical.

Assistant administrator examinations will be held in the New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Virginia, North and South Carolina, Louisiana, Kentucky-Tennessee, Kansas-Oklahoma, California and a number of other districts.

For permissive assistants tests will be called in the Georgia-Florida, Louisiana, Kansas, Missouri, Texas and California districts, while tests for deputies take place in ten or more sections.

The new examinations, according to Doran, will be of "a more practical nature" than those which caused many failures among agents and executives.

PREPARE TAKE TESTIMONY IN HICKMAN TRIAL

From the outset the kidnaping and murder trial will develop into an insanity hearing as Hickman's sanity is the only issue involved in his plea of "not guilty" by reason of insanity.

Shoul dthe jury find that Hickman was sane at the time he committed the crime, Defense Attorney Jerome Walsh will demand a ne wtrial.

Walsh indicated this when he announced he would interpose an arrest of judgment in the event the jury returned a verdict of sanity.

The demand for a new trial would be made, Walsh explained, on the plea that Hickman is now insane and cannot be hanged.

Walsh refuses to confirm or deny rumors that Hickman had repudiated his confession to the kidnaping and murder.

Dr. Skoog Silent.

Dr. A. L. Skoog nationally known neurologist, who was brought here from Kansas City to testify for the defense, also refused to discuss the rumors after a secret interview with Hickman today at the county jail.

"I do not know what Hickman has confessed as I never have seen the purported confession," Doctor Skoog declared.

The defense already has entered a strenuous denial that Hickman's insanity plea is an admission of guilt to the kidnaping and murder charges.

Hickman, however, at the time of his arraignment on the kidnaping and murder indictment, answered that he fully realized he was admitting he committed the crime when he entered his plea of insanity.

Editor's Note—Following is an article written for the United Press by Mamie Louise Leung, Chinese girl, in which she tells how the east would deal with the young slayer, William Edward Hickman, with the law "swift and deadly."

BY MAMIE LOUISE LEUNG.
(Written for the United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 28—The Orient—popping firecrackers, pageantry strange to you westerners, a justice that is swift, a law that is older than the old Mosaic law, an eye for an eye.

The Occident—a stuffy, ornate courtroom, clever lawyers, a ponderous law, slow and awkward, a law built upon the theory that it were better that many should escape than that one innocent should be punished.

The thoughts flashed through my mind as I sat listening to the opening of William Edward Hickman's trial, while without could be heard the sounds of our Chinese New Year's celebration.

It was borne through the shuttered windows with the staccato explosions of firecrackers from the streets below. For down there, just two blocks away from the hall of justice, in Chinatown, they were celebrating their New Year.

Sitting there in that paneled courtroom, cluttered with people and words, one need but shut his eyes to see the Dance of the Lion wending crazily up and down the narrow crooked streets, stopping and looking into stores to "chase away the evil spirits."

It made you sorry that the dancing lion could not as easily drive away the evil spirits that made it possible for a 19-year-old boy to strangle the life from a helpless child, hack her to pieces with a pocket knife and toss her back to her father in ghastly trade for $1,500.

It made you wonder what Hickman, sitting there so calmly, would do if that dancing lion would by chance wind its tortuous way from the streets into the courtroom and strangle him.

Taken To Another World.

Every beat of the tom tom took you to another world—to the turbid waters of the Yangtze, to the Forbidden City, where all those traditions and customs were given birth. A Hickman in China would find the law swift—and deadly. He would feel the keen blade of the executioner on his smooth white neck.

There would be no jury there to debate if he were sane or insane. Just a black robed judge with round, red buttoned hat, to pronounce perfunctory justice that would send him with an escort of brightly uniformed officers to the courtyard and executioner's block.

There would be no "press" there to spread his notorious fame throughout the nation. Just a man, long robed, topped with a queer bamboo hat, drawing graceful words with a brush of his pen.

It would be over quickly — as quickly as Hickman says he disposed of little Marion Parker. Perhaps even Hickman would not care to think this, they would mutilate him as he mutilated Marion.

Justice is like that in the country where the strict moral code means more than the letter of the law.

But sitting there listening to Hickman's young attorneys you think perhaps Hickman was not right. In China it would not matter.

French Fliers Rest

GUATEMALA CITY, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Dieudonne Costes and Joseph Lebrix, French trans-Atlantic fliers, spent most of today sightseeing. Both expressed gratification that Colonel Lindbergh had reached Bogota in safety. Their famous plane, Nungesser-Coli, is in splendid condition for the hop off to Mexico City tomorrow. They will leave shortly after daybreak and expect to reach the Mexican capital about 2 p. m.

LARGE SECTION OF COUNTRY IN GRIP OF COLD

house bedroom. One man froze to death in Iowa.

Eight large eastern cities in the path of the storm, including Pittsburgh, Washingon and New York, experienced slightly higher temperatures, accompanied by west winds and snowfall.

Pennsylvania was covered with a snowfall ranging from one to twelve inches in depth.

The snowfall in the national capital was the heaviest in six years, occuring on the anniversary of the collapse of the roof of the Knickerbocker theater, which killed ninety-seven persons. The snow hampered government and business activities.

The Chicago region experienced below zero temperatures early Saturday. Iowa points reported as low as 6 below zero, Wisconsin 8 below and Duluth, Minn., 18 below. Even southern Indiana experienced sub-zero weather.

Throughout the wide belt of the storm damage was reported from fires, and traffic accidents were numerous.

Brooks' Hop Delayed.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(U. P.)—The heaviest snow storm in six years smothered the capital today, hampering government and other business activities and preventing congress meeting from functioning.

It was the sixth anniversary of the collapse of the Knickerbocker theater building.

The city's snow fighting facilities, warned by the weather bureau of only a "light snow," were able by strenuous efforts to keep transportation and communication functioning partially.

The storm also held here Harry Brooks, pilot of the two cylinder Ford flivver plane, who expected to start his return to Detroit today.

Lilacs Bloom In Nebraska.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 28.—(U. P.)—The southwest was enjoying moderate temperature tonight in contrast to the winter weather which held Alanic coast states in its grip. An ideal weekend for motorists was promised Oklahoma and Texas points. Good weather also was in prospect in Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska.

Lilacs were reported to be in bloom in Northwestern Nebraska, while early spring weather was predicted for most parts of Texas over the week-end.

The temperature in Missouri was expected to be between 35 and 40 degrees abov tomorrow. A minimum of 40 degrees was expected in Texas.

Throughout the entire southwest the forecast was "fair and warmer."

CHICAGO, Jan. 28—(U. P.)—Cold weather and high winds which for thirty-six hours have caused suffering in Chicago and the middlewest, showed signs of moderation tonight. Government weather forecasters predicted slightly rising temperatures.

Below zero temperatures in the Chicago region Friday night and Saturday caused the death of seven persons.

Six men were found frozen to death in streets. Two bodies were unidentified.

An elderly woman was found dead in an unheated bedroom of a rooming house. Temperatures in Iowa ranged from zero to six below. One death from freezing was reported at Atlantic.

Warm in Colorado.

DENVER, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—While the Atlantic seaboard and plains states of the west were suffering from severe cold weather, snow and gales today, Denver and Colorado basked in warm sunshine, the temperature in Denver registering 80 degrees at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

FORMER SHIP CAPTAIN HAS LOST MEMORY

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 28—(U. P.)—Unaware as to where he is or who he is, Capt. W. Dixon Hopcraft, former commander of the Empress of Australia, was being treated for self inflicted wounds in the wrists here tonight.

He was found Wednesday in a local hotel where he had registered as Alfred Dunhill of Alberta, Canada, but it was not until today that he was identified.

The wrist wounds are not considered serious, but Captain Hopcraft has suffered a complete loss of memory, hospital physicians said. He will be held here until he has recovered, after which he will be returned to his home in Vancouver, B. C.

H. L. YOUNGERMAN DEAD.

DENVER, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Harry L. Youngerman, 49, for several years manager of the National Western livestock show here, died here today of pneumonia. He was born in Des Moines, Ia., and was widely known in western farm circles.

ANNA CASE IN RADIO CONCERT

Will Observe Anniversary of Debut in Atwater Kent Program.

Assisted by the Atwater Kent orchestra and a double octet of male voices, Anna Case will tonight (Sunday, Jan. 29) celebrate the twentieth anniversary of the beginning of her Cinderella career in music, with a radio concert in the Atwater Kent hour.

With a loan of $75, Anna Case began her vocal lessons, just twenty years ago. Only one person, the wife of a local merchant, then took an interest in the dreams of the blacksmith's daughter of South Branch, N. J. Her father, religious and strong-willed, was horrified at his daughter's musical ambition.

During these days of poverty, she sold soap, helped neighbors with housework, and drove the family horse and buggy between the village and station for fifty cents a trip. She managed to provide a new dress and pair of shoes each year.

She had been taught to play the organ, and at fifteen secured a position at $12 a month as organist at Neshanic, whither, she traveled, rain or shine, astride the family mare each Sunday. During these jogging rides she planned and dreamed of the future.

So in spite of parental objection and with the $75 from the fairy godmother, Anna Case found a vocal teacher in Somerville, nearby. Progress was rapid. A concert quickly repaid the loan. Shortly afterwards she secured a church position in Plainfield. With but $1.50 and the clothing she wore, she left home for a boarding house in Plainfield, independent and self-supporting.

She now began study with the late Mme. Ohrstrom-Renard, in New York city. The next year Governor Stokes, of New Jersey, secured for her an engagement at the afternoon musicales at the Hotel Belleve Stratford, Philadelphia — her romantic opportunity.

Unable to afford an accompanist, Anna Case played her own accompaniment and sang in borrowed finery. Andreas Dippel, director of the Metropolitan opera company, then in Philadelphia was in the audience. Dippel engaged her on the spot. The following Monday she sang an audition before the executives of the Metropolitan opera, in New York City. Her debut followed shortly in Gluck's "Orfeo."

Miss Case's anniversary program, to be sung to her millions of friends through the National Broadcasting company and twenty-three associated stations, will be broadcast at 9:15 eastern time.

RADIO COURSE ON WAGNER'S DRAMA WILL BE OFFERED

The musical dramas of Richard Wagner will be the subject of a radio course offered by the University of Nebraska extension division over station KFAB beginning Tuesday, February 14.

Prof. Paul H. Grummann, director of the school of fine arts, will deliver a series of eighteen lectures on Wagner, stressing the elements of northern mythology and its cultural significance, and providing an intelligent guide to the study of Wagner's "Ring of the Nibelungs". Weekly papers will be written by the radio students, and two hours university credit will be given on completion of the course.

The lectures will be broadcast on Tuesday afternoons, from 2:30 to 3:00. Registration may be made by writing or in person at the university extension division.

RADIOGRAMS

Temperature of Tubes.

The proper filament temperature of any vacuum tube is a most critical value. It must be held within narrow limits. Too little heat is as fatal as too much, although the effect is different. Subnormal temperature results in changing the mechanical structure of the filament from a tough wire to a brittle string of crystals. The usual tube filament should be operated at about 200 degrees centigrade, which is achieved by applying the filament voltage called for by the tube manufacturer.

Radio Digest

Average Battery Service.

Using a medium-sized "B" battery, at the rate of two hours a day, and drawing from it 20 milliamperes, seven and one-half months of service should be obtained.

Antenna Broadens Tuning.

The antenna should not be coupled too closely to the secondary via the primary winding, since the effect of antenna resistance is introduced into the tuned circuit, thus broadening the tuning.

Minimizs Hum.

To minimize the hum is electrified receiving sets, incorporate center top AC filament resistors. The value of these resistors ranges from 2 to 60 ohms, depending upon the number of tubes and the current supply.

Defective Resistors Cause Noise.

Look over the resistances when troubled with scratchy noises, especially if they are of non-wire type.. A defective resistor is the most prolific source of troublesome noises which are likely to be charged to everything else.

Value of Voltmeter.

One of the most useful investments to have around the set is a voltmeter of suitable ranges. With it one can tell whether the filament and plate volt acid can be neutralized with ammonium hydroxide, potassium or sodium hydroxide. These substances are found in every home in the form of ammonia water and lyes. Do not use too much nor too strong a neutralizer.

Chemical Activity of Electrolyte.

The electrolyte in a storage battery is extremely active chemically. If spilled on the carpet, on the furniture, on the clothing, on the skin, it will burn a hole unless it is immediately neutralized. It is of no avail to dilute it with water if the diluted acid is permitted to remain. The burning will simply be a little slower, but it will be just as serious and extensive.

Less Furniture—Better Reception.

The furniture in a room has a decided effect on radio reproduction. Reception will sound louder and sharper in a room with little furnishing and with relatively bare walls. On the other hand, with over-stuffed furniture, plenty of draperies and with little of the bare walls exposed, together with thick carpets the radio reproduction will be softened and reduced in volume. Furthermore it requires a good deal more power to make an impression on a well-furnished room than on a bare room.

Causes of "Frying" Noises.

"When 'frying" noises are heard in the receiver during operation, the trouble is coming from one of the following sources: Leaky bypass condensers, accumulated dust on the tuning condenser plates, poor contacts at rotating arm of tube filament rheostats due to oxidation of reostate resistance wire, caused by the overloading of the rheostat, leaks in coil of the set due to moisture, imperfect or worn-out grid leak, or deteriorated fixed resisters in the set. In each case the remedy is either replacement of the part, or in the case of the variable condenser, thorough cleaning between the plates with a 'pipe cleaner." Do not overlook the necessity of frequently cleaning the prongs of the tube sockets.

A sensitive receiver will pick up all kinds of disturbances.

New tubes should be used in the audio amplifier and old ones in the radio frequency and detector sockets.

Keep the loud speaker as far from the set as possible so that vibrations will not set the elements of the tubes ajar.

Upward of 1,750,000 radio sets are sold annually in the United States. At least half the number represent replacements.

A leaky transformer or a broken insulator in the electric service transmission lines will cause terrific interference for miles around.

While the home should have a permanently connected receiving set, another suitable one should also be reservxed for DX work. The additional set will provide experiments with new hookups, accessories, etc.

Radiograms.

The American Radio Relay League has more than 18,000 members.

Forty-seven radio stations now broadcast daily programs in the Soviet Union of Russia, where there was only one in 1924 and nine in 1925. A dozen new stations are being built. There is now a broadcasting station in every large city. Moscow has four stations, Leningrad two, and Kharkov, the capital of the Ukraine, has two.

Wired-radio is undergoing a test in Freeport, Ill., where 500 telephone subscribers get programs through a special apparatus. The device is installed by local telephone companies, which charge a nominal monthly rental fee. All that is necessary to receive programs is to press a button and adjust the volume control.

University Notes

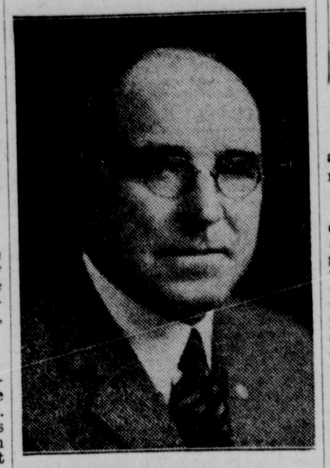

Lawrence Dexter, of Clarks, Neb., who will be graduated from the university at the end of the first semester, has received the position of geologist for the American Appraisal company of Milwaukee.

Mrs. Florence Gardner, superintendent of schools at Goehner, Neb., has presented to the museum six salamanders, or as they are more commonly known, mud puppies. The specimens are of exceptional size, one of them fully twelve inches long.

Prof. B. Clifford Hendricks of the department of chemistry has been asked to serve on a national committee to study "The Organization of the Work of First Year High School Chemistr" Around a Few Major Topics." The work is under the auspices of the American Chemical society.

Henry Erck, Lutheran university pastor, attended a meeting of young people's workers at St. Louis January 18. Others who attended were Rev. E. E. Schuler of Milwaukee, Rev. Erwin Umbach, general secretary of the Walther League, A. A. Grossman of St. Louis, and several university pastors.

Frye Will Speak

A. W. Frye of Detroit, Mich., supreme commander of the Maccabees, who will be the guest of Adasa tent No. 6 and Queen Hive No. 87 Tuesday. A luncheon has been arranged at noon at the Lindell hotel and a public installation and entertainment in the evening.

P. T. A. CALENDAR.

Randolph P. T. A. dramatic class, at 3 o'clock in the play assembly room.

Bancroft P. T. A. met Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock at the auditorium for a citizenship program. Supt. M. C. Lefler spoke on "Tuning In," and Miss A. Neuman told of some of her night school work since coming to America a year ago. Miss Ruth Pyrtle, principal, talked on "The Need of Cooperation." A social hour followed, with Mrs. N. E. Kerns in charge of the social committee. Miss Lulu Abbott will organize a Red Cross class which will meet every Wednesday evening in the sewing room. A large number have registered for the first aid work.

There will be an executive board meeting of the Lincoln Council of Parents and Teachers Thursday, February 2, at 1:30 o'clock at South McKinley building, followed by a regular meeting at 2:30 o'clock.

Randolph P. T. A. nutrition class for mothers meets every Wednesday from 1:15 to 3:15 o'clock at the schol. The course consists of eight lessons in which a complete study of food is made, not only for children, but also for adults. This is an entirely different study from the hygiene nutrition class. There are seven members now registered, but from twelve to fifteen can be accommodated.

The Bethany P. T. A. mother's training class will meet in the Christian church parlors Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. E. E. Smith, of Cotner college, will talk on "Heredity."

Mrs. Jessie M. Gainsforth, superintendent of Keith county, organized Cottonwood Corners P. T. A. in district No. 3, on January 16. The following officers were elected: president, Frank McDuffie; vice president, Ed Allison; secretary-treasurer, Miss Clara Gengenbach.

A rural P. T. A. was organized in district No. 75, Boone county, on January 13, by Miss Merle Farris, county superintendent. The following are the officers elected: president, Albert Watland; vice president, Mrs. John Watland; secretary, Mrs. G. A. Kettleson, and treasurer, Theodore Fulsaas.

Everett Junior high school met for an assembly period Wednesday morning, when the following program was given:

Original play, "The Trial," by the 8B drama class.

Belle Nuit, by trio from Lincoln high school.

Pizzicato Gavotte, by Bernice Schellenberg.

Mildred Baer.

Marian Wolfe.

Readings. Bernice Schellenberg.

Songs—"In the Garden."

"Moonlight Gavotte," by Everett junior high girls' glee club.

Presentation of spelling certificates to the following:

Velma Smith, Edith Meyer, Marjorie Avery, Althea Scheidt, Amelia Rohrig, Mary Fristoe, Mildred Overton, and Hettie Voorhies.

The outgoing 8A class was presented to the school.

Everett Junior high P. T. A. met Thursday, January 24, at Park auditorium, when the following program was given.

Original play, "The Trial," by 8B drama class.

Music and reading program by girls from Lincoln high school.

"Belle Nuit"; "Pizzicato Gavotte," by Lincoln High school trio. Reading by Bernice Schellenberg.

Reading by Jewwie May Kirk.

Report on National P. T. A. convention at Oakland by Mrs. Mark Pierce.

Following the meeting, a social hour was held. The following committee was in charge: Mrs. George Ostermiller, Mrs. Henry Graff, Mrs. John Loos, Mrs. George Mehser, Mrs. Conrad Scheidt, Mrs. Adam Yost, Mrs. Henry Bloom, and Mrs. William McCarthy, chairman.

The Sheridan class in home decoration will meet every Thursday morning in the school library at 9 o'clock for the next five weeks.

Hartley P. T. A. held its regular meeting Thursday at the school. A social hour was held from 2:30 until 3:30 o'clock, when the fourth grade mothers were hostesses. Refreshments were served, and the following program was given:

Songs by 6A pupils.

Readings, by Helen Rice, Mildred Niel, and Dorothy Rebuck.

Readings by Mrs. Jean Allen.

"The Child in the Home," by Miss Clara Slade, school psychologist.

Duties of Visiting Teacher, as the Link Between Home and School, by Miss Grace L. Bebb, visiting teacher.

Elliott P. T. A. met Thursday evening, January 19, at 8 o'clock. Following the business meeting, Mrs. Earl Forney led the community singing, and James Whildt, chief guide at Glacier National park, read some of his own poems. W. J. Kirkbride related some of his experiences and observations in Europe this past summer, and Mrs. Arthur Thompson sang "The Moon Behind the Cottonwoods" and "The Land of the Sky Blue Water," both by Cadman. The second grade mothers were hostesses at the social hour which followed.

Irving visiting day was observed on January 28, under the supervision of the ninth grade. James Mickey, president of 9B, with Marjorie Corrington, Wallace DeBrown, and Lela Edenburg, announced the following program:

"Excelsior Galop," by the band.
Instrumental demonstration.
Awarding of spelling certificates.

Awarding of gardening certificates.

BOY, 13, ENDS LIFE.

EAST AURORA, N. Y., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Clifford Evans, 13-year-old schoolboy, committed suicide today by hanging himself with a strap in the cellar of his grandmother's home. No motive for his act was known to his family.

Women Leaders Who Attended Washington Conference Think Elimination of War Possible

A mental and a spiritual conference is the manner in which Mrs. A. E. Sheldon summarizes the conference on the cause and cure of war, from which she has just returned.

She found it an inspiring sight to view hundreds of women gathered together, not for the name that is theirs, but for the mind they have. Meeting, not in a common, trivial cause, but for the reason that concerns generations to come. Forgetting creed, race, position in the hope of possible world betterment and preservation.

Leaders of the women's world, but not concerned with a woman's problem, unless it be that upon them alone rests the hope of making the world see the folly and sin and the waste of war. Brilliant women, and beautiful women, giving the best of their mental equipment in their belief of the rightness of the prevention of war.

Nine Groups Represented.

Nine organizations of women took part in this third conference, held from January 15 to 19 in the hall of nations at the Hotel Washington in Washington, D. C. The national societies represented included the American Association of University Women, Council of Women for Home Missions, Federation of Woman's Boards of Foreign Missions of North America, General Federation of Women's clubs, National Board of the Y. W. C. A., National Council of Jewish Women, National League of Women Voters, W. C. T. U., and National Women's Trade Union league.

Mrs. Sheldon represented the A. A. U. W., and Mrs. M. D. Cameron of Omaha, who had been attending a meeting of the general federation, remained for the conference. Mrs. Frank Babcock of Hastings was the League of Women Voters' representative, and Mrs. David Nims of Hastings was the Y. W. C. A. delegate.

The organization was founded three years ago by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, who is the chairman with the national League of Women Voters as the nucleus. The number of participating organizations has grown since that time, although none has ever been asked to join.

Think War Unnecessary.

To these intelligent women, and to the leaders of thought whom they had invited to appear on the program, there was no thought but that the elimination of war is possible. No person felt that war must be a part of national life. The majority were certain it would be outlawed in the near future, and some, a few, queried whether or not it could be gotten rid of so quickly.

In Mrs. Sheldon's estimation, it was heartening, the consensus of the judgement of the experts, that was must be cured. These men and women have spent years in studying and observing upon this problem. If they do not have thoughtful opinions, there is none to have, and in a quiet, sensible fashion they have decided that war is not a necessity.

There were varieties of opinions of the best means to do away with war. To the most of them, however, it will come through education. All of them emphasized the fact, and the majority felt

LANE'S MURDER TRIAL TUESDAY

St. Edward Man Charged Will Killing of Thorwald Hansen.

ALBION, Neb., Jan. 28—Charles Lane, aged about 32 yeears, is in the Boone county jail under indictment of first degree murder, awaiting the beginning of his trial on next Tuesday.

On November 25, on the streets of St. Edward he shot Thorwald Hansen, a single man about 23 years old. He fired three or four shots, one of which proved fatal.

At the time of the shooting Mrs. Lane had commenced proceedings for a divorce. Lane went to St. Edward on the evening of Nov. 25, where he found his wife and Hansen. The three of them got together in an automobile in front of his home to "talk things over."

Lane claims there was no quarrel, although some harsh language was passed between them. At the time of the shooting Lane had got out of the car, and his wife was between him and Hansen. After the first shot Hansen jumped out of the car and ran across the street and Lane continued to shoot at him as he ran. This is Lane's statement. His defense will probably be self defense. Lane has three small children whom the mother has been supporting.

After the shooting Lane came to Albion to give himself up to the sheriff, but not finding him went to the hotel, got a room and spent the night. After his breakfast next morning he again went to the sheriff's office but not finding him in he started off on foot into the country. He rambled around and finally headed back toward St. Edward, and was apprehended on the road.

A coroner's jury decided that Hansen came to his death by gunshot wound at the hands of Charles Lane.

ORD HIGH SCHOOL BOY TO ANNAPOLIS

(Special to The Star.)

ORD, Neb., Jan. 28—John Round, son of Sheriff and Mrs. George Round, received word this week from Congressman Robert Simmons that he has been appointed to the United States naval academy at Annapolis. Round wil have to pass physical and mental examinations before becoming eligible to enter the academy. He graduates from Ord high school this spring. During his high school career he has been active in athletics, having played on both the basketball and football teams for four years. He has been an honor student in scholarship.

PLAN JOINT DEBATE.

(Special to The Star.)

GENEVA, Neb., Jan. 27—A debate on law enforcement will be given at the city auditorium Sunday evening, Feb. 5, with R. E. Owen and J. A. San De Fur as the speakers. In arguing the question, "Can the Law be Enforced," one participant takes the role of a citizen and one an officer. The debate was prepared by O. G. Christgau.

Beatrice Man Over Century Old Lived In State More Than 60 Years

(Special to The Star.)

BEATRICE, Neb., Jan. 28—Solomon Cloud, who lives in a comfortable cottage at 312 Arthur street, West Beatrice, will be 101 years of age on next February 10.

Rather robust and of heavy build, Mr. Cloud walked to a rocking chair in the living room where he sat down and posed for a picture. With a flush on his cheeks, a twinkle in his eye, he smiled and said:

"This is the first photograph I have had taken for about a year, when my wife and I visited St. Joe, Mo., where we spent part of last winter and where I celebrated my one hundredth birthday anniversary.

"With me were four veterans of the Civil war. I was much older than any of the rest," he said, "but none of them was under ninety years of age. We had our pictures taken there, and it was a jolly crowd of old, old vets."

Late last spring Mr. and Mrs. Cloud returned to their home in Beatrice, where they have resided for eleven years.

Wife Does Reading.

Mr. Cloud is unusually bright for one of his years, and while his memory is rather clouded at times, he talks fairly well on various subjects and he appears to be enjoying his usual health. He is unable to read, but Mrs. Cloud spends much of her time at his side, reading and keeping him posted on the news events of the day.

Born in White county, Ill., Mr. Cloud grew to manhood and was married there. When thirty-four years of age he enlisted as a member of the Ninety-fourth Illinois Volunteers at the outbreak of the Civil war and served for three years under General Herron.

He recalls a skirmish with Confederates near Mobile, Ala., where his company routed and captured or killed nearely all of the opposing troops. Mr. Cloud appeared to enjoy telling this bit of history.

When he was thirty-seven years of age he returned to Illinois and engaged in farming near De Witt until he started overland in a covered wagon with his family, landing near where the town or Nora is now situated. This was more than sixty years ago, he relates.

Takes Up Homestead.

He homesteaded there and farmed for years with his two sons, Mike and Solomon, and during that time saw much of the hardship of pioneer life. He resided on the same farm for about fifty years. Mrs. Cloud passed away at the old farm home, and he later married his present wife, Mrs. May Cloud.

Eleven years ago Mr. and Mrs. Cloud came to Beatrice to make their home with the latter's daughter, Mrs. J. R. Catlin.

Going back to the days of his boyhood, Mr. Cloud recalls that he and his brother William, who died some years ago in California, were thrown out in the world to make their way when they were mere children.

While his memory is fairly good on some subjects, Mr. Cloud is unable to remember the names of his parents.

Beside his wife Mr. Cloud has two sons and a daughter. One of the sons, Michael, resides at Julesburg, Colo., the other son Solomon, is a resident of Kearney, and the daughter, Mrs. Amanda Anderson, lives at Portland, Ore. He also has five grand sons and a number of great grand children. A grand daughter, Mrs. Fred Roller, resides at Alexandria, Neb.

Mr. Cloud stated that he always kept regular hours, ate regularly and worked hard. He believes that hard work with proper food and steady habits has more to do with a long life than anything else.

SOLOMON CLOUD.

SMITH-HUGHES IS PROPOSED AT ORD

(Special to The Star.)

ORD, Neb., Jan. 28—Ord's public school will offer the Smith-Hughes courses in agriculture next year, J. H. Pierson, supervisor of vocational agriculture under the Smith-Hughes act, visited Ord this week and inspected the $150,000 high school building now under construction. After conferring with Superintendent C. A. Bowers and members of the school board, Mr. Pierson said that Ord would go on the approved list at once. The school board has started efforts to secure an instructor for next year. Ord has been offering the Smith-Hughes home economics courses for some time, but has lacked the facilities to give the agriculture work.

ORD CLUB NAMES HAGER PRESIDENT

(Special to The Star.)

ORD, Neb., Jan. 28—At the annual meeting of the Ord Community Service club, held at the Rotary club rooms Friday evening, C. A. Hager was elected president and Roy Collison vice president. Gould Flagg served as president during 1927. Claude Davis, recent appointee to the Supreme court commission, was in Ord and addressed the club on the subject of community service. C. A. Bowers, superintendent of schools, was another speaker. Dinner was served at the Rotary rooms.

PIONEER OF POLK COUNTY PASSES ON

Horace Willits, Who Homesteaded In 1873, Dies Following Paralytic Stroke.

(Special to The Star.)

OSCEOLA, Neb., Jan. 28—Horace Willits, one of the oldest settlers in Polk county, residing ten miles west of Osceola on the farm he homesteaded in 1873, died Saturday, aged 88 years and six months, leaving a wife and four children.

Mr. Willits was born in Pennsylvania, moving to Mercer county, Ill., where he enlisted August 7, 1861, as a private in company C, 27th Illinois Infantry. He was the only living member of the G. A. R. post of Clarks, Neb. Mr. and Mrs. Willits celebrated their sixty-first wedding anniversary on November 22, 1927. He suffered a stroke of paralysis Wednesday night and died without regaining consciousness.

There are but three other men living in Polk county today who homesteaded fifty-four years ago when Mr. Willits made entry on his government land. Funeral services will be held at Polk, Monday at 2 p. m.

WORKING ON SCHOOL.

(Special to The Star.)

BRIDGEPORT, Neb., Jan. 28—Work on the new $90,000 school building for Bridgeport, which was suspended just before the holidays, was resumed this week and will be pushed as fast as men and weather conditions will admit. The building is practically enclosed and carpenters and plumbers are now working on it.

WINTER WHEAT IS IN GOOD CONDITION

(Special to The Star.)

ALLIANCE, Neb., Jan. 28—Winter wheat around Alliance is in fairly good condition. Light snows during the winter have furnished some degree of moisture, although the wheat could stand considerably more rain or snow. West Nebraska's acreage of winter wheat for next year is larger than ever before. Over 50,000 acres of virgin land was put under the plow.

FORMER ORD MAN WEDS IN HAWAII

ORD, Neb., Jan. 28—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Milligan of Ord, announce this week that on Dec. 26, 1927, their eldest son, Jackson R. Milligan, was married to Miss Gladys Dorothea Buckley, in Honolulu, Hawaii. Milligan is a representative of the United States Steel corporation in Hawaii. His brother, Rex, is employed on a liner between San Francisco and Honolulu.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

(Special to The Star.)

HUMBOLDT, Neb., Jan. 28—Mr. and Mrs. John Oberley celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary Friday at the home of their daughter, Mrs. M. Lauderback here. The brothers and sisters, children and grandchildren, made up the company. Mr. and Mrs. Oberley are pioneers in this section of the state, having retired from their farm a few miles southwest of this city several years ago and now making their home in Humboldt. A family dinner was served at the Lauderback home.

CLARKSON FAVORS GOOD ROADS MOVE

(Special to The Star.)

CLARKSON, Neb., Jan. 28—On Friday evening, a very enthusiastic meeting of good roads boosters was held at Clarkson, being sponsored by the commercial club. E. H. Polley, field secretary of the Nebraska Good Road association, was present, and in a thorough manner explained the program as outlined by the association for this year. The Clarkson commercial club is in accord with the entire program, as a resolution was passed more than a year ago, favoring the increase of one cent in the gas tax. The meeting was also attended by a delegation from Howells. A musical program was carried out during the program by the Clarkson band, and the meeting was followed by a luncheon.

The Clarkson commercial club has been quite active the past two years, and several meetings similar to the above, will be held in the future.

DONNELLAN HOPS OFF SUNDAY.

CHICAGO, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Capt. Joseph F. Donnellan, former member of the British Royal flying corps, will hop off from municipal airport here tomorrow on the first leg of a 14,000-mile journey to Santiago, Chile, and return.

W. W. Dwyer, manager of the Allerton club, is sponsor and financial backer of the venture. He declared the purpose of the flight is to convince the public that commercial contact with South America via air from Chicago is both safe and practical.

SO ORIGINAL AND DIFFERENT

that Comparisons are Impossible

FRANKLY, The Victory has left current practice so far behind that comparisons are impossible.

Conservative drivers will never really discover the car's astonishing resources.

They will delight in its pick-up and low gas needs—its comfort and streamline beauty.

But the magnificent, all-day speed of the car—its faultless smoothness over clods and cobbles—are thrills that await the adventurer!

Six powerful cylinders are six powerful reasons for this. A seventh vital reason is the basic Victory idea!

For the first time in motor car history, chassis and body are a unit. Floor and seats are built in the chassis. The wide Victory chassis frame replaces the customary body sill—and eliminates the customary body overhang. The body itself has only 8 major parts!

The result is 175 less pounds, 330 less parts; standard road and head clearance, yet a car that is extremely low, steady and safe—with a power plant stripped for instant and brilliant action!

$1095 4-DOOR SEDAN F. O. B. DETROIT

SUPREME COURT WILL HEAR TWO STRELOW CASES

The Supreme court will hear arguments Wednesday, February 8, in the appeal of two Strelow cases which have been combined as a matter of convenience. They involve the question of the appointment of a guardian for Charles Strelow and the distribution of the estate of Theodore Strelow.

The two Strelow brothers left an estate valued at approximately $75,000. Prior to their deaths in the latter part of 1925 and the first part of 1926, the two aged brothers had lived on a farm in the western part of Lancaster county.

The death of Theodore brought to light the fact that the two old men had had their fortune buried on the farm. Charles was named the beneficiary of Theodore's will. After his brother's death he was confined in a hospital for a time before his death. While he was in the hospital an action was started by relatives to have a guardian appointed for him and an administrator for the estate left by Theodore.

The legal tangle which resulted from these two actions was carried into the Supreme court after the death of Charles Strelow by Frank Schultz and his brothers, former neighbors of the Strelow brothers, who were named beneficiaries in the last will of Charles Strelow.

Salvation Army Is To Have Celebration

NEBRASKA AUTO CLUB PROPOSED

State Organization to Be Suggested by Lincoln Association.

Four Directors of Local Group Will Be Elected February 7.

The date of the annual meeting of the Lincoln Automobile club has been fixed for February 7, Frank D. Tomson, announced Saturday. Four directors will be elected for two years, the heads of the standing committees of the club will report on their activities during the year, President Tomson and Secretary Earl Coryell will summarize the work of the committees and tell of the progress of their administration. The committees are tourist camp, park, good roads, and touring bureau.

Officers of the club are outlining an aggressive program for the coming year. This will be submitted in the annual reports of the president and secretary along with a proposal that the club initiate the formation of a state-wide organization to be affiliated with the American Automobile association. The larger organization would offer state-wide service to its membership.

The Lincoln club has started an extension service and through its influence the North Platte Valley Motor club was recently organized.

Stoddard Visits Lincoln.

Impetus was lent to state-wide activities of the club Saturday through the coming to Lincoln of H. F. Stoddard, representative of the A. A. A. Mr. Stoddard met the club's officers and discussed club benefits, emergency road service, touring service, and expansion

Detailed studies made by the executive secretary of the club, Miss Agnes Neylon, of annual reports of the national association show that in 1927 there were forty motor vehicles registered in the United States for every mile of improved highway of every type This is small, however, when compared with the Nebraska record. Tabulations filed in the Auto club show that the state has sixty cars registered for each of the 6,300 miles of federal and state highways.

Comparative figures show that in the last ten years there has been a 130 per cent increase in the number of cars for every mile of improved road. The figure in 1918 was 17.

HOLD BARBECUE AT NEW SCOUT OVERNIGHT CABIN

Lincoln Boy Scout leaders attended a barbecue Thursday night at the new overnight cabin at Electric park. The barbecue was prepared by the boys of Troop No. 48 of which Chet Ager is the scoutmaster.

The meal was followed by a program. Dr. E. H. Barbour talked and there were a number of banjo selections and reading by Leaders Magnuson and Metzger. Community singing was followed by a blackface skit, a group of songs and a monologue. Singing and scout closing exercises concluded the program.

Among the speakers were Fred G. Davie, regional scout executive, and Leo Vernon, regional field man.

FEDERAL FLOOD CONTROL URGED

Poll Shows Majority of Nebraska Organizations for National Action.

Eleven business men's organizations in Nebraska participating in a national referendum conducted by the United States chamber of commerce have voted on the queston of ihaving the federal government assume the cost of protecting the lower Mississippi valley against floods.

More than 1,000 chambers of commerce and trade associations throughout the country took part in the referendum and 80 per cent of the total number approved the report of a special committee of the national chamber which set forth a program looking to Mississippi flood control.

Four specific recmmendations were voted on. In Nebraska the organizations cast ballots as follows:

1. That the federal government should hereafter pay the entire cost of constructing and maintaining works necessary to control floods of the lower Mississippi river. For, 23; against, 14.

2. That the federal government should assume the sole responsibility for locating, constructing and maintaining such works. For, 23; against, 14.

3. That there should be an adequate appropriation to insure efficient, continuous and economic work, the funds to be available as needed. For, 35; against, 2.

4. That flood control of the Mississippi river should be dealt wth in legislation and administration upon its own merits, separate and distinct from ay other udertaking. For, 16; against, 21.

The organizations in Nebraska participating in the referendum were the chambers of commerce of Beatrice, Columbus, Fremont, Hastings, Lincoln, Nebraska City, Omaha and York, the Federation of Nebraska Retailers, the Omaha Grain Exchange and the Omaha Manufacturers' association.

MEETING CALLED TO BEGIN WAR ON SMOKE NUISANCE

The city planning subdivision of the junior division of the chamber of commerce has declared war on smoke, and will take steps February 13 to "abate the nuisance." Members of the subdivision will meet with the planners of the present organization at that time to try and formulate plans to rid Lincoln "of this nuisance in the winter months."

Prof. J. W. Haney of the university department of engineering will be the speaker. He will talk on the advantakes and economies of smoke abatement, a subject on which he recently made an address at a meeting of a Kansas City engineering society.

Pastor Resigns

REV. OSCAR JONESON,

Pastor of the East Lincoln Christian church, who has resigned his pastorate effective February 1. Rev. Joneson expects to remain in Lincoln for the present to do some special work in connection with the church. Later on he plans to accept another church.

MANUFACTURERS COMPLETE PLANS ANNUAL BANQUET

Committees arranging the program for the annual banquet, February 14, of the Lincoln Manufacturers association, have virtually completed their work, according to Harvey C. Kendall, general chairman. The banquet will be held at the chamber of commerce and more than 400 are expected to attend, he says.

A feature of the entertainment and banquet will be the scarcity of speeches. There will be a number of short talks concerning Lincoln as a manufacturing center, and quoting data regarding investments in manufacturing plants and industrial property, but there will be no set speeches. The number of employes engaged in manufacturing and the annual payroll also will be given.

The hour set for the banquet is 6:30, and none but Lincoln made goods will be served.

Earl Middlekauf, chairman of the program committee, has arranged for an instrumental trio to play while the guests are eating. From 8 to 9 o'clock there will be another entertainment. This will consist of selections by the Lincoln chamber of commerce glee club, violin numbers and the talks by manufacturing. These will be by members of the association and the entire program will be broadcast from KFAB.

Donald Bell is in charge of the decorations, which will carry out the St. Valentine's day suggestion.

Arrangements are being made for each lady at the banquet to receive a gift. They, like the foods served at the banquet, will be Lincoln made. Carl Junge is chairman of the committee in charge of this part of the program.

SMITH FUNERAL IS HELD AT BEATRICE

Large Number Attend Obsequies of Pioneer Banker Which Occur Saturday.

(Special to The Star)

BEATRICE, Neb., Jan. 28—Rites for Samuel C. Smith were held Saturday from Christ Episcopal church, a large number of business men and others gathering there to pay tribute to his memory. The floral offerings were profuse. The sermon was read by Rev. W. A. Mulligan and interment was in Evergreen Home cemetery.

The following vestrymen of the church acted as casketbearers: J. Stewart Elliott, C. L. Sherwood, Dr. J. W. McLeran, Dr. J. C. Tucker, J. Ed. C. Fisher and Dr. H. R. Brown. The Knights Templar of this city acted as an escort.

Mr. Smith was 82 years of age and was one of Beatrice's first bankers. His widow and one daughter, Mrs. J. L. Anderson of Chicago survive.

CRETE NOTES

(Special to The Star.)

CRETE, Neb., Jan. 28—The Czech lodges of Crete realized $377 from their play, "Young Lady With Bobbed Hair," which was presented at the Sokol hall. The money was sent back to the homeland to assist in building a home for the blind soldiers of the World war.

The Crete W. C. T. U. has just sent out the rules and subjects for the county essay and poster contests, through the secretary of that department, Mrs. J. H. Leggett. These are sent to all of the rural and city schools of the county.

The Crete Grain and Livestock association held its luncheon and election of officers at Sokol hall, the usual 8 per cent and pro rata dividends being declared. Directors elected were Anton T. Belka, Anton Pomazl, Joe Boohnicek, Ed J. Aron, Dick P. Wickenkamp, V. J. Kupka and John F. Welsch.

The new fire truck recently purchased was tried out and tested during the past week.

CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

(Special to The Star.)

WESTERN, Neb., Jan. 28 — To have lived 50 years on one farm, and to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary there, was the privilege of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Zable, prominent farmers of this vicinity. They were married January 17, 1878, at Western, and lived on their farm just east of town continuously until just recently, when they located in town. They are 72 and 70 years old, respectively. There are seven children, all of this vicinity: Harlan, Fred, Mildred, Mrs. Frank Keller, Mrs. Claude Brown, Mrs. Jesse Gadow and Mrs. Esther Wattenpaul.

ADMITTED TO BAR.

(Special to The Star.)

GRANT, Neb., Jan. 28 — E. E. Jackman, cashier in the Farmers State bank, went to Lincoln last week and took the examination and was admitted to the bar. He will maintain his office in the bank building here in Grant.

FUNERAL SERVICE HELD FOR PIONEER

(Special to The Star)

BRIDGEPORT, Neb., Jan. 28 — Funeral services for William Schuler, 70 years of age, a pioneer resident of this part of the state, having homesteaded near Dalton more than 35 years ago, were held Thursday and attended by a number of people from here. His death occurred just five minutes after that of John Nelson Schearer, a life long friend and neighbor living on an adjoining lot, which was caused by a stroke of paralysis. Mr. Schearer was the owner of the old Mud Spring ranch, now known as Simla, which was the only water hole between Sidney and Bridgeport in the early days.

NEBRASKA SWINE WIN MANY PRIZES

(Special to The Star.)

STELLA, Neb., Jan. 28—At the Western National Live Stock show held at Denver last week, W. A. Tynon & Sons, breeders in Nemaha county near Peru, won distinct recognition for their entries of Hampshire swine. They were awarded first and third on light weights; first and third on medium weights and grand champion and champion and first, second and third on heavy Hampshire barrows. The animal which won the grand championship weighed 350 pounds and was sold for 51 cents per pound.

BROKEN BOW NOTES

(Special to The Star.)

BROKEN BOW, Neb., Jan. 28—Broken Bow Public Service club elected the following officers: D. R. Rockwell, president; H. F. Kennedy, vice-president; C. W. Layton, secretary-treasurer and directors for three-year terms, H. L. Possehl, E. P. Walter and R. S. Kuns.

Leonard Wolf of Sargent was sentenced to the state reformatory for not less than one year nor more than eighteen months by Judge B. O. Hostettler in District court here. Wolf was charged with breaking and entering the store of Otten and Leech at Sargent. Glenn and Ralph Patch, brothers, of Sargent, who were arrested with Wolf on the same charge, were fined $50 and costs each.

General Custer lodge No. 23, Knights of Pythias, celebrated its silver anniversary here with a program and banquet. Officers installed were R. Severin L Arp, C. C.; James Stockham, V. C.; L. D. George, prelate; E. H. Anderson, K. R. S. and M. F.; L. H. Simonson, M. E.; Fred Reeder, M. W; H. E. Taylor, M. A.; R. P. Simonson, I. G. and C. B. Gadd, O. G.

J. H. Claybaugh of Lincoln, poultry specialist of the University of Nebraska extension department, and County Agent M. L. Gould of Custer county conducted poultry meetings and exhibits at Milburn, Arnold and Broken Bow.

Miss Minnie Loyd of Broken Bow was awarded the Hastings college scholarship by the University of Nebraska extension department for her essay, "Benefits of Higher Education."

INJURY OF THREE YEARS STANDING CAUSE OF DEATH

(Special to The Star.)

NELSON, Neb., Jan. 28—Ira Clabaugh died at a hospital in St. Louis last Sunday and the body was brought here and laid to rest Thursday afternoon. Mr. Clabaugh had been bedfast for the past three years as the result of an accident when driving to Hastings. He had been called to the hospital by the final illness of his father, but did not reach his destination, owing to an auto accident in which he suffered a serious injury to his spine, from which he never recovered.

Last week he was taken to the government hospital at Jefferson barracks in the hope that an operation might prove beneficial, but he died soon after arriving there. He was accompanied to the hospital by his brother-in-law, Andy Dillman, and Don Goodrich of this place.

Mr. Clabaugh was a soldier of the World war and was thirty years old. He leaves a wife and three small children. After the funeral services at the Methodist church here, the body was taken to Ruskin, his former home, for interment.

ANNUAL BANQUET FOR FALLS CITY

(Special to The Star)

FALLS CITY, Neb., Jan. 28—The seventh annual Falls City chamber of commerce banquet was held here Thursday night, with more than 160 in attendance.

An extensive program, consisting of speeches and music was given in connection with the banquet. Among the speakers were A. J. Weaver, Falls City; Lou E. Holland, president of the Kansas City chamber of commerce; Dean E. A. Burnett, acting chancellor of the University of Nebraska; and C. J. Brown, superintendent of the Omaha division of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

MARRY AT NORTON.

(Special to The Star.)

RED CLOUD, Neb., Jan. 28—The recent marriage of Clifford Cox, formerly of Cowles, and Miss Florence Walker of Norton Kas., has just become generally known. Mr. Cox is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Cox of Norton, former Webster county residents. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Walker of Norton. They will make their home in this city.

TWO FILINGS MADE.

(Special to The Star.)

RED CLOUD, Neb., Jan. 28—Up to this time there have been but two filings for county offices in Webster county. Judge A. D. Ramey has filed as a candidate for county judge to succeed himself, and Warren Thomas has filed as a republican candidate for county commissioner for the first district.

HIGH PRICED LAND.

(Special to The Star.)

NELIGH, Neb., Jan. 28—A deal was consummated whereby William C. Meyer of Wisner became the owner of the 80-acre farm formerly owned by Ernest A. Becker. This farm is located four miles south and one mile east of Brunswick in the northern part of Antelope county. The consideration was $14,000 or $175 per acre.

Nebraska Breeder Silver Foxes Takes Great Care Guarding And Feeding Highly Valuable Animals

Above—Bart and Naomi in the far cage and their young playing in the foreground. Naomi, mother of the young silver fox pups at Ayr.
Below—Watching for their master at feeding time.

(Special to The Star.)

HASTINGS, Neb., Jan. 28—Silver foxes whose valuation is said to be from $1,500 to $6,000 a pair, play in the three specially constructed pens at the farm home of Dr. B. F. Carper, three miles and a half southwest of Ayr.

Fed and housed with extreme care, the animals are in excellent condition and their coats are wonderfully fluffy and beautiful. Their tails seem almost to equal their bodies in size—they are so bushy and large.

Dr. Carper, well known veterinarian in his locality, is a lover of purebred stock. His Jersey cattle are among the best in the community, and even the young collie dog that attends them is purebred. Rhode Island chickens and dainty little black-tailed Japanese bantams strut about the place.

Dr. Carper secured his first pair of foxes about three years ago, buying them from a farm in Massachusetts, and allowing them to remain there until their young came, so that when they were finally shipped to him, there were in reality two pairs, the old and the young. Other pups from the litter were kept by the eastern growers for ranching the original pair.

The cages in which Dr. Carper keeps these interesting and highly valuable animals are made especially for the purpose. They are rectangular in shape with the sides sloping up to a smaller rectangular ceiling, and are covered all over with strong netting. A carpet wire covers the floor of the cage so that the foxes may not dig their way to liberty.

Three of these cages are placed within a larger enclosure for which the netting rises fully eight feet, with a carpet wire extending in three feet from the sides at the bottom, and an inward slanting ceiling wire about two feet wide at the top.

Every bit of food that the animals are given is weighed and measured for their two feedings a day. Once a day they are given meat, usually cooked rabbit, but occasionally beef heart. Each fox receives a fourth of a pound and one fox biscuit at a feeding. Milk and eggs vary their diet.

Three pair of the animals are already registered, but the five young pups that will not be a year old until in April, are yet to be registered.

The silver which makes this type of fox so valuable, is seen mainly on the face and hips of the animal, and is a tiny white mark near the end of each hair. The fact that each hair is black tipped makes it almost impossible for furriers to imitate the silver fox, a coat of which would cost a young fortune.

Anniversaries Of Birth Celebrated By Pioneer Women

(Special to The Star)

FALLS CITY, Neb., Jan. 28—Two veteran residents of Richardson county observed their birthdays here yesterday. Mrs. Harvey Smith, who formerly lived at Humboldt, celebratde her 77th birthday, while Mrs. E. S. Towle, county resident for 69 years, was 79 years old Friday.

Mrs. Towle was born in Whitesboro, N. Y., Jan. 27, 1849, the daughter of one of Falls City's original pioneer families, Mr. and Mrs. David Dorrington. The Dorringtons moved here in 1857, when the town was still in its infancy. Mrs. Towle was married April 15, 1866 at Arago, this county, to Edwin S. Towle, then a young lawyer.

The Towles have two sons, John W., of Omaha, and E. H., Falls City, manager of the Southeast Nebraska Telephone company. Mrs. Towle enjoys good health and does all her own housework. She has been an active member of the Methodist church for many years. A birthday dinner was given in her honor Friday night at her son's home here.

Compare CHRYSLER "72" against the field ... Bar none

In all the brilliant chronicle of Chrysler, no car has so keenly delighted a great and growing host of owners as the Illustrious New Chrysler "72"—a car so remarkable in quality and performance that, at its low price, nothing like its value can be found anywhere.

In Chrysler's triumphant march from 27th to 3rd place in sales in 42 months, the "72" has played a most significant part.

In the Illustrious New Chrysler "72"—longer, roomier, faster, handsomer—Chrysler Standardized Quality excels even Chrysler—in performance, in comfort, in appearance, in appointments.

The 75 horsepower engine—with counterweighted seven-bearing crankshaft—delivers 72 and more miles an hour with ease. It flashes instantly away in traffic. Mountain grades flatten out before this phenomenally powerful car. Equipped with rubber shock insulators in place of metal shackles, it rides with a new measure of comfort, safety and smoothness over the roughest roads.

Test the Illustrious New "72" in every conceivable manner—and bear in mind that all this added speed, length, roominess, riding ease, dependability, long life and beauty, are brought to you at a remarkably low price.

Then you will appreciate just how much wider is the gap which the Chrysler "72" places between itself and all others selling within hundreds of dollars of its price.

New Chrysler "Red-Head" Engine—designed to take full advantage of high-compression gas, giving 12% greater torque with greater speed, power, hill-climbing ability and fuel economy, is standard equipment on the roadsters of the "52," "62," "72" and on all models of the New 112 h. p. Imperial "80." It is also available, at slight extra cost, for all other current body types. For a reasonable charge it can be applied to earlier Chrysler cars now in use.

In Performance and Value It Stands Alone

Illustrious New Chrysler "72"—Two-pass. Coupe (with rumble seat), $1545; Royal Sedan, $1595; Sport Roadster (with rumble seat), $1595; Four-Passenger Coupe, $1595; Town Sedan, $1695; Convertible Coupe (with rumble seat), $1745; Crown Sedan, $1795.

All prices f. o. b. Detroit, subject to current Federal excise tax. Chrysler dealers are in position to extend the convenience of time payments.

CHICAGO AUTO SHOW OPENED

Forty-four Makes of Cars Are On Display at Exhibit.

Fifteen New Models Unveiled at Opening of Exposition.

Chicago's twenty-eighth annual national automobile show opened Saturday at the coliseum revealing all that is new in the motor car industry. The exposition will continue daily until next Saturday, being closed today according to custom.

The show surpasses all others ever held. Cars reflect new standards of beauty, performance, value and every other essential that influences the buyer of automobiles. More new models were unveiled than on any other like occasion. The exhibits are more comprehensive, including not only passenger cars, but trucks, taxicabs, accessories, and shop equipment, and all are displayed under one roof, occupying the entire space of the Coliseum as well as the north and south annexes.

Decorative effects, too, reach new heights of beauty as well as creative originality. In fact, they are the most novel in the long and successful history of the shows, taking on the appearance of a park, the walks lined with real trees and with ornamental pergolas, tall lamps, promenades, together with a new scheme of lighting to augment the artistic beauty. As if to top it all off, illusion effects carry out the impression of realism.

Record Attendance.

The main floor of the Coliseum, the north hall and the annex are assigned to passenger cars, trucks and taxicabs. The balconies of the Coliseum and the second floor of the annex are devoted to parts and accessories, while shop equipment fills the balcony of the north hall.

Unprecedented interest in the automobile is evidenced at the motor show with a record attendance on the opening day drawn from a wide area, including not only the middle west, but the south, southwest and Pacific coast as well. While doing homage to King Automobile, visitors make their pilgrimage to see and admire the newest models and the latest trends of motordom.

Among the more than two hundred exhibits at the Coliseum there are at least fifteen new models among the forty-four makes of cars shown.

The show and the many displays on view reflect perfectly and vividly the mighty progress that has been made and indicates through its exhibits why the automotive industry has risen to leadership and why the almost astounding facts about its size are, after all, only natural in view of the essential and dispensable nature of motor driven vehicles.

The cars displayed show a marked improvement in beauty, attractive and striking though the 1927 models were. Lines of hoods, radiators, fenders, wheels and bodies have been harmonized to a greater extent than ever before. Intensive study of the effect of color combinations on body lines has resulted in setting off the lines to the greatest advantage. In line with the modern trend, colors are brighter than formerly.

In the interiors, too, harmony of line and color is seen. Upholstery fabrics, hardware and trim have been so chosen as to color and form as to render the interiors more pleasing.

Equipment More Complete.

Then, too, equipment is more complete. All cars, with one exception, now have four-wheel brakes, most of them come with shock absorbers, and nearly all have automatic windshield wipers, rear-view mirrors and automatic stop lights, while many carry bumpers, dash gasoline gauges and dash thermometers as equipment.

Greatly improved riding quality and more comfortable cushions are to be noted. Power has been increased, partly higher compression, partly by better valve action, partly by improved intake manifolding and in some cases by larger engines.

The show as usual is held under the auspices of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce of which the show committee consists of Charles D. Hastings (Hupp Motor Car Corporation), chairman; C. F. Chandler, (Chandler-Cleveland Motors Corporation) and Alfred Swayne, (General Motor Corporation); S. R. Miles, manager.

The following makes of vehicles exhibited:

Passenger cars—Auburn, Buick, Cadillac, Chandler, Chevrolet, Chrysler, Cunningham, Diana, Dodge Brothers, DuPont, Erskine, Elcar, Essex, Falcon, Flint, Franklin, Gardner, Hudson, Hupmobile, Jordan, Kissel, LaSalle, Lincoln, Locomobile, McFarlan, Marmon, Moon, Nash, Oakland, Oldsmobile, Packard, Paige, Peerless, Pierce-Arrow, Pontiac, Reo, Star, Stearns, Studemaker, Stutz, Velie, Whippet, Willys-Knight, and Wolverine.

Taxicabs—Yellow Cab.

Trucks — American LaFrance, Chevrolet, Cunningham, Federal, GMC, Graham Brothers, Pak-Age Car, Reo, Roamer, Sayer & Scovill, Selden, Star, Stewart and Studebaker.

Studebaker Braves Flood.

Studebakers successfully made their way through the devastated sections of England during the recent flood there despite the high waters and almost impassable roads. Here is a Studebaker motorist on the flooded roads near Aldermaston, Berkshire. He is giving a lift to the English postman who has found his bicycle a hindrance rather than a help on his daily round.

Auto Notes

When side curtains are put away they should be dry and should have paper placed between them to prevent the celluloid from being scratched.

There is one point the home repairer should remember regarding adjustments of the differential gears, and that is that the work calls for the utmost precision.

Carbon cleaning is made more effective if waste or rags are packed into the engine head bolt holes and water passages before the operation of scraping the piston heads is begun.

When making repairs on the road be sure and stop where it is possible to be seen from both directions and get the car off the highway, if possible, otherwise the repairs may be more extensive than anticipated.

AGED MINISTER PICKS CHRYSLER

Veteran Chaplain, 82, Chooses "52" Coupe for His First Car.

The Red Indian's trail, the pioneer's covered wagon, the stage coach, the railroad train and the steamboat, street cars, horseless carriage and their modern development, the fleet and beautiful automobile of today, even the aireplane—all methods of transportation developed in the fast moving progress of the nineteenth and twentieth centuries have been watched with interest by Chaplain James King Gibson during the 82 years of his busy life.

But until very recently the veteran national chaplain of the G. A. R. knew them only as spectator and passenger. Salesmen found him immune when they tried to induce him to buy.

Not until Walter P. Chrysler gave to the world an automobile so full of new beauty, smart handling, flashing acceleration and dependability that its appeal could not be resisted, did Dr. Gibson fall from grace. A few weeks ago he went into the showrooms of the Barlow Motor Car company of Dayton, Ohi, and came out the owner of a Chrysler "52" coupe, the first gasoline car he has owned.

Learned Quickly.

With only a few lessons he mastered the details of gear shift and steering, and he is now an enthusiastic Chrysler owner, driving through Dayton's city traffic with as much ease and certainty as any representative of young America.

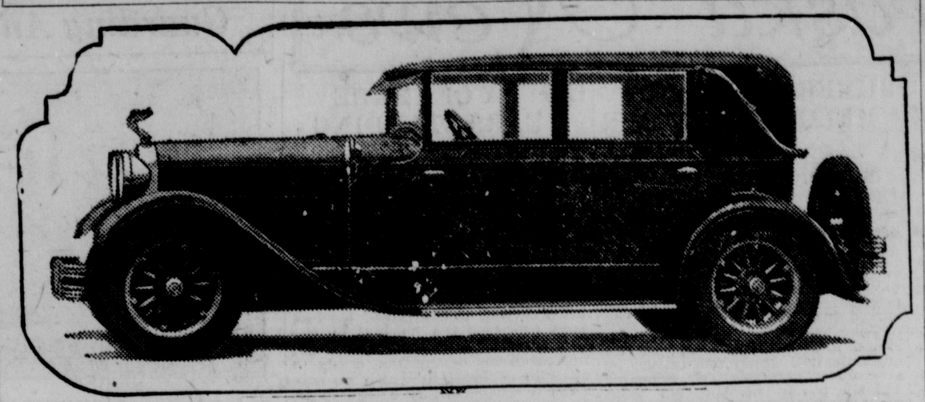

Rev. James King Gibson's life has been unusually full of incident. He has been active in G. A. R. circles for many years and is now national chaplain of the organization. He has also been state clerk of Dayton Presbytery for nearly half a century and has served as moderator of the Ohio synod of the Presbyterian church.

He is also Protestant chaplain of the National Military home at Dayton and is the sole surviving officer of the home who is a veteran of the Civil war. In 1913, at the age of 67, he rescued two young women from drowning at Virginia beach, near Norfolk, Va. For this deed he was awarded the Carnegie hero medal.

Pistons and Rings.

When inserting pistons into their cylinders, it is necessary to compress the piston rings so that they will enter the cylinders. There are many methods of doing this, the following being probably the best and easiest plan: A ring of metal, preferably, though not necessarily, of brass, is turned on a lathe. The bore of this ring is made of the same diameter as the cylinder bore for a short distance, about one-quarter inch. From this point the bore is tapered, so that at the larger end the bore has increased about one-half inch. The width of the ring should be about 1½ inches. In use the ring is placed directly over the cylinder with the small end down. The piston, with its rings inserted in the grooves, is then passed through. As the piston passes through the ring the piston rings are gradually compressed to enter the cylinder.

FAMOUS HORSE RIDES IN BUICK

'Red River,' Rodeo Favorite, Makes Itinerary in Late Coupe Model.

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 29— What has become of the horse that used to kick the dashboard to bits and wrap the buggy around the nearest telephone pole at a motor car's approach?

That particular horse, as observation anywhere in this country will prove, is entirely extinct. The equine race, like the human race, has undergone a great change in its attitude toward the motor car. Horses and automobiles now get along amicably in the same streets, and runaways are a rarity.

While the motor car has demonstrated its superiority for purposes of rapid transportation, the horse still holds a very important position, both in the economic world and in that of sport. It is here that the two may often be seen working together, automobiles with trailers being employed to haul racing mounts around the various circuits.

Red River a Favorite.

Red River is one of the best educated horses of the northwest. In this country, where to be regarded as good, a horse must excel, "Red River" has made a name for himself in roping and riding stunts. If anyone should remark to him that the automobile had displaced the horse, he would emit a loud and raucous horse laugh.

Red River is used by Bob Ingersoll, Bob Russell, and Mickey O'Hara in rodeo work throughout the cow country east of the mountains. All his riding from one round-up stampede to another is done in a trailer hauled by Ingersoll's Buick coupe. The automobile, instead of putting him out of business, has enlarged his field by hundreds of miles, and enabled him to enter virtually all the events in the territory.

The three cowboys, Red River and the Buick make a spectacular quintette, rambling from one town to another. Like his owners, the horse rides in style and seems to enjoy himself to the limit.

She has told her story in her own sweet-running way

THE story has been told. Thousands of happy owners of Reo Flying Clouds have listened to its thrilling chapters. From every quarter of the compass, they have written us of the way in which the Flying Clouds have sailed into their hearts, because over the hills and through traffic they have exceeded buyers' expectations of great performance in economy, comfort, ease of handling, beauty, pick-up, braking, sustained travel, and speed.

Women have praised them lavishly, while men have grown lyric over them. You'll find these tales of the Flying Clouds in the booklet, "She Has Told Her Story in Her Own Sweet-Running Way." Send to us for a copy or ask any Reo dealer. And when you have read what others say, let a Flying Cloud tell you her story in her own unmatched way. Then you'll know how much of a pleasure motoring can be. There's one near you. Try her out.

STUDEBAKER COMMANDER

-more than mile-a-minute speed for sixteen days and nights

[25,000 MILES in less than 23,000 consecutive MINUTES]

THE Studebaker Commander established 50 world's records for speed and endurance during 1927. Today it holds every official endurance and speed record for fully equipped stock cars regardless of power or price.

Nothing ever went so far so fast as the three Commanders which each traveled 25,000 miles in less than 25,000 consecutive minutes at the Atlantic City Speedway in October. Two roadsters made the run in 22,968 minutes and the sedan in 24,200 minutes. The run was made under the supervision of the American Automobile Association which checked every car and certified to its stock design.

Only a car of the soundest engineering, built of the best steels and alloys by the most expert mechanics, could live to tell this story of achievement. It proves without question that The Commander is able to deliver more brilliant, sustained performance in your own hands—costing you less to own and to operate. Don't let The Commander's low One-Profit price ($1495 f. o. b. factory) cause you to underestimate its fine quality nor its brilliant performance. Because it is built complete by Studebaker in Studebaker plants, The Commander gives you every point of beauty, luxury and ability you would rightly expect in a high priced car.

As a result of advanced design, precision manufacture and the practice of running in every car at the factory, you may drive your Commander 40 miles per hour the day it is delivered.

76 years of honest manufacturing are back of The Commander.

Army Coach Favorable to Clash With Nebraska

Outlook Brighter For Husker Game

Coach Biff Jones Favors Grid Clash With Nebraska and Director Gish Hopes Close Deal This Week.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—A football game between the University of Nebraska and the Army in 1928 now is strictly up to Major Fleming, West Point athletic officer, and General E. B. Winans, post commandant.

This was the news leaking out of a conference tonight between Lawrence E. (Biff) Jones, West Point football coach, and H. D. Gish, athletic director at the University of Nebraska.

Coach Jones Favorable.

"It looks very much like Nebraska and Army will play football this year," Gish said tonight. "Lieutenant Jones certainly is agreeable, but, of course, he can do nothing final until he has conferred with Major Fleming and General Winans.

"They will confer next week and I will meet with Major Fleming and Lieutenant Jones Thursday of next week for a final conference. I feel very hopeful that the game will be scheduled."

Take Case to Coolidge.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—President Coolidge today took under advisement a plea to order West Point and Annapolis authorities to heal their break in athletic relations.

Representatives Britten, republican of Illinois and Fish, republican of New York, asked Mr. Coolidge to intervene and came away from the White house hopeful that he would speak the word which would assure the service classic for 1928.

Although the chief executive gave no direct word of encouragement to the two congressmen, he listened attentively to a lengthy plea for action.

Predict Bad Feeling.

Telling the president that "bad feeling would spread through the entire ranks of both the Army and Navy unless the breach is mended, they recalled that President Roosevelt intervened on a similar occasion 20 years ago.

The Navy is willing to compromise on the basis of a four-year eligibility rule for West Pont, while it adheres to the three-year rule, it was disclosed by Fish. In a lengthy statement, he scored the military academy authorities for refusing to reopen negotiations.

Contradicts Winans.

Fish vigorously countered the statement of Major General E. W. Winans, superintendent of West Point, that adoption of eligibility rule would deny former college stars "equality of opportunity."

"If there ever was a weaker argument or one more in contravention of the facts it would be difficult to find," said Fish.

"The main objection to the high-handed attitude of the authorities at West Point is that it does not permit 'equal opportunity' in all activities in the academy.

"Where is the equal opportunity' afforded the young cadet of 18 entering West Point to make the football team in his second year, when he finds nine out of the 11 members on the Army team to be former college players and generally former stars?"

All big colleges, he asserted, have adopted rules to prevent transfers

LAWRENCE, Kas., Jan. 28—(U. P.)—"Rub" Thomson, forward on the University of Kansas basketball team, was expelled from the squad today because he failed to report for practice.

Thomson did not show up for a special Saturday practice session and Coach "Phog" Allen declared he would not tolerate the misdemeanor.

NEBRASKA TRIMS HAWKEYE CAGERS

Cornhuskers Step Ahead of Iowa State In Basket Bout.

Munn Sets Scoring Pace With 13 Points To Help Huskers.

BY GREGG McBRIDE.

Nebraska basketball stock was the Cornhuskers trounced Iowa State college of Ames on the coliseum court, 37 to 26. Glenn Munn, Nebraska sophomore, center who towers well over six feet, was considerable of a factor in the elevation of the Cornhusker quotation on the cage market. The elongated used his height to good advantage, controlling the tip-off and collecting six baskets to help rivet down the Cornhusker victory.

Coach Charley Black's band of Cornhuskers flashed more spirit and drive than during the previous week's engagement with the Kaggies and always had the game in hand.

Huskers Always Ahead.

The Cornhuskers, in fact, were never headed, setting a 21-8 pace at the close of the first half and holding a sufficient margin during the second period to smother two Iowa State rallies.

The Scarlet and Cream tossers early in the game started to the task of measuring the Ames invaders. The Huskers were scrapping for every opportunity and their aggressiveness bore fruit, seven of the twelve baskets during the first half being the result of follow-in efforts.

FIRST WRESTLING MEET.

Nebraska high schools will settle a new state championship this winter when leading grapplers in Cornhusker prep circles gather at the University of Nebraska, March 2 and 3, for the first annual state high school tourney.

Omaha and Lincoln schools have given wrestling some consideration for several years, but this is the first season the mat sport has been taken seriously out in the state. A number of southwest Nebraska interscholastic outfits have seen action and several of the smaller schools have lone performers that will bid for individual laurels.

Introduction of the mat sport in Nebraska high school circles should build for strong varsity teams at the University of Nebraska in later years. Cornhusker coaches at present are hobbled by lack of candidates who have had experience in fundamentals or have been through the fire of actual competition.

Iowa and Oklahoma prep schools list wrestling as a major sport, while Kansas and Missouri also are giving more prominence to mat competition.

THE CAPTAINCY PROBLEM.

A number of Nebraska high schools solve the captaincy problem in the different branches of sport by appointments of a leader before each game. Two prep aggregations this year are trying out a new plan—that of appointment of a captain before each game and the election of a "season captain" by lettermen at the end of the schedule.

HIGH SCHOOL CONFERENCES.

Several sections of the state have enlivened the sport season by the formation of conferences for the awarding of sectional titles in the different branches of sport.

These leagues help to foster interest in the games and, when guided by good leaders, can be a great aid in building better athletics.

There is one danger, however, which will confront several of the organizations unless they change their policies. At least two of the groups appear to be heading for the rocks unless they pare down their membership. The Western conference, a veteran organization, now lists 15 members and is reported as "still growing."

Fifteen schools is too many and tends to provide "fluke champions" and "hand-picked schedules." The southern Nebraska circuit, newly formed, would also stand considerable pruning before it can become a strong and healthy organization.

HUSKER MATMEN IN HOME COMPET

Nebraska and Kansas In Dual Meet This Week In Lincoln.

Wrestling Bouts Follow Cage Game With Aggies From Oklahoma.

University of Nebraska wrestlers will make their first home appearance of the season at the coliseum next Saturday evening when Coach Johnny Kellogg's Cornhusker grapplers meet the University of Kansas in a dual meet. The Husker-Hawker meet will follow the Oklahoma Aggie - Nebraska basketball game and give fans opportunity to inspect a doubleheader sport card.

The Nebraska squad lost an 18-0 meet at Cornell college in the opening meet of the campaign. While the defeat was a shutout, Coach Johnny Kellogg sees no reason to be discouraged over the first showing of his youngsters. Cornell held one-sided victories over Wisconsin, Northwestern and Purdue and the Nebraska meet was the first dual clash in which the Cornell grapplers had bene unable to obtain one or more wins by the fall route. The Cornhuskers carried the Iowa wrestlers into two extra period affairs.

Toman Shows Promise.

Joe Toman, Nebraskan, who competed in the 175-pound division against Cornell, has been showing up in fine fashion this season. At Mt. Vernon he forced Appleton, Cornell light-heavyweight, into an extra period match. Appleton, who has not lost a match during his collegiate career, had a close call in his bout with Toman. The Nebraskan held a 55-second itme advantage at the close of the regulation period—just five seconds short of a victory.

The Nebraska squad showed lack of experience and condition during the Cornell bouts. Coach Kellogg has been sending the grapplers through some stiff paces the past week, the daily program including a morning turn around the stadium track and the afternoon schedule including a workout on the coliseum mats.

There will be several changes in the Nebraska squad this week. John Kish, veteran 115-pounder, who was on the sick list during the Cornell meet, has elected to remain on the sidelines this year. A. Simic, 158-pound candidate, will not bid for a varsity berth, as he plans to join the varsity football squad next fall and does not wish to miss a year of football eligibility.

Enzor Kellogg, brother of the Nebraska mentor, probably will wrestle for Nebraska in the 115-pound group. Kossowski is giving Kellogg an argument and final trials are scheduled for next week.

The 125-pound position presents a three-cornered competition between Max Karrer, Aubrey Huren and Kenneth Millette, with the veteran Karrer holding a slight edge. Final tryouts are booked for next week.

Captain Luff Lightweight.

Captain Luff will defend the 135-pound division and Simons, who made the Cornell trip, probably will be retained as the 145-pound choice. Reimers, who wrestled in the 135-pound division at Cornell, is out after Simons' job.

Joe Toman will wrestle in the 158-pound or light-heavyweight division. In the event Toman is moved to the 175-pound class, Stone or Robertson will battle it out for the 158-pound representative. Should Toman go into the 158-pound group, then Koehnke, who wrestled as a heavyweight at Cornell, or Davis, a letter man, will take care of the heavyweight and light-heavy positions. Each is eligible for either class.

LAST MONTH IN HI CAGE DERBY

Lincoln Meets Uni. Place And Grand Island This Week.

Victorious Crete Five Will Tackle Tech Team On Omaha Maples.

By GREGG McBRIDE.

The Nebraska high school basketball race enters the final month of the 1928 campaign this week with a majority of the quintets taking stock of their chances for qualification in the state carnival next March.

Fifty percent victories during the season of basketball is the requirement for tournament participation this year, and while a few teams already are in with the required percentage, a majority of the quintets will be making a last minute drive to get under the wire.

The feature attraction on this week's card is the Crete-Omaha Tech game on the Maroons' court Saturday night. Crete, runnerup in the 1927 cage tournament, is an outstanding team again this year. Although more or less handicapped by a small home court, Coach "Pop" Klein's veteran Saline county aggregation has a nail-victorious record for the 1928 grind, the list of wins including the scalp of Lincoln.

Havelock to Omaha.

Havelock, a good defensive team, will invade Omaha for a game at Creighton Prep.

Lincoln high meets University Place on the Methodist maples and entertains Grand Island at Irving Junior. The Young Methodists and Third City teams are both strong this year and will give the Red and Black good arguments.

North Platte and Ravenna will attempt to stop the undefeated Broken Bow five, the two games being booked for the Custer county court.

Kimball and Gering.

Kimball and Potter, a pair of western leaders, will meet at Pot-

Bradshaw Hi Keeps Up Victory Spurt

BRADSHAW, Neb., Jan. 28—Bradshaw high made it seven victories in eight games last night by romping over Utica, 29 to 16, on the latter's court. Bradshaw led 11-10 at the close of the first half.

Mason led the Bradshaw scoring with 14 points and Noyes, his teammate, scored 11 points. It was the second victory of the week for Bradshaw, the locals bowling over Thayer, 30 to 15, Wednesday night.

Wheels Start Whirling For State Cage Tourney

Preliminary information regarding the staging of the eighteenth annual Nebraska high school basketball championships at the University of Nebraska coliseum, March 8-10, was mailed to Nebraska high schools Saturday from the office of H. D. Gish, acting director of athletics.

The information sheets call attention to the fact that the official playing season is Dec. 12 to Feb. 25, inclusive, and that all games played must be reported. Entry blanks for tournament entrance must be in the hands of Secretary W. J. Braham, North Platte, on or before Feb. 29.

The tournament will open Thursday, March 8, at 8 a. m. and registration of tournament teams will start Wednesday, Feb. 7, at 1 p. m.

Four Dates On Hi Cinders Calendar

Four important dates on the Nebraska high school track calendar were announced Saturday by Henry F. Schulte, head track coach at the University of Nebraska. The list:

Numeral roll—Feb. 1 to June 1.
Home course relays—April 7 to 21 inclusive.
Pentathlon—April 13 to 23 inclusive.
Track and field championships—May 11 and 12.

HIGH WRESTLERS IN STATE COMPET

Matmen In Prep Circles Clash March 2-3 In Tournament.

Event to Be Staged Under The Direction Of University.

Questionnaires regarding the first annual Nebraska interscholastic wrestling meet, which will be held at the University of Nebraska March 2 and 3, have been mailed high schools by H. D. Gish, acting director of athletics at the University of Nebraska.

Information from Gish's office states that either three or four places will be awarded, depending upon the number of entries in each weight division.

High schools may enter a full team or only men in such weights as they desire, each school being limited to one entry in any one weight, the rules state.

Medals to Winners.

A team trophy, emblematic of the championship, will be awarded the team scoring the highest number of points. Individual medals will also be awarded to place winners in each weight division.

With two exceptions, rules of the National Collegiate Athletic association will govern the high school wrestling competition.

Weight Divisions.

The first exception provides that weight division shall be 95 pounds, 105 pounds, 115 pounds, 125 pounds, 135 pounds, 145 pounds, 158 pounds and heavyweight.

The second exception provides that the time of bouts in dual competition shall be seven minutes, with two extra periods of one and one-half minutes in case the bout goes over-time. In the state tournament, the preliminary bouts will be five minutes and the finals seven minutes.

TABLE ROCK HIGH WINS TWO GAMES

TABLE ROCK, Neb., Jan. 28—Table Rock high won a doubleheader from Elkcreek here last night. The Table Rock first team won, 19 to 9, and the reserves copped a 14-6 verdict.

It was the last game for Ernest Boyles because of the new 20-year ruling. Table Rock has won five of six games this season.

Eagle Wins Game.

ELMWOOD, Neb., Jan. 28—Elmwood dropped two games of basketball to Eagle last night. Jacobson led the Eagle scoring with eight baskets and his team won 32-24. The Eagle reserves beat the Elmwood reserves, 10-8.

'Links' to Pueblo; Protest Is Filed

While Spencer Abbott Serves Notice Club Is Transferred, Local Park Head Prepares File Suit.

BY "CY" SHERMAN.

A Saturday night announcement by Spencer Abbott, new baseball magnate in the Western league, that Pueblo, Colo., has succeeded to Lincoln's membership of the league circuit brought a counter claim from the Lincoln Baseball Park association that the league is "all wet" in its scheme to put the Links on wheels; that the club will continue to operate at Landis field, both in 1928 and 1929.

Wherein They Disagree.

That venerable aphorism, i. e., "it takes a difference of opinion to get up a horse race," is a perfect fit into the present situation involving the future activities of the Lincoln club. As official spokesman for the league, Spence Abbott avers that the franchise already has been moved out of Lincoln, while Earl Coryell, president of the Lincoln Baseball Park association, contends with much positiveness that removal of the franchise violates certain specific rights of stockholders in the association which he heads and that said stockholders have not the slightest intention to abide by the transfer.

Notice of Civil Suit.

In other words, the association, through President Coryell, has avowed its purpose to tie up the league in the civil courts and take such steps as are necessary to compel the league to respect a contract which binds the Dale Gear loop to maintain the Links in Lincoln.

Events moved swiftly in local baseball circles Saturday. A delegation of baseball boosters met in the forenoon with the directors of the Chamber of Commerce, presenting a plan which suggested that the chamber and civic clubs of Nebraska's capital city get behind a plan to underwrite a 60,000 attendance.

Directors Decline.

The chamber directors, in subsequent executive session, declined to approve the underwriting scheme, but formally went on record as endorsing a plan to sell $10,000 worth of baseball tickets in advance of the season and to take any reasonable steps designed to build increased interest and enthusiasm in Western league ball in the city.

Information of the action of the C. C. directors was conveyed to Spencer Abbott, who came to Lincoln Thursday from Pueblo, and the announcement was not long in coming that Pueblo, which already

PRIESTS OF SOCK FLOCK TO DIXIE

Fight Colony On Mark to Smoke Up No. 3 By Gene and Jack.

Chicago Poised Propose That Rickard Pick Windy City.

BY LARRY SMITH.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—The high priests of sock, gathering here in winter conclave, are about to come out with an official communique. It probably will pop within three days, and it may settle a few of the questions of "who," "when," "where," and, if necessary, "why," regarding Gene Tunney's next fight and opponent.

All the elements are here excepting only the ex-titleholder and perennial opponent, last reported in Los Angeles.

Tunney will begin actual training here under the palms at the oceanside Monday. Tex Rickard, who has been playing golf and saying little except the short and sulphurous words necessary to that game is here for the rest of the winter. Billy Gibson, the taciturn sphynx, will arrive Wednesday to add to the silence.

Cermack on the Job.

The Chicago angle is represented by A. J. Cermack, chairman of Cook county commission and a warm personal friend of Tunney, who also has taken a winter home here, not far from either Tex or Gene.

Cermack thus far is the most frankly voluble of the lot. His objective is simple. He wants Chicago to get the next Tunney fight. This, despite the belief among the wise ones that the Yankee stadium will

Hahn's Speed Spurs Hope U. S. May Win Olympics

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—(U. P.)—Lloyd Hahn has revived America's hope for victory in the 800 and 1500-meter races at the eleventh Olympiad.

The stars and stripes have waved triumphantly only once at those two distances since 1912, when Ted Meredith won the 800-meter race at Stockholm in 1:51.9, setting a world's record which still stands.

The middle distance runners of Finland and Great Britain have made American stars eat a lot of dust in the last two Olympics at Antwerp and Paris, but it may be different at Amsterdam next summer.

May Be Double Starter.

Hahn's remarkable running at distances from half a mile to a mile during the last two seasons has caused Head Coach Lawson Robertson of the American Olympic team to consider the phlegmatic Nebraskan for a double starter.

"Lloyd Hahn has indicated beyond very muc hdoubt that he will be a good bet in both the 800 and 1,500 meter races," Robertson said. "He has the speed, strength and stamina needed."

Hahn finished sixth in the 1,500 meter race at Paris in 1924. Paavo Nurmi won the race in 3:53.6, a new Olympic record.

Unbeaten In Two Years.

A glance at the Boston A. A. runner's achievements of last winter and the current indoor season shows that he has not trailed a runner to the tape in two seasons.

Hahn beat everybody at 880 yards, 1,000 yards, 1,000 meters and a mile last winter. He beat Edvin Wide, the Swedish runner, by reeling off a mile in 4:12 1-5. He set a new world's record of 2:12 4-5 for the 1,000 yards and another record of 2:26 1-5 for the 1,000 meters. In a relay at Franklin field, Pa., Hahn was timed in 1:51 1-5 for a half mile stretch, a fraction of a second better than the world record.

No Race With Peltzer.

Among Hahn's competitors in at least one of the middle distance races at Amsterdam will be Dr. Otto Peltzer, the German champion, who has been granted permission to compete in three races in this country.

Hahn wants to meet the doctor, but the Tenton star's present selection of events and meets will not bring the two together.

Dr. Peltzer has defeated the outstanding middle distance stars of Europe, including Paavo Nurmi, the flying Finn, D. G. A. Lowe, the British champion, and Edvin Wide, the Swedish star.

CASE OF ROGERS STILL A MYSTERY

No Logical Excuse Yet Advanced for Shift of Hornsby.

Fans Told This and That, But Reasons to Date Fail to Satisfy.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—The most incomprehensible feature of the recent Hornsby trade by the New York Giants is not the comparative obscurity of the players they obtained in exchange. It is the fact that the Giants traded Rogers Hornsby for anybody.

Their ruling obsession these recent years, outside of making money, has been their vendetta with the rival New York club, the Yankees. The latter had taken the play away from them with Babe Ruth and they had no rest until they lined up a player they thought might prove something of a rival attraction to the boy friend. Hornsby was the best they could do after years of effort.

Some Facts Overlooked.

It seems to me that, with all of the intelligentsia casting about for explanations of the Hornsby incident, the fact has been overlooked that the Giants traded away their only spot of color on the entire ball club.

And they ask you to believe that they made this radical sacrifice because Hornsby had words with Stoneham and intimated that he agreed with McGraw in saying that he, Hornsby, would make an excellent manager for the Giants when McGraw decided to step down, as he must one of these fine days.

Praised by McGraw.

Yes, their story is that Hornsby had to go in order to establish the fact that there was only one manager of the club. That is bland indifference to contradictory statements, previously attributed to McGraw, in which the possibility of Hornsby becoming manager was discussed in a highly flattering vein.

There can be no suggestion of undetermined authority when the man in charge speaks for you as his successor. You just naturally don't try to have that man fired, either. And if he spoke out of turn and, because of this, you are laboring under a slight delusion, what might the other big shot be expected to do?

On the Persian Rug.

He might be expected, being that he really values your services as an employe and wants you to be the victim of no false impressions, to call you in upon the Persian rug and gently but firmly inform you that a mistake has been made. And, being that you are drawing $40,000 a year—far and away above the salary most managers are paid—you will be smart and go right along as you were.

Are Fans Gullible?

Suppose, at that, you have been slightly dumb in the past. Suppose you have let yourself say, as alleged, that if ever you become manager, you will insist that the other big shot must go. This statement, if true, would come under the general head of popping off. You then would be entitled to a good call from somebody. But the fact must not be overlooked that you still are a most valuable employe, one that cannot be replaced in a day, a month or perhaps for years.

No Successor In Sight.

So you are not discharged, so to speak, unless your man has an acceptable successor, for no boss will permit his personal feelings to make him take the worst of it in matters of this kind. The way Hornsby went last year, there is no real successor in sight and there will be none.

Persons who are accepting the official explanation at face value seem to me to be somewhat gullible. There must be more to this affair than appears on the surface.

EIGHT VICTORIES FOR KENESAW FIVE

KENESAW, Neb., Jan. 28—Kenesaw high registered its eighth victory of the season Thursday, defeating Campbell by a 15-10 score.

Kenesaw led 7-3 at half-time. Campbell rallied late in the third period and with two minutes to play the locals held only an 11-10 advantage. Two free throws by Bogbrett and a goal by Parks put the game on ice.

Coach J. N. Bonner's Kenesaw team has scored 180 points to 71 points this season. Wood River is the only team to beat Kenesaw. Score:

DWIGHT QUALIFIES FOR STATE TOURNEY

DWIGHT, Neb., Jan. 28—Dwight high qualified for the Nebraska state high school basketball tourney last night by defeating Garland, 6 to 2. Dwight reserves dropped a 6-3 game to the Garland reserves in the curtain-raiser. The Dwight seconds led 3-0 at half-time.

The Garland team failed to score a field goal off Dwight. The local defense has held opponents to five baskets in four games. Dwight travels to David City Friday and will be accompanied by a squad of rooters and the 25-piece high school band. Score:

VARSITY TRACK MEN IN ACTION

Cornhusker Cinder Squad In Good Time Marks Saturday.

University of Nebraska track prospects looked fairly bright Saturday afternoon as Coach Henry F. Schulte sent his cinder proteges through the first indoor tryout of the 1928 campaign.

High spots on the afternoon performance sheet included the work of Harold Trumble, sophomore hurdler, and the time mark of Etherton, miler.

Trumble was clocked in 6 7-10 and 6 8-10 seconds for two 50-yard flights of high hurdles. He beat out Krause, varsity hurdler of last season, in each race. Lamson, Neligh high hurdler who is a member of the frosh squad, was clocked in 7 1-10 seconds.

Etherton defeated Janulewicz of the 1927 squad to win the mile run in 4 minutes 41 3-10 seconds.

Wyatt Wins Quarter.

The feature race of the afternoon was the quarter-mile which found Captain Perly Wyatt breaking the yarn ahead of Davenport and Campbell. No time was announced as Coach Schulte had stopped his watch during the excitement of the race.

Roland Locke and "Chief" Elkins, two Olympic candidates, failed to perform. The duo attended a banquet in Omaha Friday night and did not return to Lincoln until Saturday afternoon, according to the announcement at the stadium. Summary of the performances:

BIG JESS HAD TIGHT SQUEEZE

Cocksureness of Cowboy All But Ruined His Fistic Career.

Every time anyone discusses the folly of ring carelessness and the understanding of ring foemen Jess Willard thinks of Charlie Miller, the San Francisco motorman, and connects with a case of shivers.

For Willard's contemptuous appraisal of Miller came within a few punches of eliminating Jess from the fistic picture in 1913. And, if that had happened, Willard never would have had the chance to fight for—and win—the title, and eventually snare enough money to keep in comfort until the end of his days.

Willard, who had met with considerable success in his fights through 1911, 1912 and early 1913, landed in San Francisco in the late spring of 1913 and took on Gunboat Smith.

Gunner Wins Verdict.

After 20 rounds of this and that, in a fight where Willard was supposed to be a "sure thing," the "Gunner" emerged as victor of the decision.

It was a sad jolt to Willard and his championship notions. But there was something of an alibi for him in that fight. His handlers promptly set up a loud cry of "bum decision" and rather excused the defeat of the giant Kansan.

A short time later, Willard was asked if he'd meet Miller. He "scouted" around a bit concerning Miller before he accepted. He was told by all the "smart guys" that Miller was just a pushover. So Jess took the match.

Afterward Jess made still more inquiry about Miller. And all the answers were "he's just a bum."

"Well, then," concluded Jess, "I guess there's no reason for me to do any real training for this fellow."

But one of Jess' friends happened along about then and said:

"Maybe Miller is just a joke—but you ought to train for him, anyway. Smith beat you. If Miller should happen to fluke a victory over you, that means you're through. Nobody ever will pay any further attention to you afterward so far as being a championship prospect is concerned."

Ignored Good Advice.

Willard ignored the advice—for taking it meant hard training. And of all the things Willard hated in this life, it was the training grind. So he just accepted the judgment of the others that Miller was a punk and climbed into the ring on the night of June 27, 1913, fat, flabby and able to travel no more than a full round at a swift pace.

The battle hardly was under way before Willard came to know that Miller wasn't quite the bum he was pictured to be. And Miller was as hard as granite for that fight. He stepped right into the gigantic Willard and proceeded to lather the Kansan with a great assortment of hooks, jabs and straight shots to the body and the head.

Jess Took a Pounding.

Miller battered Willard around in lusty fashion in the first round. He did the same thing in the second. He started off at a merry clip in the third, perhaps with the hope that he could deposit the mighty hulk of Willard upon the resin-covered canvas. But Jess happened to shoot home a long and stinging upper cut, following with a jolting left jab. Those punches took away a bit of Miller's optimism—cured him of his early gaiety. Yet he continued to rush Willard spasmodically during the rest of that round and all through the fourth and final.

Lucky to Get Draw.

Willard had "blown" in that third. He was just a clinching defensive individual in the fourth. Miller was doing whatever fist throwing work was done. When the final gong banged, a tired and seemingly beaten Willard stood awaiting the official ruling. The Miller crowd was jubilant; it figured that its own "Cholly" had won. The Willard corner was silent—depressed, feeling that defeat again had come to Willard, which meant the end of the dreams of a championship battle with Jack Johnson.

The referee pondered for a moment—and then he raised up one hand of each fighter. His decision was "draw"— and so Jess Willard was saved from the Elba of pugilism and given other chances, which eventually he cashed into a championship.

WOMAN MUSHER SECOND IN RACE

POLAND SPRINGS, Me., Jan. 28—(U. P.) — Mrs. Edward P. Ricker, jr., mother of two children, came within five minutes of beating Leonard Seppala, famous Alaskan musher, in the first leg of the annual Poland Springs dog sled race today.

The young woman's children, Bunty, 4, and Teddy, 2, saw their mother drive her team of speedy Siberians across the finish line well ahead of eight men who competed.

Seppala, behind his lightning team of seven Siberian dogs, covered the course in one hour and five minutes. It was the shortest race he ever ran.

Mrs. Ricker flashed across the finish line in one hour and 10 minutes.

Hiram Mason of Tamworth, N. H., was credited with third place. His time was announced unofficially as one hour and 23 minutes.

The second and last leg of the race will be run Monday.

LINCOLN TRACK SQUAD AT WORK

Ten Lettermen On Squad Bidding For Places On Graves Team.

With the graduation of eight members of Lincoln high state championship track team, and three members of the crack relay team who won in the Kansas and Drake classics in 1927, Coach Homer Graves has already sounded the call for pre-season training in an effort to gather material to put another championship squad on the cinders in 1928.

The nucleus of the 1928 track squad centers around the 10 letter-men who are still in school. These include Captain Bob Stein, quarter-miler and relay man; Duane Boulter, half-miler and miler; John Broady, hurdles; George Hartman, weights; Bruce Thorpe, weights and broadjump; Harold Able, miler; Roy Carvath, miler; Ralph Welch, sprints; Walso Minford, middle distances; Bill Barclay, quarter-miler.

had guaranteed a 70,000 attendance, would inherit the franchise.

Sends Wire to Pueblo.

Mr. Abbott then used the wires to inform the Pueblоans that they had won the prize and immediately began to pack his traveling bag preparatory to getting out of town.

Abbott's destination is Washington, D. C., where he will get on his job of borrowing players from major league clubs in organizing a team for the 1928 pennant race.

And while Abbott was edging in the general direction of the railroad station, President Coryell was composing a burning message to President Gear and his league giving notice that Lincoln has no intention to stand for the removal racket.

That Breen Contract.

The contract, on which the park association proposes to rest its case, was signed by Dick Breen an even year ago, at which time Breen went down on the dotted line in agreeing to lease Landis field for three successvie years and to operate a Western league club at that location during the period stated.

"There are no ifs nor ands in that contract," President Coryell said Saturday night. "The document binds Breen to use the park for the playing of Western league ball for three seasons beginning in 1927. As Breen was a recognized club owner in the league last year and is so recognized by the league today, Breen's contract clearly binds the league.

Same Franchise Involved.

"The franchise which Breen contracted to operate in Lincoln is the franchise which the league proposes to transfer to Pueblo. That franchise belongs in Lincoln and that is right where it will stay. The park association has no ax to grind with Spencer Abbott, as he came into the picture a year following the signing of the contract, but we shall hold the league and Breen to the last line and letter of the agreement.

"We have courts in this country to enforce the terms of broken contracts and the league must stand up and take the punishment that is coming its way unless the club owners tumble to the folly they have commited and of their own accord bring the club back to Lincoln."

Protest to Dale Gear.

Notice of the park association's intention was wired Saturday night by Mr. Coryell to League President Gear at Topeka as follows:

"LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 28, 1928—DALE D. GEAR, President Western Baseball League, Topeka, Kas.—We here give Western Baseball league, member of the National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs, and yourself, as president of said league, formal notice that our association intends to stand upon our rights under binding contract and agreement with representatives of your league and that we shall take such steps or procedure, legal or otherwise, as may be necessary to enforce those rights and to prevent transfer of Lincoln, Neb., franchise to Pueblo, Colo., or any other point. (stop) And we here give notice that our association demands that your league shall at once proceed with necessary arrangements to operate Western league club in this city during pennant seasons of 1928 and 1929, as provided in said contract with our association. (stop) Our association respectfully declines to guarantee specific paid attendance during 1928 or any other pennant season, as there is nothing in contract which requires our association to obligate itself to make guarantee of any nature. (stop) We give assurance that our association is willing guarantee advance sale of Ten Thousand Dollars worth of admission tickets and cooperate in every other reasonable way with Western league to end that club operated by said league in this city may have generous patronage and prosperous season.

"EARL CORYELL,
"President Lincoln Baseball Park Association, Inc."

Owner Commends Lincoln.

Lincoln's insistence that it purposes to enforce its rights undoubtedly has the endorsement of at least a few of the league club owners. The sports editor of The Star used the long distance phone to inform one of the magnates of Saturday's developments and the club owner in question was frank to say that Lincoln's pledge to put on a $10,000 advance sale should satisfy the league in every way. This particular magnate, in fact, proclaimed his intention to use his influence toward bringing about a reversal of the franchise transfer.

Statement by Abbott.

Spencer Abbott, while preparing Saturday night to depart for Washington, asked The Star to set him right with Lincoln fans.

"I have made some friends here. I like the town and wish to go away with good feeling all the way around," Abbott said. "If conditions were even, as between Lincoln and Pueblo, I'd take Lincoln without a moment's hesitation.

"But here's the situation: Lincoln has had four years of tailend baseball and it is perfectly natural that interest here is lagging. The fans are sour and would insist on being shown. On the other hand, Pueblo has been out of the league since 1911. Everybody there is steamed up over the prospects for the revival of the sport.

Expects Go Over Top.

"Pueblo will be satisfied even with a tailender. It will be a new thing and I expect to top the 70,000 guaranteed attendance mark by 20,000 admissions. I have a cinch in Pueblo and only a possibility in Lincoln. I don't think anybody in Lincoln can rightfully blame me for taking the cinch.

"I urge Lincoln fans to hold their tempers and keep their heads up. The situation here has been abused the past few years, but I look for the league circuit to be revised soon and I think it is inevitable that the Western will be coming back to Lincoln.

Park to Be Kept Up.

"I understand that the league will recognize its obligations to keep the park here in repair during the three-year term fixed in the lease to Dick Breen. The property will not be permitted to run down and the league will be in shape to resume here at a ball park in good condition."

Members of the special committee in conference with Abbott the past few days were not inclined to criticise the man who has transferred the team, but there can be no denial that there is intense feeling against the league. Bitterness was general toward the club owners whose votes gave Abbott authority to put the franchise on wheels.

League Ungrateful.

The magnates, it was pointed out, were in a tight hole four years ago and Lincoln came to front, subscribed $18,000 toward the purchase of Landis field from the Nebraska State league club owners and made it possible to find a home for the despised Sioux City franchise. Lincoln's generosity on that occasion has not been appreciated by the Western league, local fans assert, and the hope is general that the park association may succeed in its efforts to make the league pay dearly for what is generally described as the double cross.

Gear Affirms Transfer.

PUEBLO, Colo., Jan. 28—(U. P.)—Pueblo has been awarded the Lincoln Western league baseball franchise, a committee of local sportsmen announced tonight.

Dale Gear, president of the league, telegraphed members of the committee here that conditions in Pueblo had been found satisfactory and that a certificate of membership had been forwarded, it was announced.

Dick Breen, part owner and manager of the club, immediately signed the necessary papers and Pueblo began to look forward to its first organized baseball in more than a decade.

Spencer Abbott, who a week ago gave Pueblo fans an option of one week on the Lincoln franchise, was said to be in the east arranging for ball players.

The Pueblo option called for a sale of $10,000 worth of season tickets and the guarantee of a park rent free. The conditions have been fulfilled, local backers of the plan announced.

be the setting of the next title clash, Dempsey the opponent, and June the date, and despite the lack of comment by Mr. Rickard.

Tunney Favors Lake City.

Cermack frankly sets forth his ideas, saying: "Of course Chicago would like to get the fight. I've talked with Tunney about it and Tunney likes Chicago. Before Houston was selected for the democratic convention we wanted to get the convention and the next Tunnew fight at the same time.

"Now that the convention has gone elsewhere, we still want the fight," Cermack continued, talking informally in the library of his winter home. "The athletic commission has the support of Governor Small and Mayor Thompson in trying for it.

Backed by City Council.

"Edward J. Kelly, president of the South Side Park commission, which controls the stadium where the September fight was held, and I have been authorized by the city council to try to get the fight."

The Chicago interests will work through strictly conventional channels in their attempt to swing the bout westward. Rickard has Tunney on contract. Rickard will promote the fight, and he is the man they'll see.

"We'll see Rickard after February 1, which is the date for him to name Tunney's next opponent and post $100,000 guarantee."

Rickard had little to say, at some length, in his home down the street. He didn't want to put a yes or no on the Chicago angle and declared it was too soon to say for sure whether Dempsey can be brought out of his Hollywood seclusion to meet Tunney.

Montreal Dickers For "Tris" Speaker

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Montreal baseball fans were all agog today over the possibility that Tris Speaker, veteran American league outfielder, may play with the local International league team this season. Manager George Stallings, who discussed terms with Speaker, said he had found the "gray eagle" willing to "talk turkey."

The backers of the local team have given Stallings a free hand to secure whatever talent he needs, and no difficulty is anticipated in meeting Speaker's salary demands.

of players from one college to another, in order to uphold the amateur standing of the game.

"The superintendent of the naval academy, Rear Admiral Nulton, is willing to concede a big advantage to West Point in the four-year rule, yet the West Point head refuses even to discuss a compromise solution, in spite of the fact that practically every undergraduate and graduate of both academies want the game played."

Fish Is Bombastic.

WASHINGTON Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—The attitude of West Point and Annapolis was characterized as childish, ridiculous, and unsportsmanlike," by Representative Hamilton Fish, New York, today in appealing to President Coolidge to exercise his power as commander-in-chief of the army and navy to compel the two academies to resume their annual football classic.

Fish, who was, himself an all-American football star, revealed to President Coolidge that he had attempted to bring Admiral Nulton, commandant of Annapolis, and Maj. Gen. E. B. Winans, superintendent of West Point, to a conference to thresh out their quarrel over the three-year-eligibility rule demanded by Annapolis.

Fish disclosed that Nulton was willing to effect a compromise by which the 3-year rule should not apply to the West Point football stars, who have brought athletic glory to the present academy team, but to future entrants to the academy.

Winans Didn't Attend.

Winans decelined to attend the conference, Fish revealed. The major general replied that his refusal to accept an eligibility rule was based upon a policy of "balanced education and development of future officers in which equality of opportunity in all activities of the academy is fundamental."

Although Fish represents the West Point district in congress and has been for years a supporter of the Army team, he said Winans' contention was "indefensible and insupportable."

"If there ever was a weaker statement," said Fish, "it would be difficult to find. Where is the 'equality of opportunity' afforded the young cadet of 18 entering West Point to make the football team his second year when he finds nine out of the eleven members of the Army team to be former college stars.

Try For Compromise.

"The officials at Annapolis were prepared to accept the eligibility compromise proposed by Representative Britten and myself, although it still would leave a big advantage to the military academy.

"The plebe rule in effect at West Point violates the very principle that the superintendent says cannot be compromised. I did not serve two years in the army as an officer in the war not to know that there is no such fundamental thing as 'equality' in the army. It is just the opposite, from first-class private to general. Everything is rank, and it is just the same thing at West Point between the plebe and the upper classmen."

Claim Army Propaganda.

Fish declared that the military intelligence department of the army is now letting loose a barrage of real propaganda calculated to deceive the people on the Army's attitude. Football coaches throughout the entire country denounce the "ruthless, hard-boiled" attitude of West Point, he said.

"It is so childish as to be almost inconceivable that two great academies representing the army and navy departments of the federal government are unable to reach a mutually satisfactory compromise of their differences and play ball," declared the old Harvard tackle.

President Coolidge did not reveal whether he will act in the matter. Fish was accompanied to the white house by Britten.

RUTH REVERTS TO OLD HABITS

Many Pounds Overweight As Result Failure To Train.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—"Salvaging the wreck of Babe Ruth" was the title of a learned treatise propounded a year ago in a glow of self-satisfaction by Professor Arthur A. McGovern, the big and little biceps man who takes them and breaks them to his will. Today, it seemed possible that Mr. B. Ruth might be going about the business of wrecking the salvage. Mr. Ruth, who can gain we

Tom Sharkey Ripping, Tearing Fighter; Tim McGrath Found Him

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Tim McGrath of San Francisco, one of the most picturesque, colorful characters ever identified with the fight racket along the Pacific slope—or anywhere else—always delighted in telling the story of the left-handed way by which he discovered Tom Sharkey.

"It was in 1894 or thereabouts," related McGrath, "when San Francisco began to hear the sailor boys who had shore leave, tell about a tough, rough lad named Tom Sharkey, who was on the cruiser Philadelphia. The boasting they did soured me a little bit, as all boasting will do, and finally I decided to make a little cash cleanup for myself through their confidence in Sharkey.

"I figured I could pick up a good heavyweight, shoot him against Sharkey, bet a chunk on my boy and then have a hatful of money when my man knocked off the sailor. So I got myself a heavyweight who was only a second or third-rater, but he was a pretty good man at that. Then I hopped along to Vallejo, the real naval base, with all of $700 in my pocket, hunted up the sailor boys and said:

"'I've got a man who'll fight Sharkey and I am prepared to cover all the bets you want to make at even money on your shipmate. What do you bluffers say now?'

Back for Their Roll.

"'Well,' they answered, without even asking me the name of my fighter, 'you just wait here and we'll go back to the ship and find out how much the boys want to bet and we'll be back in a couple of hours with the money.'

"In less than two hours they came back.

"'Awfully sorry,' said the fellow who acted as spokesman, 'but we couldn't find all the boys on the ship. Lots of them that want to bet on Sharkey are on shore leave. They'll be back tonight and we'll get them and bring along their money to bet on Sharkey.'

"'Well, how much have you got now?' I asked rather rough like, for I figured that story about fellows absent on shore leave was only a way of excusing them for not backing Sharkey.

Near to Fainting.

"'All I've got here' answered the fellow—and he unwrapped a package. Then he began to count the money. I nearly fainted when I found that it totalled $12,250.

"'You cover this now,' said the leader, 'and if you'll meet us here tomorrow at the same time, I guess I'll have about as much more to bet on Sharkey against your man.'

"And mind you, they hadn't asked, even up to that time, who was my man. It might have been Jim Corbett or Bob Fitzsimmons—but it didn't make any difference to them.

"Well, when I found a gang of sailors ready to bet up to $25,000 at even money that Sharkey could whip anybody that I might send against him—well, I got tongue-tied for a few minutes, and then I said:

First Glimpse At Sharkey.

"'Now, boys, I'll cover those bets, but I want to see your man Sharkey first of all. I want to have a talk with him.'

"'Sure,' they agreed, 'we'll go back to the boat and bring him ashore.'

"A little while later they came back with Tom Sharkey in tow. I took one look at him—and another—and then another; I grabbed an arm and felt it. I looked at Sharkey's fists. And then, I chased my fighter right back to San Francisco because I didn't want him to get killed in a fight. Of course, the battle between Sharkey and my man never happened.

Had Him Step About.

"I got to talking to Sharkey, asked him all about himself and about his ring work. I asked him to do a little shadow boxing to show me how he could step. After that I asked:

"'How would you like to become a professional boxer?'

"'Sure,' answered Tom, 'that's me. If I get out of the navy I'll fight all right. And you can manage me. I'm a sort of ship policeman here—handle the rough tough bruisers. Not much of a job—and I guess they can spare me.'

Natural Slugger.

"It cost $121 to get Sharkey's release from the navy. I then put him into training—watched his every move. He wasn't a boxer; knew little about defense. But how he could take 'em—and how he could hit! Whew! Some fellows might have tried to change Sharkey into a boxer. Not me! He was a natural slugger—a rushing, tearing type of fighter.

"I didn't try to change him. Simply taught him a few tricks, set him to doing roadwork, got him into tip-top condition—and then I set him loose—and, well, everybody knows what happened afterward."

College Youth Mounted to Top Rung of Fistic Ladder; Was Idol of British Nation

Almost all of England's fighting champions of the far flung years came from lowly stations; graduates from the coal mines, the butcher shops, the docks or the factories; typical children of the slums. But "Gentleman" Jack Jackson was a radical departure.

Jackson was born of aristocratic parents; he was educated at college; royalty was among his admirers; nobility called him "friend." And he was, through all the years of his life, a companion of statesmen, bankers, poets, philosophers and the swagger elite of Great Britain.

In his athletic heyday, the handsome suave, cultured and extraordinary intelligent Jack Jackson was called "The Finest Formed Man in All of Europe." And, notching six feet in height, weighing 209 pounds with the striding grace of a panther and the erectness of a soldier, Jackson made a picture that it was England's delight to watch.

To College In His Teens.

Born in 1768, he was sent to college as soon as he reached his teens. His parents hoped that he would become a doctor. But fate took a han din his future, and all things were changed. Jackson, a natural athlete, became champion at everything he attempted at college. His special fondness was for pugilism, and when he was 19, he had reached his full height and weight and was heralded throughout sportive England as its greatest collegiate boxer.

It was just about then that William Fewterel of Birmingham, claimant of the championship of the nation, was lamenting because "the whole country is too cowardly to fight me." When Jackson heard of it, he said, in a burst of boyish enthusiasm:

"I think I could whip him."

Goaded by Champion.

One of his auditors carried the comment to Fewterel, and the latter responded with a public challenge to Jackson, which Jackson promptly accepted. In the midst of the furore over the possible meeting of an aristocratic collegian with the rough, uncouth son of the slums, Jackson's parents heard of it.

"I command you not to fight", was the word sent to Jackson by his father.

Jackson then sent word to Fewterel that, having been refused parental permission, he could not go through with the battle. Thereupon Fewterel, sneered that Jackson wasn't telling the truth; that the real truth was that he was "too cowardly to fight—like all the rest of them."

"Say to Fewterel," was the answer from the now maddened Jackson, "that whether I have permission of my parents or not, I shall fight him when and where and under whatever conditions he names."

Jackson Wins Crown.

And so, on June 9, 1788, before the most fashionable crowd that ever saw a fistic battle in the British empire of that time—with the Prince of Wales and many of the nobility looking on — Jackson the aristocrat, cheered by those of his set, went to battle against Fewterel, whose enthusiasts, the riff raff of the empire, rasped out their profane cheers to him.

Jackson, displaying skill and cleverness unseen in the ring up to that time, using jabs and hooks, blocking and sidestepping, methodically cut the professional champion of the fighting world of that era to ribbons and knocked him out in less than two hours of bare knuckle fighting.

Victim of Broken Ankle.

A year later, fighting his first battle in defense of title, accident came to him and he was ordered

For in the fight with George Ingleston, of Essex, he slipped on the wet turf, broke his ankle in the fall and had to default.

For nearly six years Jackson was fistically idle. And then came a day in 1795 when Dan Mendoza, the great Hebrew warrior, flung a general challenge. Mendoza had claimed the title after the retirement of Ingelston, and when no one else accepted his defi, Jackson announced that he'd try a comeback in a battle against the brilliant Mendoza.

Victor Over Mendoza.

On April 15, 1795, and with the gamblers offering 3 to 1 against his chances, Jackson battered Mendoza all around the ring and knocked him out in eleven minutes.

Jackson announced immediately afterward:

"I retire—and nothing can influence me to change my mind."

And nothing did. Every effort was made by many of Jackson's friends to get him to remain in fighting harness. But he turned a deaf ear and opened up a boxing school in England, where he recruited his pupils from among the royalty, the nobility and the aristocracy of the empire. Lord Byron, the poet, was one of Jackson's students and he gave to Jackson a title that lasted through his lifetime, "Emperor of Pugilism."

Before Crowned Heads.

By royal command Jackson sparred in the palace in London, appearing frequently in exhibitions before the emperor of Russia, the king of Prussia and other notables who paid visits to England's king and queen.

For many years, Jackson was the favorite model for sculptors and painters and likenesses of him are still in existence throughout England.

The admiration and esteem which England had for him in his earliest fighting years never diminished.

Lionized By Nation.

Rather, it grew greater with the years and until the time of his death, October, 1845, he was lionized.

Over his grave in Brompton cemetery, there is a mighty monument erected by popular subscription —a fund to which the kings and Emperors, princes and princesses, the aristocrats and those of lowly birth subscribed; a farewell tribute to the finest example of athletic manhood and the most popular English athlete of all history.

PALISADE HI GRABS PAIR OF VICTORIES

PALISADE, Neb., Jan. 28 — Palisade scored an easy victory over Cambridge here last night, 22 to 9. The score at the half was 16-4 in favor of Palisade.

Coach Monte Kiffin used the Palisade reserves during the last quarter. It was Palisade's second win of the week, the locals winning a 25-21 victory over Palisade in an extra period game.

Nebraska HORSES and HORSEMEN by "Columbus"

NEBRASKA PACERS WINNING $1,000 OR OVER IN 1927.

Belle McKlyo, by Peter McKlyo	$11,415
Hazel McKlyo, by Peter McKlyo	3,650
Air Silk, 2, by Gingen Silk	3,115
Nan McKlyo, by Peter McKlyo	2,550
Mapes Silk, by Bingen Silk	2,300
Strathall, by Putney Allerton	1,925
Subito McKlyo, by Peter McKlyo	1,849
Teddy Jr., by Teddy Townsend	1,725
Gunga Din, by Kim Karollon	1,670
Peter Hancock, by Peter McKlyo	1,625
Kinney Silk, by Bingen Silk	1,200
Sunny Boy, 2, by Silver Hal	1,200
Rags, by The Triumph	1,150
Zev McKlyo, by Peter McKlyo	1,000

In connection with the above table of money winning pacers bred in Nebraska it may be well to call attention to the preponderance of money won by the get of Peter McKlyo, 2:06, a trotting stallion owned at Midway Farm, Kearney, four years and sold two years ago to Frank Fox of Indianapolis, Ind. Of the 14 pacers named, six were sired by Peter McKlyo and those six won $21,760 during the racing season of 1927. It is also worthy of comment that of the 14 pacers, nine were bred at Midway farm. Such a condition will not continue always, or for very long, as Peter McKlyo and Bingen Silk are no longer located in Nebraska.

The bay pacing mare Sister Rose, by Archdale, winning a five-heat race over the ice at Toronto, Can., recently, was bred by N. J. Ronin, Fremont, Neb., and sold by that gentleman to Ned McCarr of Washington, Pa. Mr. Ronin is secretary of the Nebraska racing commission and was owner of the great speed siring stallion Archdale, which died early in 1927.

The recent sale of Subito McKlyo, 3, 2:08¼, indicates a strong market for colts and fillies bred in this state. Bob Maxey, 2, 2:17¼, was the first prominent colt sold in 1927 and others sold at profitable prices since that time were Betty Ann Maxey, 3, 2:09¼; Donna Cupid, 4, 2:07¼; Shirley Harvester, 2, 2:09¾; Mr. Worthy, 3, 2:12; Butch McKlyo, 2, 2:12¼; Don Worthy, 3, 2:14¾; Worthy Silk, 2, 2:19¾; Gretchen Harvester, 2, 2:22¼, and King Silk, 3, 2:29¾.

Among the aged horses sold the past year at good prices by Nebraska owners we might mention Billy Mac, p. 2:05¼; Trilee, 2:07¾; Florence L., p. 2:11¼; Johnny Dugan, p. 2:12¼; Ajax Harvester, 4, 2:14¼; Bob Braden, p. 2:14¼, and The Lady Silk, p. 2:15¼, all but one going to owners in other states, some as far east as Maine. The sales mentioned will do much to advertise the breeding and racing industry of Nebraska and, as publicity is the life blood of any business, the good prices commanded by Nebraska horses will materially assist in attracting attention to this state.

In all fairness, it may be stated that the demand for both aged and young horses bred and owned in Nebraska is the result of intelligent breeding and favorable opportunities to race. The breeding interests of Nebraska have been fortunate in having access to stallions that could and did sire speed, and the racing end of the business was equally fortunate in having opportunities to demonstrate the value of their colts and fillies at numerous race meetings. More and larger purses were offered two and three-year-olds, both pacers and trotters, in Nebraska during 1927 than was the case in any western state, a condition made possible by the liberal suport given fairs by the state racing commission. Without the aid mentioned, it might have been impossible to race colts and fillies profitably in Nebraska the past three years.

As was expected, the race meeting held in Omaha week of Oct. 10 to 14 was the outstanding speed carnival of the year in this state. The mile in 2:00½ by Hollyrood Volo was the fastest ever paced in Nebraska, displacing the previous record of Hal Mahone, when the geiding paced a mile in 2:01 at Omaha in 1922. It was also the fastest mile by a pacer during 1927 at any meeting held west of the Mississippi river. The day was not favorable, and, with better weather conditions, Hollyrood Volo might have paced in 2:00 or even faster. Only two faster miles were paced in the United States last season and that makes the performance at Omaha all the more noteworthy.

No western meeting of 1927 furnished better racing or more sensational miles than did the one held at beautiful Ak-Sar-Ben park that October week. Jane Maxey, bred in this state, paced a mile in 2:09, a remarkable performance for a two-year-old. That made the daughter of Judge Maxey the fastest of her age and gait in the west and first for sex in this country. Shirley Harvester, owned in Nebraska but bred elsewhere, trotted a mile in 2:09 3-4, a sparkling performance for a two-year-old. That performance was the fastest for age and gait in all the west.

And then, as if for good measure, Guy Bates, a three-year-old, won a heat at the trot in 2:10, which was also best for age and gait in the west during 1927. Kid McKyo, bred in Nebraska, won the three-year-old trot, with one of his miles in 2:11 1-4, equalling the race record at Omaha for age and gait. Leila Gentry, a three-year-old pacing filly owned in Lincoln, paced a mile in 2:09 in a race, while Chancellor Cigar, a four-year-old, owned in Colorado, paced a mile in 2:05, and that performance was the best for age and gait in the west last season, as well as the fastest mile by a four-year-old ever paced in Nebraska. Subito McKlyo, bred and owned in Nebraska, paced a mile in 2:09¾; Handy Hall, 4, bred and owned in Colorado, paced in 2:09 1-4, and Strathall, bred and owned in this state, gained a record of 2:06 1-4 in the last race of the meeting.

To be sure other fast miles in 2:10 or better were paced and trotted during the week at Omaha, but we have given the sensational miles, as it was expected old campaigners would repeat former performances. By and large, it was a great race meeting.

GAME OF GAMES IN BALL ANNALS

Mack's Team and Bengals Battled to Tie In 17 Innings.

A hundred thousand—and more—stellar baseball combats have been fought out through the ages, but never was there a companion piece to that one between the Athletics and the Tigers in Philadlphia in 1907.

It embraced more of the spectacular, more of the heroic, more of the comedy and near-tragedy than any duel that has been written into the diamond records; a game with the American league championship at stake and into which was tossed one near-riot after another, with a policeman getting himself tangled in the most disputed of the many wrath-provoking plays of the afternoon.

Tigers Won Play-off.

Had the Athletics won that day, they would have cinched the pennant. But the game ended in a 17-inning tie and in a latere play-off the Athletics were beaten and the Tigers became champions of the year.

"Wild Bill" Donovan started on the mound for Detroit and Dygert climbed the hill for the Athletics. But in the third, a pinch-hitter was tossed into the breach, Dygert went out and the immortal Rube Waddell loped to the box and supplanted him.

Athletics Far in Front.

As the seventh inning began, the Athletics led by the scope of 7 to1—a lead that seemed like enough to win 999 out of 1,000 ball games. But that was the thousandth duel, for the Tigers, with morale unshattered and courage still rampant, went into that seventh, put on a fierce rally, poked over four runs and made it 7 to 5.

The Tigers added another in the eighth—and so did the Athletics. As they went into the ninth, it was 8 to 6 in favor of the Philadelphia squad. The first Tiger up walked to first. And then came Ty Cobb with a mighty home run smash that made it 8-8.

Rube Out; Plank In.

Out went Waddell and in went the great Eddie Plank for the Athletics. Through the rest of the ninth and through the tenth, Plank held Detroit scoreless. And then the Tigers pushed a man across the plate, making it 9-8 in their favor and they needed only to hold the Athletics runless in their half of the 11th to win the ball game.

The Athletics had a man on second with two out. Up stepped a hitsmith, who drove one directly at the outfielder, Davey Jones, for what seemed like a certain third out. A telegraph operator felt so certain that Jones would make the catch that he flashed the news to Detroit that the Tigers had won, 9 to 8.

Operator Too Fast.

Before he could make his correction and say that Jones had muffed the ball, that a runner had scored and the game again was tied, the Detroit paper rushed an extra to the streets with the news that "Tigers win; cinch pennant."

In the twelfth inning, Harry Davis, first baseman for the Athletics, slammed the ball in the direction of Outfielder Sam Crawford. A policeman saw the ball coming and tried to get out of the way of Crawford, who was running toward the ball—or at least he saw he was trying to get out of the way. But in attempting todo so, he interfered with Crawford, who muffed the ball. Sam picked up the ball and ran to Silk O'Laughlin, who was umpiring at the plate, charged interference and demanded that Davis be called out.

Davis Called Out.

O'Loughlin, in doubt as to exactly what had happened, went to Tom Connolly, umpiring the bases, and learned from Connolly that the Philadelphia policeman had interfered with Crawford, whereupon O'Laughlin ruled that Davis was out.

The decision caused a violent outburst by the Athletics. A wild scene followed. It seemed every new second that murder would be committed, but some way, some how, the Athletics were quieted down, order was restored and the game went on to the seventeenth inning, tied up.

The umpires then decided it was too dark to play longer, inasmuch as the outfielders were barely visible from the plate, and the game of games in baldom's history was called.

Green Merna Team Rounding Into Form

MERNA, Neb., Jan. 28—Merna high school kept up its basketball pace last week by winning a 13-12 game from Anselmo. Merna has a new team this year but Coach Ralph Richards has groomed the squad into a smooth working combination.

A pre-season game was dropped to Wood Lake by a one-point margin. The team has won two of four games since the official season opened.

Members of the squad doing the best work include Thomas, McCarty and Kellenbarger at forwards; Lutes at center; Kennedy, Butterfield, Fenimore and Foley, guards.

Results:

Merna	7	Broken Bow	27
Merna	8	Anvley	12
Merna	15	Calloway	9
Merna	13	Anselmo	12

Remaining games on the schedule:
Jan. 31—Berwyn at Merna.
Feb. 3—Dunning at Dunning.
Feb. 7—Calloway at Merna.
Feb. 10—Sargent at Sargent.
Feb. 14—Anselmo at Anselmo.
Feb. 17—Comstock at Merna.
Feb. 21—Dunning at Merna.
Feb. 24—Ansley at Ansley.
March 2-3—Custer county tournament at Arnold.

ALMA HIGH TEAMS WIN OVER ORLEANS

McVey Declared Loser In Ring's Most Vicious Mill

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

NEW YORK Jan. 29.—Did you know that once upon a time one fighter knocked another down 36 times, never was floored himself—and then lost on a "knockout?"

It's the tale of the Sam McVey-Joe Jeanette battle in Paris in 1909—one of the most vicious fights in the modern annals of pugdom.

No one ever told the story of it better than McVey, who died some years ago, but who, through the years from 1909 until his death, always delighted in detailing that epic struggle of pugdom.

"That boy Jeanette," McVey used to relate, "just wasn't human and that's why I couldn't win. You just can't beat spooks and things like that. I started right after Joe with the first bell and began plunking him with everything I had. Thirty-six times I knocked him down in the first 48 rounds. But he just wouldn't stay there.

"I pretty near wore the bones of my hands into powder beating his chin and hammering his ribs. But every time I popped him and put him on the canvas, up he'd come again, just kind of sneering and leering at me and daring me to drop him some more.

"Yes sir, I knocked Jeanette down 36 times in that fight, never was knocked off my feet once and yet I lost the fight in the forty-ninth round, with the records saying that I lost by a knockout. You see, it was this way:

"I wasn't in wonderful shape when I went into that fight and didn't expect Joe to give me as tough a battle as he put up. I just about wore myself bowlegged hitting him and when I wasn't doing that, Joe was smashing me. I beat him up something awful, but I am not saying that Joe didn't wallop me good and plenty.

"It was a toss-up as the forty-ninth round began as to which of us was in the worst shape.

"As we came into the center of the ring, my legs began to buckle under me. I got dizzy and I could hardly see anything. About the only thing that my eyes could find was Joe wobbling around in front of me brandishing his gloved fists. I heard him say:

"'Come on in her boy—we're going to do some more fighting now. This fight's just beginning.'

"Well, when you've knocked a fellow down 36 times and punched him around for pretty near three hours and then he says 'let's fight now'—well, that's kind of discouraging. So I took a look at that Joe and I said:

"'No, boy, you're all wrong. We ain't doing any more fighting tonight—at least, I ain't.'

"And so I hobbled over to my corner and flopped in my chair resting up, while Joe stands in the middle of the ring swaying around from one side to the other.

"The referee came over to me and said 'come on—fight,' and I said, 'No, sir, I'm all through for this night. I just don't like that Joe Jeanette and I ain't going to associate with him any more—at least not tonight.'

"'Come on fight, or I give it to Jeanette,' said the referee.

"'Go ahead and do anything you like,' I said. 'But just don't forget, I knocked that Joe down so often they're still adding it up.'

"So he gave the fight to Joe on a technical knockout.

"It took me about a week and Joe about 10 days to recover somewhat from what happened in that 49 rounds. And later, when I met Joe, the first thing he said to me, was:

"'Too bad you ain't a hitter, Sam, cause if you was, you'd have won for I wasn't in good shape that night.'"

YANKEES SAVING FOR 'RAINY DAY'

New York Has No Need For Young Stars Club Has Been Buying.

Huggins Looking Too Far Ahead for Rivals to Keep His Pace.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 —Nothing succeeds like success, said the gent who knows that a wise crack covers a multitude of malstatements. For example, John McGraw, if interviewed directly after 1913 and since 1924, would have admitted that he had had intervals of moderate success, first with three consecutive pennant winners and then with four But on each occasion success ceased to succeed with him and rather soruptly, at that.

Frank Chance could have told you the same thing any time during the season of 1911 and, for tne asking or quite witnout it, Mr. Mack will so tell you today.

Connie Fails Come Back.

Mack's pennant winners of 1910, 1911, 1913 and 1914 never were repeated and neither was Chance able to come back with another winner after his Cubs of 1906, 1907, 1908 and 1910 were no more.

So, with these shining examples before him, it is apparent today that Miller Huggins, manager of the club that just has reeled off five victories in 1921, 1922, 1923, 1926 and 1927, wants no part of the same mistake. His is an outfit that won the American League pennant last season by a small matter of 19 games and is a comparative youthful one, with possibly some of its best years before it. But the good Miller is the type who wouldn't bet you that tomorrow is the next day.

He wants a mortgage on success.

Recruits Not Needed.

No other explanation would seem to account plausibly for the face that he was the only manager in the major leagues who was willing to take Lyn Lary and Jimmy Reese from Oakland for 1929 delivery. True, the Yankees didn't actually need the pair this year with Lazzerri and Koenig going so well at second base and shortstop, but that isn't the point. The Yankees actually don't figure to need them at all; at least, not for so long that their usefulness would be questionable. Both Lazzerri and Koenig are young men just coming to their best.

RAINY DAY BUYING.

Echoes of the Oakland deal had barely abated when it was announced that the Yanks had purchased John Prudhomme, a right hand pitcher from Toronto. They paid their money for the gent and all details were colsed, except one. That will not be completed until Prudhomme reports to the club, probably in 1930. The Yanks didn't buy him because they need him, only because they think they might some fine day.

Offhand, this system of rainyday buying might seem to be a commendable one if it wasn't for the fact that the Yanks hold too many of the cards now for the good of the league.

Won In a Canter.

They won off by themselves last year, they have been out of the world's series only twice since 1920 and their financial resources, almost unlimited, are growing with each season.

And if they continue looking ahead to the day when young men will be old, some one will have to call in the Interstate Commerce Commission in order to finish second in the American league standing.

HASTINGS TEAM FLASHES CLASS

Uni. Place Trounced By Coach Thomas Five By 22-14 Score.

University Place cagers, previously undefeated in state circles, fell from the select class with a thud when a fast five from Hastings handed them a 22 to 14 drubbing on the young Methodist floor Saturday night.

It was all Hastings from start to finish. The Orange and Black aggregation took the lead and held Uni Place scoreless until late in the third quarter. At the half the visitors led by a 15 to 3 count. At the third quarter they held an 18 to 7 vantage.

Ability to get higher in the air was the main factor in the Hastings win. Combining their greater heights as a team with a fast breaking attack and a good eye for the ring, the visitors presented one of the best teams seen on local courts this season.

Hastings' Center Active.

The all-round performance of Flynn, lanky pivot man for Hastings was a feature. Invariably getting the tip-off he was one of the chief reasons for Hastings having the ball in its possession most of the time. He sank three baskets and a pair of counters from the foul line.

The diminutive Captain Mooberry of Uni Place turned in the finest performance he has made to date, besides playing a scrappy floor game that caused a bag of trouble for the tall boys from Hastings, he caged a trio of baskets from difficult positions.

Hastings flashed proficiency in both little shots and long heaves. The conquerors of Tech spent much of thier time batting the ball against the bankboard and tried several far-off archers besides. Kresback was the big cog in the back court wrecking crew. The score:

CRETE WALLOPS AGGIE TOSSERS

Saline County Outfit In 39-9 Victory Over Farmer Five.

Crete high found Aggie high easy in a matinee game at the college of agriculture gymnasium Saturday afternoon, winning by a 39-9 score. It was the ninth consecutive victory for Coach "Pop" Klein's Saline county five which remains in the field undefeated.

Harrison of the Aggies registered the first basket of the game, but Crete promptly started its scoring machine to swamp the Farmers. Crete was ahead at the first quarter, 11-3, and led, 22 to 5, at the close of the first half.

The Crete team moved like a well-oiled machine, speeding the ball up the court for close-in shots and presenting a tight defense that had the Aggies hurling the ball at long range.

Although seldom getting the tip, the Crete tossers swarmed over the court in such fashion that the Farmers had the ball a small percentage of the time. Hokuf led the Crete play, while Nealy was the big noise for the Aggie team. Score:

HAIL LOUGHRAN AS REAL GOODS

Fight Idolaters Rating Quaker City Battler As Hot Number.

Tom Lugs Intense Desire Get Jack Delaney In Roped Arena.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Panegyrics are being penned nowadays about the admirable qualities, in and out of the ring, possessed by Tommy Loughran, the light heavyweight champion.

The boys hailed him as the true type of fighting champion because of his performance in taking on McTigue, Slattery and Lomski in title bouts within a matter of two months and they listening with real respect to his challenges leveled at the various heavyweights, beginning with Gene Tunney and, for we all know, perhaps ending with the precise, correct young man.

Longs to Tackle Delaney.

However, the one man Loughran wants to fight hasn't been mentioned. He happens to be the only one of the big timers through whom Loughran can hope to further his ambitions, but you can't argue an Irishman out of a fixed idea. He wants to meet and beat Jack Delaney.

A year ago, this notion would be wholly understandable, for at that time Delaney was the big shot and the man beating him simply went right to the head of the class. But now Delaney, regardless of his knockout of Berlenbach, generally is considered passe.

An Irishman's Grudge.

There isn't a man in the top flight who wants to bother with him, since to beat him is to gain nothing and to lose to him is to lose all. But an Irishman with a grudge never reckons results. Loughran would go in there with Delaney for money, marbles, milk chocolates or the exercise. He has never forgiven Delaney for giving him the runaround when Jack was light heavyweight champion.

His enimity, however, dates back further than that. It goes back to a Philadelphia ring some two or three years ago when Delaney was right on top of his career after one of the Berlenbach fights. He took on Loughran as a workout and, according to all accounts, he got a good one.

They Called It Draw.

The decision of a referee and two judges said that Delaney had won on points. Everybody in the house thought Loughran had won in a slow jog and, being a Philadelphia product, they naturally went right to the roots of their hair and tore out enraged handsful. Order only was restored when the chairman of the Pennsylvania boxing commission jumped into the ring and called the fight a draw.

He thought he was doing Loughran plenty of good, but Thomas never saw it that way. According to his account, he won the fight away off by himself and the declaration for a draw was just twenty cents on the dollar to him.

Plenty Sour on Delaney.

However, he didn't blame the commission chairman. He hoarded up his censure for Jack Delaney, although the latter hadn't rendered the original decision but merely had taken it.

Loughran fired challenges at him but these weren't accepted. If they had been Tommy could have cashed on his enmity. He can't now. But then, as intimated above, an Irishman with the grudge is not a business man. He's just nobody's business at all.

Dr. Peltzer Puzzled Pick Places to Run

CHICAGO, Jan. 28—Dr. Otto Peltzer, German runner, center of a controversy of where he will display his ability in the United States, found himself even more puzzled over the matter after a conference here. He arrived this morning from California.

"The A. A. U. has allowed me only three races and I find so many places to run," the doctor said, when he learned that representatives from eastern athletic clubs were here to talk with him. "My government does not want me burned out, as was Nurmi. I want to meet only the best runners in America."

He has been invited to enter the Melrose games Feb. 2 in New York. Peltzer said he wanted to run in the Knights of Columbus games in New York and Los Angeles.

The Illinois A. C., his home in Chicago, is attempting to arrange a race here, with the sanction of the Boston A. A., between Hahn and Peltzer.

WESLEYAN FIVE DRUBS WILDCATS

Methodists Handout 29-16 Trouncing To Wayne Team.

Nebraska Wesleyan's quintet used Wayne Normal as a breather in its schedule by easing to victory over the Pedagogues by a 29 to 16 count on the Methodist floor Saturday night.

The Yellow and Brown representatives, regulars and substitutes alike, enjoyed a fast and furious evening with the hoop, caging an even dozen field goals against Wayne. Coach Dow's proteges had the greater number of chances at the ring and relied chiefly on short shots. Wayne had a luckless evening with the basket and had to trust to long shots.

Calvert Boosts Stock.

The game was featured by the creditable showing of Calvert, new Wesleyan forward. A Methodist cager of former years, Calvert jumped into his old form without delay, chalking up four baskets and a free throw to be high point man of the evening. In addition he played a clever floor game.

The Methodists took the lead when Killenger made a short toss from the side. Wayne soon tied the count and held brief lead when Ray and Captain Kroger connected with the nets. Captain Lally and Killenger soon put Wesleyan back in the van, and sensational shots by Shuey gave Wesleyan a 12 to 7 lead at the half.

Wayne Defense Cracks.

In the second half the Wayne defense let down and Wesleyan short pass attack sliced through the visiting quint to ally goal after goal. At one time the score stood 18 to 7 for Wesleyan.

An improved close range attack was presented by the Methodists who enjoyed the most decisive win so far this season. Captain Lally, Calvert, Loder and Dennis shared honors in the Wesleyan defense. Felix and Hunt starred for Wayne. The score shooting during the opening period. Sixteen minutes of the opening half had gone by before the Iowa Staters connected for a field goal. Lande made a side shot good for the first basket and Staver broke loose for a set-up shot to score Ames' other first period basket just before the timer's gun ended the period.

Othmer scored first for Nebraska with a nice follow-in toss in the opening two minutes of play. Taylor and Lande counted from the foul line to even the score. The Huskers however, started bombarding the hoop and ran the score to 10-2 before Staver tallied another charity toss for Ames.

Brown and Munn.

Baskets by Brown and Munn brought the count to 15-3 before Lande rang up Iowa State's first basket of the evening.

Munn sank a follow-in basket for the Cornhuskers at the start of the second period before the Ames scoring machine swung into action. Woods and Staver then collaborated to bring Ames to a fairly threatening position the count standing 27-21 when Coach Black inserted some new blood in the Cornhusker lineup.

The reserve strength bolstered the Nebraska firing line and Grace counted from the foul line and Captain Elliott promptly scored from the floor. Staver and Taylor of Ames combined to make up the long distance, but Witte scored from the side and Munn and Olson followed in for a pair of baskets to put the game on ice.

Munn Leads In Points.

Munn with 13 points to his credit was the big noise for the Cornhuskers, while Brown, Lewandowski, and Holm played excellent floor games. Captain Staver and Woods were the main cogs in the Aggie machine. Woods counted four baskets in the second half.

Oklahoma Aggies will play Nebraska at the coliseum next Saturday night. The program will be a doubleheader sport card, a dual wrestling meet between Kansas and Nebraska following the cage combat. The score:

Gullible Public Easy Mark for Boston Gob In Fat Grab of Gold

BY FRANK G. MENKE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28 — It seems to many that Jack Sharkey and Tom Heeney fought in such a way the other night so that they can fight another day—in open air—and cut up another large squadron of sucker dollars.

Most of the customers who sat at the ringside felt that Sharkey had won by a comfortable margin. But a "draw" was the verdict. Did Sharkey, rather notorious as a squawker, emit shrill yowls? He did not. And that, in itself, is strange, strange, strange.

Not Strange At All.

"But," reminds the man on the boulevard, "it isn't strange at all. A 'draw' was the thing Sharkey and his handlers wanted. Anything else would have distressed them, for any other verdict would have killed off the chance for a later meeting of those boys in the good old summer time."

And then he proceeded:

"When the Sharkey-Heeney match was made, Sharkey did not think there'd be much enthusiasm about it. But there was—plenty! And right away the Sharkey crowd concluded it had pulled a boner by agreeing to fight Heeney in Madison Square Garden instead of waiting until spring and fighting outdoors where the mob would be three and four times the Garden size.

Sudden Mess of Ailments.

"As everybody knows, Sharkey promptly began to get himself a mess of ailments which he declared made it impossible for him to mingle with Heeney and he was all for an indefinite postponement of the match.

"But when he tried that stunt, the New York state athletic commission stepped in and ordered him to mix it with Heeney under penalty of serious injury to his status. In this hour of great emergency, Sharkey's crowd called in Jimmy Johnston and after they had made a deal with Johnston to give him 10 per cent of the Sharkey earnings, Sharkey promptly forgot all his aches and pains and agreed to fight Heeney in January.

Chairman Farley's Chum.

"Why did the addition of Johnson to the Sharkey retinue change Sharkey's attitude? Well, Johnston is supposed to be a youth who can get just about anything he desireth from the commission, due to the fact that Johnston and Jim Farley, the chairman, are as close together as a Scotchman and his wallet.

"What Johnston promised he could do is, of course, a mystery. But Johnston must have done some promising, otherwise the Sharkey crowd wouldn't have let him cut in on 10 per cent of the earnings of an established fighter.

That Open Air Thing.

"The one thing that Sharkey wanted most was a shot at Heeney in the open air. He really seemed to want to call off the January match so that he could brawl with Heeney in April, May or June. But Sharkey couldn't work the thing himself.

"So he calls in Johnston. And Johnston tells him to go ahead with the January match, which netted Sharkey nearly $50,000. And although Sharkey won by a city block, even though he seemed to be trying to draw things pretty fine, and make it even-Stephen, the officials did just as Sharkey apparently had hoped.

"They called it a 'draw.'

Big Cleanup Next Summer.

"And now the Sharkey and Heeney crowd will make faces at each other for a couple of months, call each other names and get the folks excited about the procedure. And then Tex Rickard will step in, do some smoking up, and, in the end, the pair will be matched for an open air show, which will draw around $400,000 or $500,000—and then Sharkey will really step out and fight and make a punching bag of Heeney, just as he could have done the other night if he wasn't trying to make it a 'draw.'

"What a racket is this fight racket!"

Hahn Is Victor In Another Race

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Lloyd Hahn, of the Boston A. A., and Joe Tierney, of the New York A. C., were the stars of the William C. Prout games at Mechanics Hall tonight. Hahn did his usual in winning the mile, incidentally taking the Curley trophy for keeps.

Tierney, the former Holy Cross star, won the race of the evening, the Prout Memorial 600, in fast time, stepping away from a picked field of brilliants, in 1:17.

Wells Wins Hurdles.

Monte Wells, Dartmouth, won the 45-yard hurdles, after equaling the world's record in a trial heat. Collier, of Brown, was second.

Bob Dalrymple, B. A. A., took home the Bishop Cheverus 1,000 yard trophy, after leading Charlie Sansone, of Colby college, by ten yards over the last two laps to the finish.

Ralph Colson, former Penn dash man, won the N. E. A. A. U. title, over the 300-yard distance in 36 seconds. Wardsworth, of Boston college, was a close second.

Time Was Slow.

Lloyd Hahn, American hope in the Olympics, continued on his undefeated way by winning the James M. Curley mile in 4:25:15. It was the third win in the Curley races for Hahn and the trophy became the permanent possession of the B. A. A. as a result of the victory.

Hahn's slow time was due to the failure of the field to give him a race. He won by nearly 100 yards from Reed, of Harvard, Wills, of the N. Y. A. C., who was a poor third. The others' starting were forced from the race before the final lap.

Seward College Repeats Victory

SEWARD, Neb., Jan. 28—Concordia college repeated its Friday victory over Luther college of Wahoo tonight when the locals defeated the Wahoo team, 28 to 18.

Concordia was ahead 15-10 at half-time. Hollingsworth of Milford, officiated the game.

Havelock Contest Moved to Thursday

Havelock and Lincoln reserves will meet on the Havelock court next Thursday evening instead of Tuesday, according to announcement made Saturday night by Coach Walter I. Black of the Engineers.

LINCOLN BOXERS WIN TWO TITLES

Connelly and Mathews In Ring Triumphs At A. A. U. Meet.

OMAHA, Neb., Jan. 28—Harold Mathews and Ralph Connelly, the two Lincoln boys who sought ring fame in the junior midwest A. A. U. boxing tournament held here, fought their way to championships in the finals held at the K. C. club, Saturday night.

Mathews, winner of the 118 pound division had the best showing of the tournament. In Friday's preliminaries he won two fights by first-round knockouts, and Saturday he upset Sam Epolite of the K C in the initial round.

Connelly out-slugged and outgamed Morrie Van Leer to win the lightweight championship. Connelly had Van Leer nearly out several times but could never lay across the deciding punch.

Two other out-state boys won championships. Hugh Wedge, son of Kid Wedge, won the light heavyweight title while Harvey Herold, Osceola, Neb., annexed the 112-pound title.

WESLEYAN PREP DEFEATS TEMPLE

Junior Methodists Win 12 to 7 Victory Saturday Eve.

Wesleyan Prep moved up into a triple tie for the third notch in the Greater Lincoln league by downing Temple 12 to 7 at the Methodist maples Saturday night. The junior Methodists stand in a deadlock with Aggie High and Havelock for third honors.

The win over Temple was a drab exhibition. The offensive play of both teams was of anything but championship caliber, less than twenty points being chalked up by the combined efforts of both teams. As the score would indicate the guarding was better than the shooting, both quints showing up well defensively.

Smith Leads Scoring.

Smith of Wesleyan Prep was high point man with half a dozen markers. Hoag of the Prensters was second in line with five points. Crause of Temple was third with four points. He was ejected from the game on personal fouls.

Although defeated by Prep, Temple still holds possession to seventh place. The Teacher's College crew has won one game while Bethany and Cathedral have yet to get the long end of a league game count. The score:

105 TO SHARE IN $10,000,000 ESTATE OF ELMER SMATHERS

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 28—(INS)—An estate estimated at more than $10,000,000 was disposed of in the will of Elmer E. Smathers, sportsman and former stock broker of New York city. The will, filed for probate here, names 105 legatees.

The executives, Ray L. Erb of New York City; Earl G. Grain and Samuel W. Gregg, both of Bradford, Pa. and Ernest Smathers, a nephew and substitute executor, receive bequests of $100,000, $50,000, $50,000 and $50,000, respectively, in place of executors' commissions.

Mrs. Anna S. Smathers, the widow receives the life use of the estate, Elmernan, at Harrison-on-the-sound, an income for life of $100,000 and an outright bequest of $10,000.

A niece, Virginia Smith Healey of Harrison, is given an annunity of $60,000. An annunity of $12,000 goes to Sydney S. Bradfield of Asheville, N. C., a nephew.

Smathers died January 12 in Los Angeles, where he had invested several million dollars in land. His principal holdings, however, were in New York.

Team of "Gallagher And Shean" is Gone; Court Action Pending

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—Gone are the good old days and the famous vaudeville team of "Gallagher and Shean."

The famous "Mr. Gallagher," christened Edward F., is now in the Rivercrest sanatarium in Astoria, where he is recovering from a nervous breakdown and his equally famous former partner "Mr. Shean," whose first name is Albert, claims that $10,672 is due him from Gallagher for expenses he incurred in the former's behalf.

Shean, through his attorney, J. George Bragin, asked Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins to allow his claim.

Justice Tompkins held that inasmuch as there was no verified complaint on file showing proof of the claim he could not pass judgment on it. He advised Shean to file proof with the county clerk and then make an application to him for judgment.

Frozen Clock Blamed For Tragic Death Of Capt. Gray In Balloon

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 —(I. N. S.) —The tragic death of Capt. Hawthorne, C. Gray in his epochal balloon flight from Scott Field, Illinois, last November was ascribed today in an official army report to a frozen clock.

Man equipped the flight with every device human ingenuity and expert knowledge could provide, but fate cast her spell, in the frozen quivering atmosphere, 30,000 feet above the earth she rules; touched her blind, unknowing finger to Gray's only timepiece and thus snuffed out a hero's life by depriving him of all means of guaging his oxygen supply.

The ten thousand word official report of the investigating commission which went to work, first at the scene where Gray's lifeless body was found in the basket of his balloon in a tree near Sparta, Tenn., November 5, is one of the most dramatic human documents in the peace annals of the United States army.

The report tells of the intrepid ballonist's record recording at 27,000 feet altitude his enjoyment of "Just Another Day Wasted Away," from station WLW, Cincinnati, after he had written at 12,000 feet the ominous log entry an hour before: "Clock stopped."

Beside the notation of the buoyant jazz piece there is the stoic entry of the thermometer reading —"25 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit."

Nearly 8 Miles Up.

Gray attained a certified altitude of 42,470 feet—a few feet less than eight miles—and recorded as the last entry in his gripping log, "Sky ordinary deep blue; sun very bright, sand all gone." The last temperature reading was 40 below zero at 36,000 feet.

As low as 12,000 feet, the board of inquiry found from a close scrutiny of Gray's handwriting, the low air pressure already was affecting his sensibilities, for there is recorded at that altitude, beside the note that he received the program of station KSD, the observation that he already felt "symptoms of rickets."

Undaunted by the knowledge that his life was endangered, both by the low air pressure, which produced the sensation of involuntary muscular expansion throughout the entire body, and the frigidity, which impaired the mental faculties, Gray continued his ascent at an even, slow rate. He was clad in a fur-lined coat; fur-lined moccasins, and gloves, fur-lined helmet, which covered his head, and wore specially constructed goggles, ingeniously fitted with an electric heater to melt off the frost.

At 30,000 feet the temperature was 25 degrees below zero, Fahrenheit.

Other instruments in the basket included a thermograph and two barographs, to record temperatures and altitude, respectively. "Prior to the instalaltion of these instruments they were taken to a jeweler and all the oil and grease carefully removed

The class in sociology 41 (crime and punishment) visited the state penitentiary Saturday. Prof. G. E. Breece is the instructor.

McCook Junior College.

Convocation was called Tuesday morning, January 24, for the purpose of making the necessary announcements for the beginning of the second semester. It was followed by a freshman class meeting.

The dramatic club met Monday evening, January 23, for a business meeting. Plans were made for a play to be given in the near future. Tryouts were thrown open to the entire student body. Announcement of the cast will be made by Miss Elliott, dramatic coach, early in the week.

A group of sophomores was entertained Wednesday evening January 25 at the home of Mr. Cameron. The time was spent informally.

The Women's Self-Governing association entertained at luncheon Thursday noon, January 26, at the Olympia in honor of Miss Alice Waite, who has taken the place of Miss Irvetta Smith in the modern language department. Miss Edna Junstock was hostess. Miss Mildred Meyers gave a reading, and Miss Waite was called upon for a few words.

YOGI OF INDIA VISITS LINCOLN

Traveler and Teacher Has Interesting Views On Life.

Believes American People Live Too Fast and Eat Too Much.

An unusually interesting Lincoln visitor recently was Yogi R. S. Cherwal of India, traveler and teacher, who was the guest of Fred B. Humphrey for several days.

The Yogi came to the States six months ago, landing in Portland, Ore., and during the short time he has been here, has learned the English language, which he speaks very well, has written a number of interesting articles, and has given numerous lectures on health.

Portrait by Townsend.
YOGI R. S. CHERWAL.

"The Hindue child is taught correct living from the cradle, according to the Yogi, who thinks that American people live too fast, eat too much, and do not have enough rest and exercise. Exercise, he claims, is the root of all health. The Yogi, is forty-six years old and looks but half his age, a feat which any man or woman may accomplish if they are interested, he says.

No Bald Heads In India.

"You never see bald headed men in India," said the Yogi, "nor people wearing spectacles, because they know how to live. They exercise and eat the proper food which keeps them in good health, and conquently keeps their youth. I know one man in India that takes forty-five minutes just to eat one orange. One should eat slowly, and not too much.

"There are certain exercises one should do to keep every organ of the body functioning properly. The Hindu children learn these early in life, and keep them up regularly."

Instead of a toothbrush the Yogi uses a hickory stick about as large around as your thumb. Every morning he spends several minutes chewing on this stick, exercising his teeth. He says that American people do not give their teeth proper care because they do not exercise them, consequently there is no circulation, and the teeth decay. He has no blemishes on his teeth, no fillings and no false teeth, due, he says, to the hickory stick.

Would Become a Master.

The Yogi is studying for what is known as a "Master," in India. There are thirty or forty such men, who, it is claimed, live to be three and four hundred years of age. They can do anything at any time. They can stand heat, cold, starvation or any other obstacle. They can stop the beating of the heart and go on living, they can walk on the water, or traverse the air with no trouble at all.

The Yogi has spent twenty-six years of his life in preparation, and expects to spend many more. He has been studying under one of the great masters, and came to America because the Master told him to leave India and give his teachings to the world, and then return.

The Hindu, of course, believes in reincarnation. What you accomplish in this life puts you on a higher plane in the next one, but what you fail to accomplish in this life, you must do when you are reborn.

Must Answer For Sins.

"American people have the idea that if they commit a sin and elude the police that is all there is to it. The Hindu believes that if one commits a sin, regardless of whether he escapes punishment in this life he must answer for that sin, in the next. He can never avoid the penalty.

Yogi Cherwal is vehement in his denouncement of "Mother India," by Katherine Mayo, the much talked of book recently published. The Yogi claims that the book is British propaganda, written for one purpose, to prove that India is not fit to rule herself.

"Ghandi himself says that while Miss Mayo has done him the honor of quoting him several times in the book, in her hurry to see everything Indian in a bad light, she not only took liberties with his writings, but did not find it necessary to verify through him, certain things ascribed by her or others, to him.

FAMILIES FOUND WITHOUT STOVES FOR COOKING USE

The Social Welfare society at 228 South Tenth street experienced an unusual demand for cook stoves during the past week, one stove having been supplied up to Sunday while two more families are in urgent need of stoves, according to Secretary Prevey.

A social welfare society case worker found a family with five children living in a two room house with only a small, upright heating stove and an old single burner oil stove to answer heating and cooking needs. Another family including father, mother and four children was found to be without a stove of any kind on which to do the cooking. The family had been using a gas plate for cooking purposes, but the gas bill was so far in arrears that the company served notice that the gas would be shut off. The company served similar notice three times before the final notice, but delayed action because of the dire need of the family.

Former Resident Making Fast Trip Across Continent

After flying part of the way from Los Angeles to New York on a fast business trip, O. W. Rector of Hollywood, a former Lincoln resident and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Simeon Rector, 522 North Twenty-sixth street, is expected to arrive here about March 1 on his return trip to the coast.

The trip to New York was made by plane from Los Angeles to Salt Lake City, and by train the rest of the way. That flight resulted in saving a day and a night in time.

Mr. Rector is a graduate of the local grade and high schools. He is now merchandise manager of the women's apparel department of a large Hollywood store.

EMPLOYMENT IS MORE PLENTIFUL

Situation Much Better in Lincoln This Winter Than Last.

The employment situation in Lincoln has been greatly improved this winter over a year ago, according to the welfare agencies in their reports to the Council of Social Agencies.

The report of the Social Welfare society to Secretary Horne of the community chest, says that it "has had nowhere near the calls for employment this year compared with a year ago." However, the society has been called upon to do as much relief work, but unemployment has not entered into the situation to the same degree.

The social service exchange, an agency of the Council of Social Agencies, reports that foreign families are the minority seekers of relief. It is the American who is the most frequent beneficiary of the agencies, the report states.

The agencies have many names on their lists of applicants for work and is finding places for most of them.

Chadron Normal

Lester Collons, A. B., '27, superintendent of schools at Gurley, called at the college recently.

LaVergne Irwin, A. B., '20, superintendent of schools, Mitchell, was in Chadron, Saturday, January 14.

A dance sponsored by the "C" club was held in the college gymnasium Friday evening, January 20, under the chaperonage of Kenneth I. Kohl, Miss Vivien O'Brien, Roy Peterson, and Miss Nelda A. Schmidt. Music for the affair was furnished by a local orchestra.

The newly formed Pan-Hellenic organization met at the home of Marjorie Rouse, Monday evening, January 23, for the purpose of adopting a constitution. Officers in charge were Cecelia Forbes, president, and Mary Snow, secretary-treasurer. The sorority representatives were: Alpha Phi, Ada Feigel, Rapid City, S. D.; Sophia Uhlken, Crawford; Martha Clements, Chadron; Zeta Alpha, Marjorie Rouse, Chadron; Dorothy Ballenger, Berwyn; Mary Snow, Chadron; Kappa Theta Sigma, Mary Buehner, Morrill; Margaret Cole, Cody; Cecelia Forbes, Sturgis, S. D.

Omer Anderson, Arian, Ia., '27, is now teaching in the McCook high school.

The training high school orchestra, directed by Roy Peterson, head of the violin department, played before the farmers congress at Chadron, Friday, January 20. There are about thirty members in this group.

Members of the Philomathean society staged a comic mock trial in assembly hall, Monday evening, January 23. Arthur Peterson, Chappell, plaintiff, appeared against Lloyd Evans, Atkinson, defendant. The charge was assault. Lawyers for the complainant were George Chitty, Chadron, and Elmer Stolte, Atkinson, and counsel for the defense were Warren Townsend, Chadron, and Hallie Hamm, Rapid City, S. D. Allan Jaszkowiak, Rushville, was principal witness among eight or ten furnishing testimony. The jury exonerated the defendant, but decided that the plaintiff was guilty and recommended an extreme penalty. A verdict was accordingly pronounced by Carl Nidiseh, Litchfield, who presided as judge. Mr. E. P. Wilson of the department of history, sociology, and economics is sponsor of this organization.

A meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held Thursday, January 12. Gladyce Radcliffe, Stuart, gave a report concerning Heart Sister week as carried on by the Y. W. C. A. at Nebraska Wesleyan university. Wilma Smith, Chadron, then discussed the possibilities of this movement if applied to the home field.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

"Captain Applejack," by Hackett, has been selected as the junior class play to be given Friday and Saturday evenings, March 2 and 3. Members of the junior class tried out last week, but the cast is not yet complete. Elizabeth Barber has been chosen business manager, and Philip Brownell assistant business manager of the play. Elwood Thompson is to be property manager.

The high school mixed glee clubs have been invited to sing for the Schoolmasters club at a banquet at the Lincoln hotel on February 8.

The attendance directors for next semester are: Harold Browne, Miss Blodwen Reynon, Foster Matchett, and Otto Hackman.

OVERCOME BY GAS.

(Special to The Star.)

LIBERTY, Neb., Jan. 28—When J. R. Jones, farmer near here, was hauling auto truck load of shelled corn to the local elevator he was overcome with gas and fumes from the exhaust of the engine, which had filtered into the closed cab of the machine, and he was nearly unconscious when he stopped at the elevator and was liberated.

GOOD BUILDING RECORD IN 1927

Construction in Lincoln On Par With Preceding Four Years.

Ten Apartments and 333 Residences Erected in Past Year.

Building operations for 1927 in Lincoln were on a par with the preceding four years save for 1925, an analysis of the permits by W. L. Cummins, manager for the Searle & Chapin Lumber Co. here, reveals.

The analysis shows that contrary to the general opinion that residential construction lagged the past year, there were 333 new houses built. These cost $1,734,495. In 1926 the aggregate was $1,898,141 for 389 new residences.

Schools are the only type of building that show any decided falling off in 1927. In fact, Mr. Cummins says, nearly all of the decline in the 1927 aggregate is accounted for by the decrease in the construction of school buildings.

It is interesting to note, Mr. Cummins continues, that in 1927 there were ten apartments erected. These were built at a cost of $231,000 as compared to three for $68,500 in 1926, and thirteen during the preceding four years aggregating $226,500.

The analysis follows:

USE COMMON SENSE—

IN YOUR PURCHASE — Of a used car. Consider first the responsibility of the firm offering the car. Have you the assurance of a square deal if the car isn't right? Consider this firm's investment—Have the facilities for re-building used cars? Will they remain in business?

THESE ARE VITAL QUESTIONS—Public good will is the result of hundreds of satisfactory transactions, and we believe good-will and confidence are the finest assets in business. They are the very ground work of our institution.

Automobile News

LOCAL DEALERS TO AUTO SHOW

Will Attend Annual Exposition at Chicago This Week.

Special Cars Chartered by Ford and Lincoln Agents.

Lincoln is to be well represented at the Chicago Automobile show which opened Saturday. A large number of automobile dealers as well as many others have gone or will leave today for the great motor exposition which continues throughout the week.

Two special pullman cars left Saturday at 4:50 over the Burlington carrying a special party to attend the Lincoln salon, to be held at the Drake hotel, Chicago, January 28 to February 6. This party will be the guests of the Lincoln department of the O'Shea-Rogers Motor company. The program will consist of attending the automobile show Sunday morning, the Lincoln salon and the special Ford exhibit in the afternoon.

The salon at the Drake hotel in Chicago consists of a very beautiful display of models and colors of the Lincoln cars, and is an exclusive showing, not only for models and color types for this year but for years to come.

Among those traveling in the special cars were Richard Rogers and Ed O'Shea of O'Shea-Rogers company, W. D. Alexander of Beatrice and John Monnick of Fremont. The Ford party was joined at Omaha by W. A. Rufell, manager of the Ford plant at Omaha.

Other Lincoln dealers who will attend the show are:

Robert White, White Motors Co.

Frank DeBrown and L. H. DeBrown, DeBrown Auto Sales company.

John Parkhurst, Parkhurst Auto Electric company.

Frank A. Roehl, F. A. Roehl-Nash company.

M. P. Caplan, Murhpy Motors.

Choice of Oil Important.

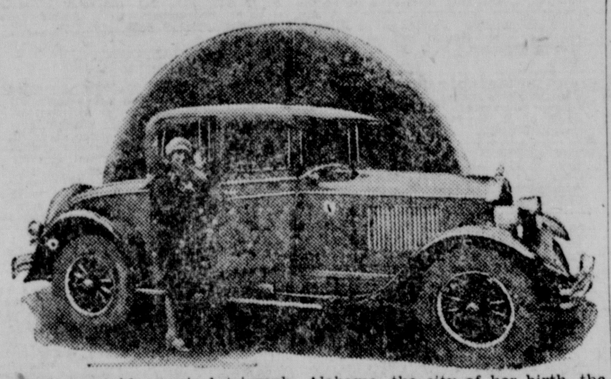

Oils marketed under different trade names are of different viscosities, and the car owner who keeps this in mind will forestall the possibility of damage to vital engine parts by using too light or too heavy a lubricant.

Adjustment of Spring Shackles.

The annoying features of spring shackles that are too loose frequently are replaced by the annoying features of shackles that are too tight. When the shackles are tightened, care should be taken to see they are free enough to permit easy spring action.

Keep tires properly inflated. Too little pressure shortens the life of tires; too much shortens the life of the car.

Singer "Knows Her Motor Cars."

After a notable musical triumph abroad, Mary Fabian, soprano, is back in the land of her birth, charming American music lovers with her art.

Much has been said of Mary Fabian the artist—of her radiant personality, of her lovely colorful voice, of the grace of her dramatic interpretations. But another side of Mary Fabian remains to be told: "She knows her motor cars."

On a recent visit to Birmingham, Alabama, the city of her birth, the charming singer who had thrilled the musical critics abroad, personally chose a Reo Flying Cloud as the car best suited to her needs during her stay in the city.

The picture above shows Miss Fabian about to enter the Reo Flying Cloud, named in honor of the finest, fastest clipper ship that ever sailed under the American flag—the world's most beautiful means of travel.

MOTORS AND THEIR CARE

To Clean a Spark Plug.

Never use any old tool to remove a spark plug for cleaning from the engine cylinder. Get a spark plug wrench that will fit the particular type of plug and use it. The plug is then placed in a cise and the vise jaws set up on the hexagon nut at the base of the plug. Here another good wrench must be used to remove the packing nut or gland, working it off slowly so that breakage will not occur to either the porcelain or gasket between the porcelain and shell. The majority do have gaskets and it is a good plan to keep new gaskets on hand along with new porcelains to replace those that are defective. Now that the plug is taken apart, a rag and gasoline come into play. Remove all semblance of carbon and oil from the surface of the porcelain. Do not use a knife, file, steel scraper, sandpaper or any other abrasive substance on the plug porcelain. This porcelain is glazed and is intended by the plug manufacturer to be perfectly smooth so that carbon cannot lodge upon it easily. Consequently, any abrasive that will cut this glassy surface should never be used. The gasoline and rag will do the work.

Noises and Their Causes.

Noises in an automobile are generally described as a knock, a grinding or scratching sound, a growl or hum, a squeak, a hiss and a rattling.

The knock is an indication of looseness, due to wear, a break or a loose bolt and sometimes to a bent part.

The grinding or scratching is liable to be due to a dirty or chipped ball or roller bearing, to lack of lubrication of a bearing, to a loose or bent part rubbing against another or to the speedometer gears.

The growl or hum generally comes from some of the gears, being due to wear of them or the bearing of their shafts, or to their being improperly set.

The squeak is an indication of lack of lubrication, but generally indicates a loose body, fender or demountable rim bolt, or comes from the springs, which need lubrication.

The hiss may be the natural sound which comes from the drawing in of the air by the carburetor, or it may indicate a loose manifold or piston ring, and in some types of demountable rims comes from loose lug bolts.

Watch Oil Gauge for Bearing Wear.

The oil pressure gauge may be a means of determining the condition of engine bearings, because as the bearings wear the pressure drops, owing to the greater freedom of movement of the oil. If the gauge shows low pressure consistently and it is believed that the regulator is all right, bearing wear can be suspected.

DODGE FOURS ARE IMPROVED

Many New Features Are Added in Smaller Models of Car.

When Dodge Brothers, Inc. brought out the Victory Six many dealers inquired of the factory if the four cylinder line would be dropped and at once began emphatically emphasizing to the sales heads the value and position in the automobile market of the oldest of the Dodge models.

This four cylinder model has been improved greatly this year and has been equipped with four wheel steeldraulic mechanical brakes. The price remains the same with the exception of a drop of $25 on the de luxe sedan which now sells for $950 f. o. b. Detroit. Improvements and refinements have been made with regularity from the first. There are over two million of the four cylinder Dodges in use which is an indication of the strong place this car has in the automotive field. The supplying of four wheel brakes to the four cylinder passenger cars constitutes a major improvement.

A unique feature of this system is the connection between that part of the mechanism supported on the frame and that on the axle which is through a special flexible connection, eliminating the complicated universal joints and shafts usually associated with mechanical four wheel brakes.

Durable Connections.

This connection consists of a steel cable, passing through the center of short steel guides or ferrules the ends of which are rounded and cupped so that as they fit together, they form a series of ball-and-socket joints, permitting a considerable amount of bending. These guides are supported in a coiled spring casing around which is placed a heavy protecting cover of rubber fabric.

This construction possesses sufficient rigidity to transmit tension in the cable without changing form. The shape of the joints in the conduit is such that the length along the center line does not change, when the conduit is bent, therefore the brake action is not affected by the turning of the wheels, spring action or body roll.

Another unique construction is the brake shoe which floats on the brake support, not being fastened to the anchor pin and therefore is not affected by eccentricity of the brake drum. The brake shoe itself is of pressed steel, the rear half being rigid and the front flexible, giving a full wrapping action on this half when the brake is applied.

No Rattle Possible.

The shoe is expanded by a toggle, moved by pull from the cable through the flexible connection, and returned to the released position by a cross spring in the brake shoe. The shoe is held in position by the anti-rattler spring which holds it against the anchor pin and the brake shoe stop.

The brake linkage is very simple, consisting of a tubular cross shaft in the frame with double levers on each end, which connect through pull rods to the flexible connections to each wheel, and connections on the cross shaft to the brake pedal. The connection to the brake pedal is by double rods giving a push-pull action, which eliminates side thrust from the cross shaft.

Anti-rattlers on the rods, and springs on the crossshaft keep the linkage in tension at all times to prevent rattles.

FIVE CAGE WINS BY RUSKIN TEAM

RUSKIN, Neb., Jan. 28—Ruskin registered its fifth victory of the season this week by winning a 25-17 game at Hardy. Ruskin led 13-7 at half-time.

The work of J. Hansen and Skinner, Ruskin guards, forced Hardy to its shooting at long range. Sykes and A. Hansen led the Ruskin attack.

Ruskin has won five games in six starts, winning over Davenport, Belvidere, Deshler and Guide Rock and losing to Nelson on the latter's court. Coach J. Theodore Heskett's Ruskin team has qualified for state tourney entrance. Score:

ALL NATIONS IN '32 COLLEGE MEET

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—(I. N. S.)—An international intercollegiate track and field championship meet may be held in Los Angeles in 1932 in conjunction with the next Olympic games. Gustavus T. Kirby, the grand old man of America intercollegiate athletics, announced before sailing on the Aquitania last night that he would broach such a project to British and other foreign intercollegiate authorities.

Kirby believes that he will be able to enlist the aid of British authorities in the plan. He pointed out that more than sixty per cent of the athletes competing in the Olympic games are college men and that all of these would be on hand at Los Angeles. This would reduce traveling expenses.

Bradshaw Doubles Score On Thayer

BRADSHAW, Neb., Jan. 28—The Bradshaw High quintet added another victory Wednesday by defeating Thayer, 30 to 15. Bradshaw edged out ahead of Thayer at half-time, 11-10.

Mason of Bradshaw was high point man with 14 points. Mayes of Bradshaw scored 9 points. The Bradshaw reserves trounced the Thayer seconds, 33-10.

Bradshaw has met with but one reverse this season and meets Benedict on the Benedict court Saturday night.

HEMINGFORD HI WINNER.

HEMINGFORD, Neb., Jan. 28—Hemingford High won its fourth consecutive victory Tuesday night by defeating Hay Springs, 27 to 8.

Bruce Keckler and Clyde Badger made 20 of the 27 points. Alliance plays here Saturday.

FIGHTER'S BRIDE IS LOCKED OUT

Paul Berlenbach's Wife Barred From Home and Sued for Divorce.

NEW YORK, Jan. 28—Mrs. Paul Berlenbach, whose husband has begun legal action to have their marriage annulled, today blamed her marital difficulties on the boxer's parents. The former light heavyweight champion's father and mother, she asserted in an interview, told their son and friends that she was a "gold digger" and had married "Der Paulie" for his money.

Mrs. Berlenbach, who is only 21, was Rose Mary O'Reilly, daughter of a retired real estate operator in Los Angeles. They were married there last April, before the "Astoria Assassin" gave up his ring career.

Barred From Her Home.

The fighter's Irish bride said today that while she was visiting last Thursday at the home of a neighbor and friends, Mrs. Jack Zivic, a man walked in and served her with a notice that Paul had started action to have their marriage annulled. When she returned to the Berlenbach home at Pelham Manor that evening, the doors were locked against her. She is now staying with Mrs. Zivic.

"Paul's parents have stolen his affections," she said. "They didn't like our marriage. He left them to set up our home and they thought they would lose most of the fortune he had made fighting.

Puts Blame On Parents.

"They must have convinced him that I married him for his money. They were talking that way to everybody and had people calling me a 'gold digger.'"

Mrs. Berlenbach declared she "would love Paul just the same if he didn't have a cent."

"Paul did make hundreds of thousands fighting, but I made him stop. His parents didn't like that. They wanted him to make more money.

Mrs. Berlenbach has retained Max D. Steuer to represent her. He is expected to seek an order requiring Berlenbach to make a substantial payment for attorney's fees and to provide for his bride pending the outcome of his suit.

DWIGHT HI CAGERS VICTOR OVER BRUNO

DWIGHT, Neb., Jan. 28—Dwight high school won a 30-7 basketball victory at Bruno Tuesday. Dwight led at half-time, 9 to 4, and in the second half the Horacek brothers tossed nine baskets. Score:

OAKLAND ALL-AMERICAN SIX
PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

World's Greatest Value altogether or part by part

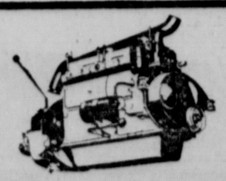

The smashing conviction of greatest value that Essex gives on sight, is confirmed by a wealth of costly car detail that was never before dreamed of in this price class.

You cannot mistake this impression of completeness and fine quality in the design of every detail. And you cannot forget that item after item brings you direct to the costly cars to find comparison.

Add these to the performance of its famous Super-Six high-compression, high efficiency motor, and you have $200 or $300 more visible values than in the previous Essex, which had such outstanding superiority that it outsold all "Sixes" at or near the price, by an overwhelming margin.

Exclusive patented Super-Six high-compression, high efficiency motor.

Essex coach front seats slide forward on a patented base so that rear seat passengers can enter without front seat riders getting out.

BODY TYPES and Prices

Dancing Club Parties Will Enliven Valentine Season

Galaxy of Formal and Informal Affairs Will Crowd Social Calendar During Next Two Weeks — Dainty Festoons, Hearts and Arrows to Feature Decorations.

A galaxy of parties, large and small, informal affairs and formal dinner dances—these are crowding the social calendar for the coming few weeks, as the dancing clubs, with a sudden spurt of enthusiasm, plan party after party. Of course Valentine's day is a very good reason for most of these, for what can be more attractive than dainty festoons of hearts and arrows, with gay cupids scattered among them?

Thursday, February 2, at Avalon, the Wah No Quah club will entertain about fifty couples at a Valentine party. Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jennings head the committee in charge of arrangements, assisted by Dr. and Mrs. L. R. Johnston, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Butler. There are to be two favor dances, carrying out the Valentine motif, and

Engagements

Mrs. Dora Charlton announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Marjorie May, to William S. Chenoweth, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Chenoweth, of Jennings, Kas. Miss Charlton is a graduate of Lincoln high school, and Mr. Chenoweth attended school in Kansas. The wedding will take place the latter part of February.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Critchfield, of Arapahoe, announce the engagement of their daughter, Lila Leanore, to Arlo Anderson, of Wilsonville, Neb. Both Miss Critchfield and Mr. Anderson have attended the University of Nebraska. Miss Critchfield was a student in the University School of Music, where she was a member of Mu Phi Epsilon and Kappa Phi. The date of the wedding is indefinite.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Cook announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Helen Priscilla, to Dr. Floyd L. Rogers of Lincoln, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Rogers of Sioux City. The wedding will take place February 16.

Miss Cook is a graduate of the University of Nebraska, and is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta. She is a member of the Lincoln Junior league. Dr. Rogers is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and of the medical college of Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill.

Miss Fuller And Mrs. Foe Old Friends

The "Merry Wives of Windsor," which appeared in Lincoln recently, had more than the usual interest for Mrs. Glen Foe, who had the opportunity of renewing an old friendship with Miss Marion Fuller, who was the assistant stage director.

Miss Fuller and Mrs. Foe met first in New York City several years ago, when Mrs. Foe spent some time there studying. Miss Fuller happened to be a friend of the girls who shared Mrs. Foe's apartment, and that is how their friendship began.

Miss Fuller, at that time, had served overseas in the Red Cross service, and received many medals and decorations for her splendid work.

Former Lincoln Girl Honored At Coast Carnival

The Rose carnival at Pasadena, this year was especially interesting to former Lincoln people who are now residing in California, because of the fact that one of the ladies in waiting to the queen of the pageant, was Helen Hostettler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hostettler who resided in Lincoln some time ago.

The queen was chosen because of popularity and beauty from the Pasadena high school, and the two ladies in waiting were chosen from the grammar school girls under the same regulations, the most popular and the most beautiful.

The queen wore a gown of lilies of the valley faced down the front with orchids. The ladies in waiting wore frocks of maline in shades of orchid, pink and blue, ruffled and very fluffy.

The float in which the queen and her attendants rode, was adorned with a Bird of Paradise made of violets. The float cost $4,000 and the queen's robe, $600.

Weddings

Brockel-Rowen

The marriage of Miss Martha Marie Brockel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Brockel, and Paul D. Rowen, son of Mrs. Jennie Rowen, took place January 14. Miss Mathilda Marbach was the bridesmaid, while C. A. Deklotz attended the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Rowen will make their home in Lincoln.

SOCIETY PEOPLE In The PICTURES

Out of town guests and attractive brides-to-be will furnish an incentive for many gay social affairs during the next few weeks. Already a number of parties have been given for some of the guests from out of town, and many more have been planned for future dates.

Among the most interesting of recent engagements is that of Miss Helen Cook, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Cook, to Dr. Floyd L. Rogers, which is announced today. The wedding will take place February 16.

Miss Lorraine Landstrom arrived in Lincoln a short time ago from Seattle, Wash., and has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arnot Folsom. Miss Landstrom will enter the University of Nebraska this seester.

A very delightful guest is Gladys Appleman Trahern of Greenport, Long Island, N. Y., who is spending a few weeks visiting friends and relatives in Lincoln. Mrs. Trahern is playing leads with the Trahern Players in Greenport. She attended the University of Nebraska where she was particularly active in dramatic circles. She is a member of Gamma Phi Beta.

The engagement of Miss Lila Critchfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Critchfield of Arapahoe, Neb., to Arlo Anderson of Wilsonville, is announced today. Miss Critchfield attended the University School of Music, and is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon sorority.

* * *

Mrs. J. D. Vail, jr., of Evanston, Ill., arrived last Monday to be the house guest of Miss Ruth Atkinson. Mrs. Vail has been honored at many social affairs since her arrival. Before her marriage Mrs. Vail was Miss Mary Wettling, a resident of Lincoln.

Art Collection To Be Shown In Morrill Hall

The annual exhibition of the Nebraska art association opens in Morrill hall of the university February 15.

The collection on display will include the fall exhibit of the Chicago Art institute and will be supplemented by representative local painters.

During the exhibition the school of fine arts will exhibit for the first time the Gregg collection of etchings presented to the school by Will C. Gregg of Hackensack, N. J., a former student of the university. Other features will be an exhibit of Rookwood pottery in the corridors, and a collection of cartoons.

Captain and Mrs. Finter to Leave Pacific Station

Lincoln friends of Capt. and Mrs. Clyde V. Finter of Honolulu, have received word that they are to leave Honolulu in March and return to the states. Captain Finter is to be stationed at the Dayton, O., flying field. Mrs. Finter before her marriage last summer, was Miss Fay Breese, formerely of Lincoln.

Capt. and Mrs. Finter will sail from Honolulu for New York City. From there they will go to Virginia to visit relatives of Captain Finter. Mrs. Finter will visit her sister in Kansas City, and will also come to Lincoln for a visit with friends before going to Dayton.

Co-Ed Bathing Beauties Will Be At Carnival

Mack Sennett will probably come to the University of Nebraska to seek his new bathing beauties after the inter-sorority bathing beauty contest has been decided at the N club Intra-mural Midwinter carnival Friday evening February 3, in the coliseum. This contest is but one of many to be given at the first carnival of its kind ever held at the school.

The affair will begin at 7 o'clock and among other things will be the needle and thread relay in which many of the sororities have already placed entries. There will be clogging, hog calling contests, clowns to amuse even the most sophisticated and novelty dances. The "off color" dance will be one of the features. Ray Ramsay will call through the radio which gentleman is to dance with a lady according to the color of the ticket. If the gentleman cannot obey the order, he will be fined heavily and that lady will probably be without a dancing partner for at least a part of the evening.

The whole carnival is being given under the auspices of the N club, with William Fleming, Edward E. Howell, Glen Presnell, Clarence Raish, Clark McBride and Ray Randels in charge of the events. Ray Ramsay will speak through the public address system.

Box Supper To Feature Night Eastridge Club

An old fashioned box supper is to be held at the Eastridge club next Wednesday evening as an added feature of the regular bridge night. The boxes are to be gayly decorated by the ladies, and gallantly purchased by the men. Hot dishes will be served in the club dining room. Following the supper, the evening will be spent with bridge.

Four Fine Etchings Added By Will C. Gregg to Collection Presented Fine Arts School

For fine etchings, one of them a National Arts club prize winner, have been added by Will C. Gregg, prominent Hackensack, N. J., manufacturer who was a student at the University of Nebraska in the eighties, to the growing collection which he is building up for the school of fine arts.

In December of 1924 Mr Gregg presented to the school an etching "Lace," which critics had acclaimed exceptionally fine, and since then he has been adding to the collection until there are now twenty-three etchings. They will be exhibited for the first time when the Nebraska Art association holds its annual exhibition in Morrill hall beginning February 15.

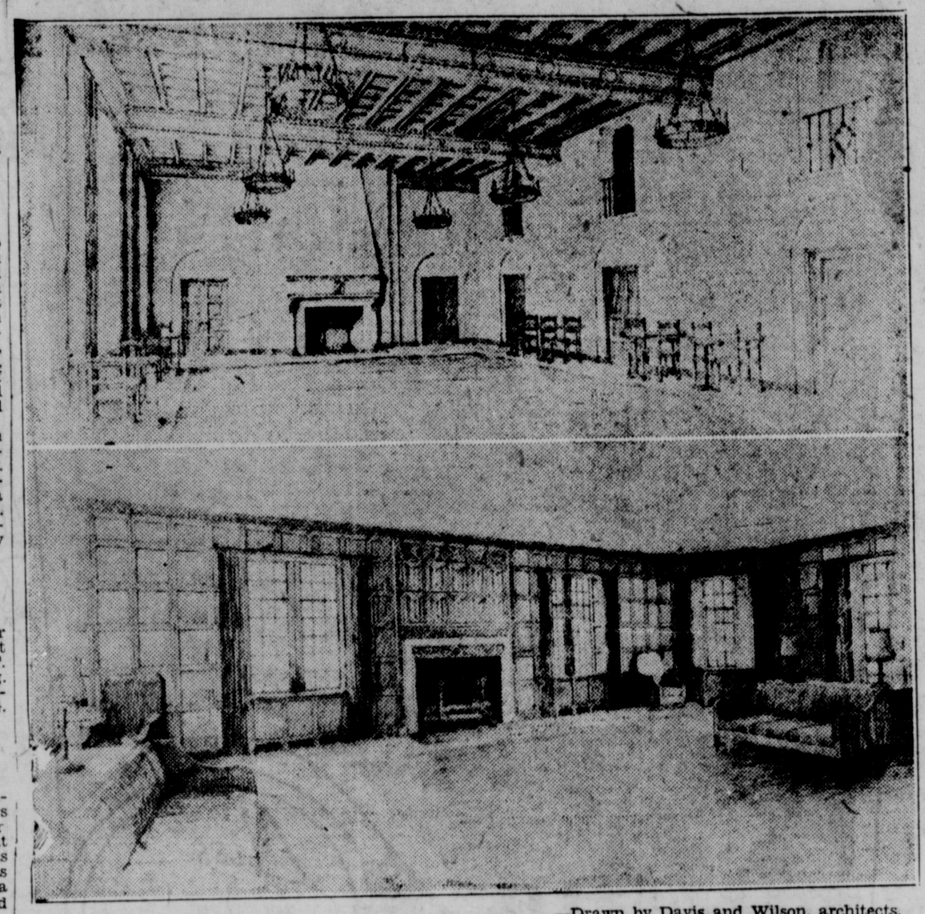

Mr. Gregg is an internationally known manufacturer, and is also noted for his work in connection with the national park movement and for his private art collection. A year ago he completed a private museum on his eastern estate.

The four new additions to the collection are "Memorial Gate, University of Pennsylvania," by G. A. Bradshaw, "Friend or Foe," by Dean Roberts, "Weeding", by Carmen L. Browne, and "Amiens," by John Taylor Arms. The last etching was awarded the National Arts club prize in 1927, and is a notable piece of work by a notable artist. It portrays a street scene in the French town of Amiens.

"Friend or Foe" is a dog picture, and "Weeding," is a captivating piece done in the "new" manner, tending to impressionistic technique rather than detail.

Another gift to the school of fine arts announced this week by Prof. Paul H. Grummann, director is a collection of more than a hundred photographs of the masterpieces of European art. The donor is anonymous. "The collection," says Professor Grummann, "is excellent, and will be unusually valuable for use in the department of art history, criticism, and interpretation."

Hostess at Party

Miss Marguerite Hollenbeck celebrated her sixteenth birthday anniversary last Tuesday. She was hostess to sixteen of her friends at an afternoon bridge party at her home, 2906 Plymouth street.

Chadron Normal

The college trio, composed of R. E. Yarndley, Miss Vivien O'Brien, and Roy Peterson, furnished several selections on the general assembly program, Wednesday, January 18.

W. K. Fowler of Lincoln, former state superintendent of schools in Nebraska, called at the college Friday, January 20. He now represents a Chicago book concern.

Mrs. Charles W. Philpott of the department of physical science and Mrs. E. L. Thompson, former member o fthe faculty, entertained the P. E. O. recently. Mrs. Leora A. Rustin of the junior high school took part in the program.

A benefit play entitled, "The Easy Mark," was presented at the Pace theater January 24, under the direction of George W. Chitty. The leading roles were held by George W. Chitty and Hazelle Beaver of Chadron. Other college students participating were Eloine Gilmore, Chadron, juvenile lead, and George Work, Chadron. The balance of the cast was composed of local townspeople. Proceeds of the benefit were turned over to the Chadron Civic Relief association.

Malcolm Sweeney, Chadron, A. B. '2, former Eagle editor was recently assigned to cover church services in New York city, in connection with the journalistic course which he is undertaking at Columbia university.

The recent drive of the Y. M. C. A., resulted in thirty new members. The regular Thursday meetings of this organization for the past two weeks have been presided over by Herbert Allen, Crawford. The subject for round-table discussion at these times has been on the matter of prohibition and law enforcement.

Everett Richards, Oshkosh, who was sophomire class president at the college during the fall quarter, is now enrolled at Denver university.

Miss Amanda B. Osnes and her cousin, Mrs. Margaret Manion, entertained at dinner for President and Mrs. Robert I. Elliott and their son, Bobby Elliott, Thursday evening, January 19.

The Royal Order of the Golden Fleece held a meetinz, Tuesday, January 17. A copy of the year book of programs was given to each member.

Marjorie Rouse was hostess to a group of college mates at her home Saturday, January 14. Those present were Alice Cambell, Douglas, Wyo.; Jessie Thompson, Thedford; Clare Hauge, Rapid City, S. D.; Margaret Johnson, Custer, S. D.; Lorraine Salleng, Thedford, Marjorie Work, Portland, and Dorothy Hadsell, Scottsbluff. Bridge formed the afternoon's diversion, and following an informal supper the guests attended the basketball game between the college and Black Hills teachers college of Spearfish, S. D.

Easy to Banish Fat

Try This Modern Way

Not always by abnormal exercise or diet. That is hard and slow. Most people who try it lack the patience to continue.

Another method has in late years attained enormous use. It is easy, pleasant, scientific, based on modern research. The slender figures now so common are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. They have told the results to others. Now in almost every circle there are people who can show you what they do.

Marmola contains a substance which, in the body, turns food into fuel and energy rather than into fat. The complete prescription is stated in every box. Also the reasons for results. This to banish any fear of harm and to let you know just why you get the benefits that come.

Go try Marmola, as myriads of people for two decades have done. Not only for new beauty, but new health and vitality. Simply take four tablets daily until you get the results desired. Then, in kindness to your friends, tell them what Marmola does. Go order before you forget it and watch the delightful change.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Y. W. C. A. ORGANIZING SPRING TERM CLASSES.

New classes were organized for the spring term at the Y. W. C. A. Thursday evening. This discussion class for the purpose of discussing political issues and candidates for office in the coming primaries promises to be most interesting and beneficial. Mrs. LeRoy Davis is in charge. A large number of the club girls have entered the new clogging class. Miss Ruth Pratt, the new physical director of the Y. W. C. A. is the teacher. Next week the class in dramatics will be organized. Miss Doris Gustafson of the school of expression at Nebraska Wesleyan will be the instructor. The home nursing class with Miss Lulu Abbott, R. N. in charge is continued from last semester.

On next Tuesday evening at 6 a new class in bowling will be started at the Y. M. C. A. Anyone interested can call Eleanor Lewis at the Y. W. C. A. for further particulars about the class.

Plans are under way for the leap year frolic the joint Y. M. and Y. W. party which is to be held at the Y. M. C. A. Feb 9. Myron Bausch is chairman for the Y. M. C. A. and Miss Zada McCright for the Y. W.

The Club Girls of the Y. W. C. A. who have been meeting on Wednesday night are planning a hike nad weiner roast for Wednesday night the first of February.

The charm school has evoked much interest. A series of one hour discussions running through ten weeks is planned to cover such subjects as the charm of being well groomed, charm through voice, charm of becoming colors and designs, the charm of radiant health, charm through decision, the charm of being feminine, charm through conversation, the charming hostess and guest, and the charm of the balanced life. It is hoped to begin the course, February 2, and registrations are still being received.

AMERICAN LITERATURE IS DISCUSSION TOPIC.

Chapter DL, P. E. O. met at the home of Mrs. E. R. Leverton, 211 South Twenty-eighth street. Mrs. W. H. Linn was assisting hostess. The program, "The Best Things in Literature," was in charge of Mrs. W. M. Stebbins.

Mrs. F. J. Wallace discussed modern American poetry. She selected Edgar Lee Masters and his "Spoon River Anthology" as preeminent, and Edna St. Vincent Millay as our outstanding writer among the women poets, particularly dwelling upon her poem "The Renaissance." She pointed out that the modern poet is departing from archaic expressions and pays less attention to rhythm and rhyme but more to clear expression of thoughst.

Mrs. L. B. Shreve discussed modern American fiction, and stated that the women authors excel in fiction but not in poetry and drama. She named a number of leading American novelists and spoke particularly of Edith Wharton and her production "The House of Mirth," which has been called by critics the "American Vanity Fair."

Mrs. Jennie Lee discussed the modern drama, speaking particularly of Booth Tarkington, Moody, McKay and Mrs. Marks as leaders in their field. Among the outstanding plays she mentioned "The Great Divide," "The Scarecrow," and "The Piper."

An interesting contribution to the program was that Dr. J. M. Mayhew had co-operated with Booth Tarkington, writing the musical setting to certain of Tarkington's plays while both were students at Princeton whenWoodrow Wilson was president of the college.

Mrs. Stebbins discussed briefly other forms of American literature.

Mrs. Morton Martin, Mrs. Bruce Campbell and Miss Lulu Rumery were guests of the chapter.

PARLIAMENTARY ORDER DISCUSSED BY CLUB.

The parliamentary division of the Lincoln Woman's club met at Faculty hall Thursday for the discussion of and drill upon, "Withdrawal of Motion" and "Reading of Papers," which was conducted by Mrs. E. E. Smith in the absence of Prof. F. M. Gregg, the regular instructor. Each member obtained the floor and took part in the drill. The next meeting will be February 9, 2:30 p. m. Advance lesson, "Appeal and Reconsider."

TRADE AND THE FLAG DISCUSSED BY CIRCLE.

The Hellenic Chautauqua circle met in the Y. W. C. A., Tuesday morning for a discussion of the question: "Does the Flag Follow Trade or Trade Follow the Flag," discussed by Mrs. W. M. Hunt, Miss Annette Martin was in charge of the lesson with Mrs. D. G. Kavanaugh in the chair. Other topics were:

"Evolution of the Monroe Doctrine, Mrs. J. C. Tuttle: "Central America and the Great War," Mrs. D. G. Kavanaugh; "Doctrine of the Special Interest," Mrs. F. H. Barber; "Idealism in International Relations," Mrs. J. R. Greenhalgh; "Home Life in the Various Classes," Mrs. Minor Bacon; "Food in Its Preparation," Dr. Maude Bell; "The Problems of Race," Mrs. A. N. Corby; "The Spanish Background," Mrs. Mary Lakeman; "The Indian; The Mestizo," Mrs. A. D. Eigenbroadt.

Mrs. P. A. Sommerlad will have charge of the sixth and last lesson in the book, "Rainbow Countries of Central America." Dr. J. Stanley Welch will give an illustrated lecture on his recent trip abroad at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday evening, February 15, to which all other chautauquans are invited.

Mrs. M. D. Cameron Is To File For National Committeewoman

The following personal sketch of Mrs. M. D. Cameron, Omaha woman, whose name is to be filed in the republican state primary for the position of national committeewoman, is contributed by her friends of the Lincoln Women's Republican club:

Mrs. M. D. Cameron came to Nebraska when a child when her parents settled in Boone county in 1881. Her father, a Methodist minister, successively filled a number of pastorates in different places, including Blair, Fullerton, Norfolk and Alliance.

In 1894 Mrs. Cameron entered the Nebraska Wesleyan university, which she attended for three years. She then married, her husband being at that time vice president of the Schuyler National bank. He is now president of the Peters National bank and vice president of the Peters Trust Co. at Omaha.

Mrs. Cameron has been prominent in state organization work. She was appointed by Governor Aldrich seventeen years ago as the first woman to serve on a state institution board, before the present board of control was created. She was a

CAMP FIRE GIRLS AWARDED HONORS.

The Lewa Camp Fire held a ceremonial meeting at the home of the guardian, Miss Leta Van Andel on Wednesday. Over two hundred honor beads were awarded the girls during the ceremony. Three new girls were formally taken into the group: Maxine Van Andel, Phyllis Scott, and Doris Mills.

Members of the WeNaGeYaTa group of Trinity church held a dinner in the church dining room on Wednesday. This group has just been organized under the leadership of Olivia Finke. The girls on the committee for the plans and preparation of the dinner were: Ruth Swanson, Bernice Barnard, and Mary Schricker.

The Mohawk group met at the home of Ruth Bock on Thursday. The committee working on the group symbol and colors reported and illustrated their various plans. Reports on winter wild flowers and the stars of January were given for the whole group. Margaret Brinton and Mildred Johnson gave short demonstrations on first aid.

Sehelo group met on Tuesday at the home of Helen Black. Following announcements by the president plans were made for the programs of the next ten meetings. Officers for the group are: president, Elizabeth Hansen; vice president, Mildred Kirkbride; secretary, Beatrice Fee; treasurer, Margery Van Scyoc.

Twenty-five girls completed the class in first aid given by Dr. MacDonald at the Red Cross office. The requirements for this class were those needed to complete the second rank in Camp Fire.

The fire-makers class under the leadership of Miss Blankenship was attended by thirty-eight girls. Requirements for this rank were discussed and a general discussion by all followed. The second part of the class will be held February 4.

A ceremonial for a group of Camp Fire girls just organized at Milford, was conducted by Miss Blankenship this week. There are twenty girls in the group under the leadership of Mrs. Silver. These girls have a cabin of their own and are working to earn enough money to enlarge it this summer.

Girls of Blue Bird age of Plymouth church met on Friday for an organization meeting. Miss Blankenship told them of the work the Blue Birds do and some of the requirements for the honors. After the general discussion of organization a luncheon was served the little girls in the dining room of the church.

Wohelo court will be held the last of February and the first of March for those girls wishing to take their firemakers rank at the grand council fire in March. Each girl working towards this honor must pass this court to take her rank.

DRAMATIC ART DEPARTMENT MEETS.

The dramatic art department of the Lincoln Woman's club met Wednesday at 2:30 p. m. in Faculty hall. The meeting was openel by the leader, Mrs. R. R. Betz. Roll call was responded to with quotations from Eugene Field and Mrs. H. G. Meyer read a paper on the author. Several readings were given by members of the department and the instructor, Miss Nancy Forsman, gave constructive criticism.

The lesson assignment for Wednesday is pantomimes and the poem "The Laughing Chorus." Quotations will be given from Tennyson.

W. C. T. U. OBSERVES MOTHER'S DAY.

University Place W. C. T. U. gave a mother's program on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Walter C. Smith, with twenty-five in attendance. Mrs. H. W. Hildreth reviewed the book "Practical Training of Children," by Perry, and led a discussion on that subejct. Mrs. J. G. McBride conducted the devotionals using the story of Samuel as a basis. She also recited the poem "The Fence and the Ambulance." Some plans for the raising of funds were discussed also "Dues Teas" which will be held simultaneously through the town on February 17, as a part of the "Hold Fast and Go Forward" campaign. Miss Bertha Carr, president of the union at Shelby, was a guest.

ALPHA DELPHIANS DISCUSS ROMANS.

The Alpha Delphian chapter met Monday morning in the Y. W. C. A. club rooms with Mrs. E. R. Mockett, presiding. Mrs. J. H. Cochrane led a most interesting discussion of current event. Mrs. S. J. Hyatt had charge of the lesson assisted by Mrs. George E. Johnson who spoke on, "Spain and Rome"; Mrs. E. L. Lowell, "England and Rome" and Mrs. W. C. Van Andel, "The Fall of Rome." The next meeting will be February 6.

DELPHIANS STUDY HEBREW LITERATURE.

The members of the Daleth Delphian chapter met for the study of Hebrew literature Tuesday evening, in the C. C. White building. Mrs. Flora Boydston was the leader and called for the following text reports: Industries and Arts, Wisdom Literature and The Prophets, Mrs. E. Lux; Hebrew Poetry, Classified, The Hebrew Epic, and Lyric Poetry, Mrs. Elsa Williams; "The Song of Songs," and Hebrew Drama, Ruth M. Curyea; and Hebrew Fiction, Mrs. O. H. Bimson.

PROF. WILCOX LECTURES ON RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

Prof. Rowse B. Wilcox lectured to the literature department of the Lincoln Woman's club Thursday afternoon on the subject of Emerson. He said that Emerson is the only man in American literature who is pre-eminently great. He is an optimist. He and Robert Browning are the only two writers who think clear through things and come out at the other end strong optimists. Prof. Wilcox said if he were banished to a desert island, he would take Emerson and Browning with him, even if he had to leave Shakespeare behind.

PAGEANT PRESENTED BY ORTHOPEDIC CHILDREN.

At the civics department meeting of the woman's club Friday the special feature of the program was a pageant given by several of the Orthopedic children directed by their instructor, Miss Kate Harris. It was a plea for the childhood of America. This program was sponsored by the educational committee of which Mrs. E. S. Gunn is chairman. The second offering was from the Americanization department and was written by Mrs. E. S. Gunn. It was founded upon an incident in the experience of a settlement worker in New York City.

Mrs. Eugene Levy gave a report of the sewing work done in connection with her welfare work. A sewing circle, to assist in remaking clothing for needy people has been organized.

Prof. L. E. Aylesworth lectured on "The Cost of County Government."

DELPHIANS STUDYING ENGLISH LITERATURE.

"Originality and Plagiarism," Miss Ruth Case.

"The Necessity of Being Sincere," Mrs. H. R. Beeson.

Review questions were discussed and Mrs. J. A. Nicholson appointed to lead the new subjects, "Stories in Stone," by Willis T. Lee.

RELIGIOUS LIFE OF ISRAEL IS DISCUSSED.

Professor Lewis lectured to the Bible department of the Lincoln Woman's club, Tuesday in Y. W. C. A., parlors, on the subject, "Social and Religious Institutions of Israel" with especial emphasis on the family, education and schools. He said in part. "The position of the father in the early Hebrew family, was that of priest, law giver and military leader. This position was gradually shifted to the tribal heads, among the nomadic peoples or to the officials in the established towns. Even today the Hebrew father is ruler in his household, with children and wife in more or less subjection. The position of women in the entire Old Testament was distinctly inferior to that of men. The woman was in all ways subject to her husband. This condition with only a few outstanding examples survived to Paul's time. In spite of the inequality of home privileges, Hebrew home life was a rather stable social institution.

membe of the republican women's national council at the time the suffrage amendment became effective. She is personally affiliated with the women's national republican club in New York City, the largest organization of its kind in the country.

As a leader in woman's club activities of Nebraska, Mrs. Cameron has devoted a good deal of time to that line of work. During the World war she was the Nebraska director on the general federation boad of the United States. She has also taken a prominent part in Y. W. C. A. and P. E. O. affairs.

With all of these outside interests, she and her husband maintain a hospitable home which is always open to their friends.

KEARNEY NOTES

The training high school has improved and developed in many ways this year and the enrollment has more than doubled.

Kearney was represented at the Student Volunteer convention recently held in Detroit by Wayne Danielson, a senior. He gave in convocation Monday a very interesting report of the meetings.

At the beginning of the summer term, the classes at Kearney college will be scheduled in regular hour periods instead of the fifty-five minute periods as they are now. The first morning class will start at 7 o'clock.

John Waldeman, junior and captain-elect of the 1928 football squad, was operated on for appendicitis Tuesday morning of this week. He is at the Good Samaritan hospital.

Superintendent J. T. Anderson begins work as an instructor here Monday. On February 6 another new instructor, Joseph Mott, will take up his duties in the education department.

Weddings

LaBee-Miller

The marriage of Miss Bertice LaBee, daughter of Mrs. Otto Speiser, 2979 Dudley street, to Clyde Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Miller of Wahoo, will be solemnized Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at the home of Rev. Oscar Joneson. They will be attended by Mr. and Mrs. Speiser.

Miss LaBee will wear a frock of tan canton crepe with accessories to match.

Following a short honeymoon trip, Mr. Miller and his bride will be at home at 2979 Dudley street.

Fairfield-Fisher

The marriage of Miss Alice Fairfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Fairfield of Alvo, and Henry Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fisher of Streator, Ill., were married Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. M. A. Fairfield, 5419 Huntington avenue. The Rev. R. H. Chenoweth read the lines in the presence of thirty-six guests.

The bride was gowned in dark blue crepe, fashioned with white. Her corsage was of roses.

Miss Hazel Ayers of Alvo was the bride's only attendant. Frank Hempke of Murdock was the groomsman.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher are making their home in Streator, Ill.

Curtis-Peterson

Charming simplicity will mark the nuptial service at which will be united in marriage Miss Mary Louise Curtis, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. L. Curtis and Dr. John C. Peterson at high noon today at the home of the bride's parents, 1503 South Twenty-second street.

Rev. J. K. Shellenberger will perform the ceremony in the presence of immediates relatives and friends. Preceding the reading of the lines, Miss Sylvia Cole will sing, "Oh Promise Me" accompanied at the piano by Miss Emma Strangman. Miss Strangman will play Lohengrin's wedding march as Miss Curtis enters, unattended. The bride's gown is of rose beige georgette fashioned on simple lines, and she will carry an arm bouquet of ophella roses.

Following the ceremony there will be a buffet luncheon at the home. The table appointments will be all carried out in shades of pink, and pink roses will center the table.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding will be Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Peterson of Geneva, the parents of the groom, Misses Helen, Marian and Minnie Peterson and Frank, and Paul Peterson all of Geneva. Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hammond of Clay Center; Dr. and Mrs. Cass Camp of Davenport, E. D. Campbell of Omaha and Mrs. I. J. Sutton of Omaha.

Dr. and Mrs. Peterson will be at home in Omaha after February 1. Dr. Peterson is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and a member of Phi Rho Sigma, medical fraternity.

Patzel-Wilson

The marriage of Miss Margaret Patzel and Harry F. Wilson will take place Wednesday evening, February 1, at the home of the groom's mother, Mrs. Jeessie F. Wilson, 708 North Thirty-fifth street. Mrs. Wilson, who is pastor of the First Pilgrim Holiness church, will perform the ceremony in the presence of a few friends and relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will enter the Colorado Springs Bible training school.

Coliseum Will Be Changed To Present Opera

A great many changes are being made in the Coliseum in order to accommodate the Chicago Civic Opera Co. in its presentation of "Il Trovatore" which will be in Lincoln on March 29, according to John Selleck. Boxes are to be provided, and a pit for the orchestra which acompanies the company is to be built. This also will necessitate a slight change in the stage arrangement. The seating plan of the main floor may be changed, in order to take care of the large crowd that is expected.

As soon as the diagrams of the new floor plan are completed, mail reservations will be received at the office of Mr. Selleck, where they will be recorded and sent out in the order of their receipt. This is considered to be the most stupendous musical and social production ever attempted in Nebraska.

Rosa Raisa, eminent coltura soprano, will sing the role of Leonora. Miss Raisa declared "today the singer must know thoroughly the art of makeup because of the relentless flood of electric light, but in the old days the singer dressed and acted by candlelight, and did not need makeup.

"If the great artists of the past were to sing in opera today, just as they did then, they would be very badly received. The art of opera today is much more complex, and much more advanced than ever before, and the audiences are vastly more critical."

Nittler-Holloway

The marriage of Miss Frances Nittler to John Holloway of Omaha, was solemnized at 7 o'clock Saturday morning, January 28, at the church of the Blessed Sacrament. Father D. J. Cronin read the service in the presence of a small group of friends.

Miss Helen Walsh was the bridesmaid and Francis Donnelly served Mr. Holloway as groomsman.

Miss Nittler wore a smart traveling costume of navy blue, with accessories to match.

Following a short honeymoon trip, Mr. Holloway and his bride will be at home in Omaha.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at Hotel Cornhusker.

FILIPINO STUDENT ADDRESSES LEAGUE.

Emil del Rosario, president of the Filipino club of Nebraska university, spoke before the dinner meeting of the Business and Professional Women's league, Tuesday evening, on the subject, "The Relationship Between the United States and the Philippines and the Problems that Arise out of Such a Relationship."

As a small child, Mr. Rosario said, his mother placed her hands on his shoulders and said, "When you shall have learned the history of your country, the Stars and Stripes you shall revere." This is typical of the feeling of the Filipinos for this country, he said, and they feel that in this history of relationships between a stronger and weaker nation, no brighter page exists than that which tells of America's trusteeship to the Philippines.

The speaker mentioned the objections urged against independence for the islands, but claimed that economic questions and interests were behind them all. They have no Henry Ford or Rockefeller, but their wealth is more evenly distributed among the people and given a choice between these men and freedom, they would choose freedom, that for which all humanity will fight if need be. The speaker pleaded for a chance for his people to prove their ability to govern themselves.

The dinner was held in the league club rooms and was served by Miss Clara Aronson and Miss Frederica Cheney, with Miss Mae Maisbury, Mrs. Lola Carney, Miss Esther Craven, Miss Roxie Lewis, Miss Maud Constanser, assisting. Miss Clara Aronson presided. Tall golden tapers and baskets of calendula furnished the color note for the table decoration.

Visitors introduced were Mrs. Althea Seamark and Miss Marie Dugan, guests of Mrs. Margaret Carns; Dr. Eula McEwan, and Miss Daisy Jones, introduced by Miss Clara Toland; Miss Charlotte Alexander, the guest of Miss Emma Hedges; Miss Clara Bell Green, who accompanied Dr. Ruth Warner; Miss Jessie Glass, introduced by Mrs. Daisy Williams; Elizabeth Derrick, with Mrs Esther Freeman; Abbie Van Tuyl Mathers, who accompanied Mrs. Laura Bridenthal; Mrs. Mary Hughes and Miss May Hyland as guests of Miss Ethel Fritz.

Miss Evelyn Lagerquist and Emilo del Rosario sang "The Garden of Tomorrow" and "La Galondrina" (The Swallow), and Mr. Rosario and Miss Zelma Osborne sang "Love, Here is My Heart."

Minerva's Mail

Take Your Troubles to Minerva

The Making of Good Citizens More Important Than Exposing Their Mistakes — Children Know Where Their Parents' Defense Line Is Weakest.

Right To Judge.

I'm broadcasting an S. O. S. right now. Someone will have to dig me out from under the avalanche that I'm sure will hit me when I say "I'm in favor occasionally of white lies when necessary." And I won't quibble about it either. Keeping silent when we could blurt out the truth is added to my category of "white lies."

This letter from "One of the Males" occasioned that outburst. He is supporting "A Mother Too," who charged me with encouraging vice by being so broad-minded. She thought that we had a right to judge our fellowmen and mete out the punishment we thought fit. Very well. You see I had advised one of our correspondents, a mother, to keep the secret of her youthful mistake to herself. Raised in a strict household where no one laughed, where no young people played, she had lost her head and heart when the first opportunity occurred, while visiting relatives. Was she helped over the trouble, given the love a mother should give? Indeed not. She was banished. And after her baby girl was born she learned a profession and made herself independent. She raised her "illegitimate" daughter to beautiful womanhood. These things she had done alone. If that isn't making good, I don't know what the phrase means.

I, who believe in "white lies," told this woman to keep her past to herself; that it was not necessary to confess to her daughter or the young man the girl is engaged to, and thus I brought down upon my head the wrath of "A Mother Too." I think we should be more concerned over the making of good citizens than in hunting out their mistakes and exposing them. I think that a friendly hand is worth more than the finger of scorn. And I think that the unnecessary hurting of another human being is a crime. That's why I thought our troubled mother should keep her story to herself. It was for her own good as well as the daughter's. Why cause pain when it could do no good? It was a white lie.

Where do you stand?

Dear Minerva: "A Mother Too" does not seem to have received a favorable reception. That is hardly to be wondered at, for nobody loves a scold or a knocker, especially, I suspect, when what the knocker says is true. I think "A Mother Too" was a little severe in what she said, but at the same time I also think she is sincere; more so at least, than most of her critics. In one thing she is certainly right; in these modern times there is too much tendency to make excuses for wrong-doing instead of condemning it. And when we excuse wrong, we encourage it, whether we mean to do so or not. Like "A Mother Too," I am disgusted with much of what I read and see. A nation will never be any higher morally than the standards accepted by its women, and "A Mother Too" has shown that she believes her sex should measure up. Her critics blame her for not being tolerant and broad-minded, but if they were as tolerant as they expect her to be, they would try to see her viewpoint and give her what credit she deserves.

Of course we should be broad-minded and tolerant, but how far should tolerance go? For the welfare of society it is necessary that certain evils should be prohibited. When we tolerate indecency and vice, we are on dangerous ground. I think "A Mother Too" had this idea in mind, rather than any thought of denying any erring person a chance to come back. And the inconsistencies of her critics which are pointed out speak for themselves.

Perhaps I have been a bit severe myself in what I have said. But I have been reading stories in your Mail of wayward girls and they have made me wonder if the purity of womanhood that we hear so much about is a fact, or only a myth after all. So when I find a woman who expects her sex to observe high moral standards, I believe she should be encouraged. And I know of nothing more disgusting than to see a woman so severely criticised for speaking in favor of decency. ONE OF THE MALES.

A. What is "decency," my friend? Does it mean naught but moral chastisty to you. Can't it be used towards a man or woman who lives kindly, understandingly and tolerantly? And can't one possess these attributes, even though he or she has "sinned?" Must we tell the world every petty, mean thing we've ever done, and be judged, or can we work out our own salvation?

Several Opinions.

An eighteen-year-old girl agrees with me that "A Mother" has a right to her secret, but she also has several other opinions to offer. It will do the youngsters who believe in getting a lot of good—if they will only listen. And her letter did me good, too, to think that she found my advice a help now and then:

Dear Minerva: May I join the army? No, I don't wish to spill any of my beautiful tear-drops; so you may save your hankie for the next poor soul. I only wish to express my harmless opinions of a few members of your readers.

First of all I wish to say that "A Mother Too" is unbalanced. I think that a woman of her type is too ignorant of the ways of life to express herself so vividly. Not that I am a know-it-all person, but I believe in giving everyone a fair chance to live a pure and untarnished life. Mother has a perfect right to keep her secret and protect it from her daughter and son-in-law-to-be. Why break up their happiness? Hasn't Mother as good as said she has profited from her mistake? Wake up, "Mother Too," and die right. You remind me of an old hen about 5 years old. Always cackling about when she was a girl. That doesn't help us now. Our problems are different.

Say, "Mother Too," please look at yourself in the mirror. Are you perfect? Of course you aren't. No descendant of man ever was or ever will be. When I said look at yourself in the mirror, I didn't refer to your physical body. I meant your mentality. I bet there is a crack in it some place. How do you know that God didn't intend "Mother" to do as she did? Don't judge other persons, please. It isn't fair to yourself.

Minerva, dear, don't you nearly split when you read letters from some of your writers.

I'm about to present another valuable opinion. Hearken? Gee, but the letters from girls around fourteen to seventeen make me purple with rage. All the majority, I said majority, of them think about is "Shall I pet," or "How can I make him love me better than the other girl?" Perhaps it is, "How can I forget him?" Such bosh. But then, I suppose someone will say that is their business and not mine. You certainly give them sound advice, Minerva. I think petting is ridiculous. I don't mean that I have never kissed a boy. Far from it, but I'm sorry I didn't save them all for my Prince Charming. You don't need to pet to be popular. I know from experience. I'm as popular with my friends as the next one and I don't pet, smoke, drink or dance. May I make this clear? We always have plenty of fun together without the foregoing subjects. Popularity, I believe, is based on the way you treat the fellow man. Remember that old saying "Laugh and the world laughs with you; cry and you cry alone."

I wish to say again, Minerva, before I make my bow, that you have helped the young folks more than you can imagine. You are more help to us than all the old hens put together. You understand us better than most of our friends, and are always on the spot to help us with our trouble, no matter how small. If this is too long, chuck it in the waste basket. Also, if anyone feels that it is his duty to inform me of my mistakes, please do so. I assure you that I won't feel hurt and hope that you won't either. Everyone is invited to comment on my amazing proportion of rationalism. Baby Blue Eyes.

Respect For Parents.

Dear Minerva: How can parents get their children to give them as much respect as they do their teachers or principals in the schools? A Parent.

A. Children have studied their parents very carefully and know where the defense line is weakest. If a child had the same teacher for fifteen years he'd know every fortification and perhaps spike every gun. Teachers are trained for their job; parents are handed a job. Children in school have definite assignments filling a logical program. At home many make their own assignments or are given very irregular ones. At home children have one cue—the parents; at school the pupils have two cues—the teacher and the class. At school the teacher says "No;" at home this means "Maybe." At home the father says "Yes," the mother says "No," while at school there is only one Yes or No. At home Johnnie's weaknesses are the subject of table conversation and often make him want to show off; at school his weaknesses, in hands of a good teachers, are corrected and not publicly commented upon.

The school has taken over the shop, kitchen, garden and library of the homes and keeps the child occupied; the home hasn't awakened to the fact that it has lost much and supplied nothing in the place.

However, all parents have not lost the respect of the children. All thinking parents can keep the right touch with the children.

Social Work.

Dear Minerva: I want to accumulate knowledge and at the same time earn a little money. I thought of becoming a social worker but I know so little about the various phases of it. Please advise me. Ambitious.

A. Send to the New York School of Social Research, 105 East Twenty-second street, for their catalogue. There are various fields open and the work is highly diversified. You need good health, lots of initiative, an interest in service irrespective of pay, and finally the thing which you already possess—the desire to accumulate knowledge, which to a social worger means "desire to accumulate life."

Questions in Brief.

Gladys: An exercise and massage which will improve the circulation and make the skin of the whole body smoother and healthier is as follows:

Stand with feet well apart, knees straight. Bend over from the waist and start rubbing one leg, beginning at the ankles and proceeding up to the thighs. Bend and raise the trunk quickly as you rub up and down with a pair of bath mittens made from coarse Turkish toweling, rubbing ten to twenty times on each leg.

Straighten up and begin to rub the right arm with the left mitten, starting at the wrist and stroking up to the shoulder. Hold the right arm out at shoulder level. Rub each arm hard about twenty times.

Now stand straight and with both hands rub up the abdomen over the chest using a rotary movement. Rub this section into a glow.

Rub down the right side of your body with your right mitten, bending trunk to the left in the upward strokes. Do the same on the left side ten to twenty times.

Fold the towel twice lengthwise, pass it behind your shoulders, grasping an end firmly in each hand. Rub your back and shoulders briskly with the towel, twisting your trunk from side to side as you do so.

Bring the towel in front and rub your abdomen with it, holding the towel by the ends as before.

Raise your right knee, pass the towel under your right thigh and give it a good rubbing. Repeat with left thigh. Raise your knee higher and rub the sole of your foot in the same way.

Rub your neck hard with the mittens, using an upward, rotary stroke. This will correct sallowness and make the skin finer.

Doane Notes

"Doane Day," which was set aside last year by the executive committee of the state conference for the third Sunday in Februar will come on February 19, this year

Last year a large number of churches celebrated this day. Either the pastor presented the cause o the college, or special speakers wer called upon. Those who could not celebrate "Doane day" on the third Sunday in February, adopted some other Sunday later in the year.

Thirteen churches have already reported that they are planning to hold the 1928 "Doane day" in the very near future.

Professor and Mrs. C. V. Kettering, the Misses June Judy, Mary Ellen Inglis, Lenore Edgerton and Arthur W. Byler, Wesley Spink, Ernest Ford of the Doane faculty attended the opera "The King's Henchman" at Lincoln last Monday night. Students attending were Dorothy Mansfield, Wisner; Marie Grosshans, Aurora, and Horace Schreck, Bertrand.

The women's sororities of Doane are planning their initiations for February 3. Only those classified above the freshman class are eligible for membership in the sororities. Initiations are permitted only twice a year. A student entering an upper class, after transferring from some other institution, is not eligible for sorority membership until after one semester of study.

The Chinese students at Doane are planning to speak at a fellowship supper of the men and women of the Congregational church Wahoo, Friday, February 3.

The annual mid-year meeting the Doane trustees will be held at Lincoln, February 9, at which time, important policies and plans of the the college will bediscussed.

Daone day was held in the Congregational church at Doniphan las Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Kinney, '97 (Grace Catherine Barrager, '96), 528 South Fifty-second street, Omaha, writes that they are having a fine trip in Cuba. Mr. Kinney is president of the Nebraska Consolidated Mills with headquarters at Omaha.

Doctor Says No To Operations

Believes Nearly All Women's Troubles Can Be Overcome By Drainage Method.

DR. H. WILL ELDERS

So important is the subject, in the estimate of Dr. H. Will Elders, noted women's specialist that he has written a book for free distribution to women. It tells all about his drainage method and why too often an operation is a useless sacrifice. It is a book that every woman should read. Dr. Elders is one of those old-time family doctors who rode the Ozark hills horseback and has had a world of experience. Send your name and address today to Dr. H. Will Elders, 411 Ballinger Bldg., St. Joseph, Mo.

Note: Dr. Elders confines himself strictly to office practice only, and under no circumstances does he ever perform operations.

BY LULU MAE COE.

Nebraska elections have lost more than torch light parades, big buttons decorated with candidate portraiture, and marching clubs.

They have lost the excitement and hot campaigns of the days when the legislature elected the United States senators.

They gave up much artificial brilliance when they foreswore their bands, fancy hats, and floats, but they lost a lot of excellent chances for political intrigue, midnight sessions in smoke-filled rooms, and scheming for votes, when it was decided that the popular election of senators was the proper move.

Nowadays, a senatorial election is as drab as any. Candidates file, they make speeches, a few lieutenants run hither and yon on certain definite, but not enlivening, errands.

Results Not In Doubt.

Everybody knows the moment all will be over. Each candidate knows the exact November night on which he can plan to reserve Lower 9 on the 5:59 train for Washington. The other one also knows the exact night on which he knows he won't be invited to a presidential reception this year. That is—in Nebraska. That's the way we run our elections now.

Senatorial elections, in contrast to the good old days, are over and done with as promptly as elections for any other office. No definite postponement of election day any more. But, since there is not, they've lost much of their fire and fervor.

In the days when the legislatures elected the senators, the first real exciting campaign was in 1877. Phineas W. Hitchcock, father of Gilbert Hitchcock, was up for reelection. In those days, railroads took an active part in politics, and it was said that he was the Union Pacific candidate for senator.

Saunders Elected.

Charges were hurled back and forth, and a bitter contest ensued. Edward Rosewater was a strong factor in the defeat of Hitchcock, the former being quoted in an eastern paper as "his most persistent assailant." On the first joint ballot, Hitchcock was high man, with Alvin Saunders, second, and the opposition cast twenty-five votes for James W. Savage, democrat. In the second ballot of the next day, Alvin Saunders was elected, receiving the entire republican support and that of ten independents.

Ten years later, the people for the first time expressed their preference for United States senator on the ballot. C. H. Van Wyck, running for re-election, received 40,000 or 50,000 of the popular votes cast, a majority of those expressing their choice. However, in the legislaaure, the old guard was of one mind, defeating Van Wyck and electing A. S. Paddock as senator.

The first of three most spectacular elections of senator, that of 1893—the others were 1899 and 1901—was a triangular fight. The democrats opened the election by voting for J. Sterling Morton, gold standard democrat. The republicans were not united, scattering their vote among half a dozen and the populists split, although William V. Allen was the leading independent candidate.

Promised Support Morton.

As the session progressed, the republicans, foreseeing the union of the democrats and the populists, proposed to the gold democrats in the joint session of the legislature, about seven in all, that if the democrats would vote for Morton for one day more, these republican leaders would bring the united republican vote to Morton.

That night, however, the republicans held a caucus, and Edward Rosewater made a most vigorous attack on Morton before the members. That was a large factor in preventing the republicans from supporting Morton, as planned.

The next day, the twenty-eighth of the session and on the eighteenth joint ballot, Allen was elected, with the support of the gold democrats. He was the first populist United States senator.

In 1899, the senatorial election caused a spirited fight in the legislature. D. E. Thompson did not declare himself as a candidate, but at the time of election, it was found he had the votes of the Lancaster county delegation, and of a few others. He was backed by the Burlington, and the thought was to have him increase his voting strength from a few certain votes to a larger number and an election.

A long hard fight ensued, with the republicans holding many a night caucus. Thompson retained his initial strength for ballot after ballot, and gained a few, but not enough to have any hope of election. He finally withdrew, when it became apparent he had swung all the votes possible, and some time, later, on the forty-third ballot on March 8, M. L. Hayward was elected. The result was that two years later, Thompson ran for senator, causing the celebrated election of 1901.

In 1901, two senators were to be elected, as M. L. Hayward had died before qualifying, and W. V. Allen had been appointed to fill the vacancy until the next election. This is the single instance the admission of the state in which two United States senators have been elected in one year.

Factional Fight Developed.

This election was a celebrated one, with a factional fight developed in the republican party over the election of D. E. Thompson for senator. The party in Washington wanted two republican senators from Nebraska, and the majority of that belief in the legislature were voting for Thompson and Edward Rosewater, the friends of the two combining forces for the voting. W. V. Allen was the democratic choice.

Nine republicans, of whom Dan Swanson and J. E. Whitmore of Aurora were two, refused to vote for caucus nominees, and no real caucus could be held until Thompson's name was withdrawn. The Chicago Northwestern railroad, represented by Ben T. White, joined the reform element and a long and bitter fight ensued. For nearly two months, the legislature met in joint session each noon to take one or more ballots for senator, and the refusal of the nine to be bound by the caucus blocked the election.

On the first ballot, twenty-three names were nominated for senator to fill the vacancy in addition to the leading candidates, E. J. Hainer, G. D. Meikeljohn, and G. M. Hitchcock being among them. For the full term, sixteen were placed in nomination, among others, W. J. Bryan, Lorenzo Crounse, Meikeljohn, Hitchcock, as well as the leading contenders.

Thompson Finally Withdrew.

Near the close of the session, when it was thought adjournment might come without an election, Thompson withdrew, upon the condition that his choice for the senators be considered. The real caucus, including the nine, was held in the morning at the Lindell, and there was great excitement for the word had gone about that a senatorial choice was imminent. The legislature did not work—the legislators were too interested in the caucus.

A record crowd assembled at the state house that noon for the joint session. The galleries, as well as the floor, were overflowing. Ezra P. Savage, lieutenant governor, 6½ feet tall, weighing over 200 pounds, looked up from where he was presiding, and called to those leaning over the railing: "Look out, you people up there, or you will fall over the dashboard."

On the fifty-fourth ballot, the first, however, and only one of the day, Charles H. Dietrich, then governor, and Joseph H. Millard were elected senators, the choice of the caucus and of the candidate who withdrew.

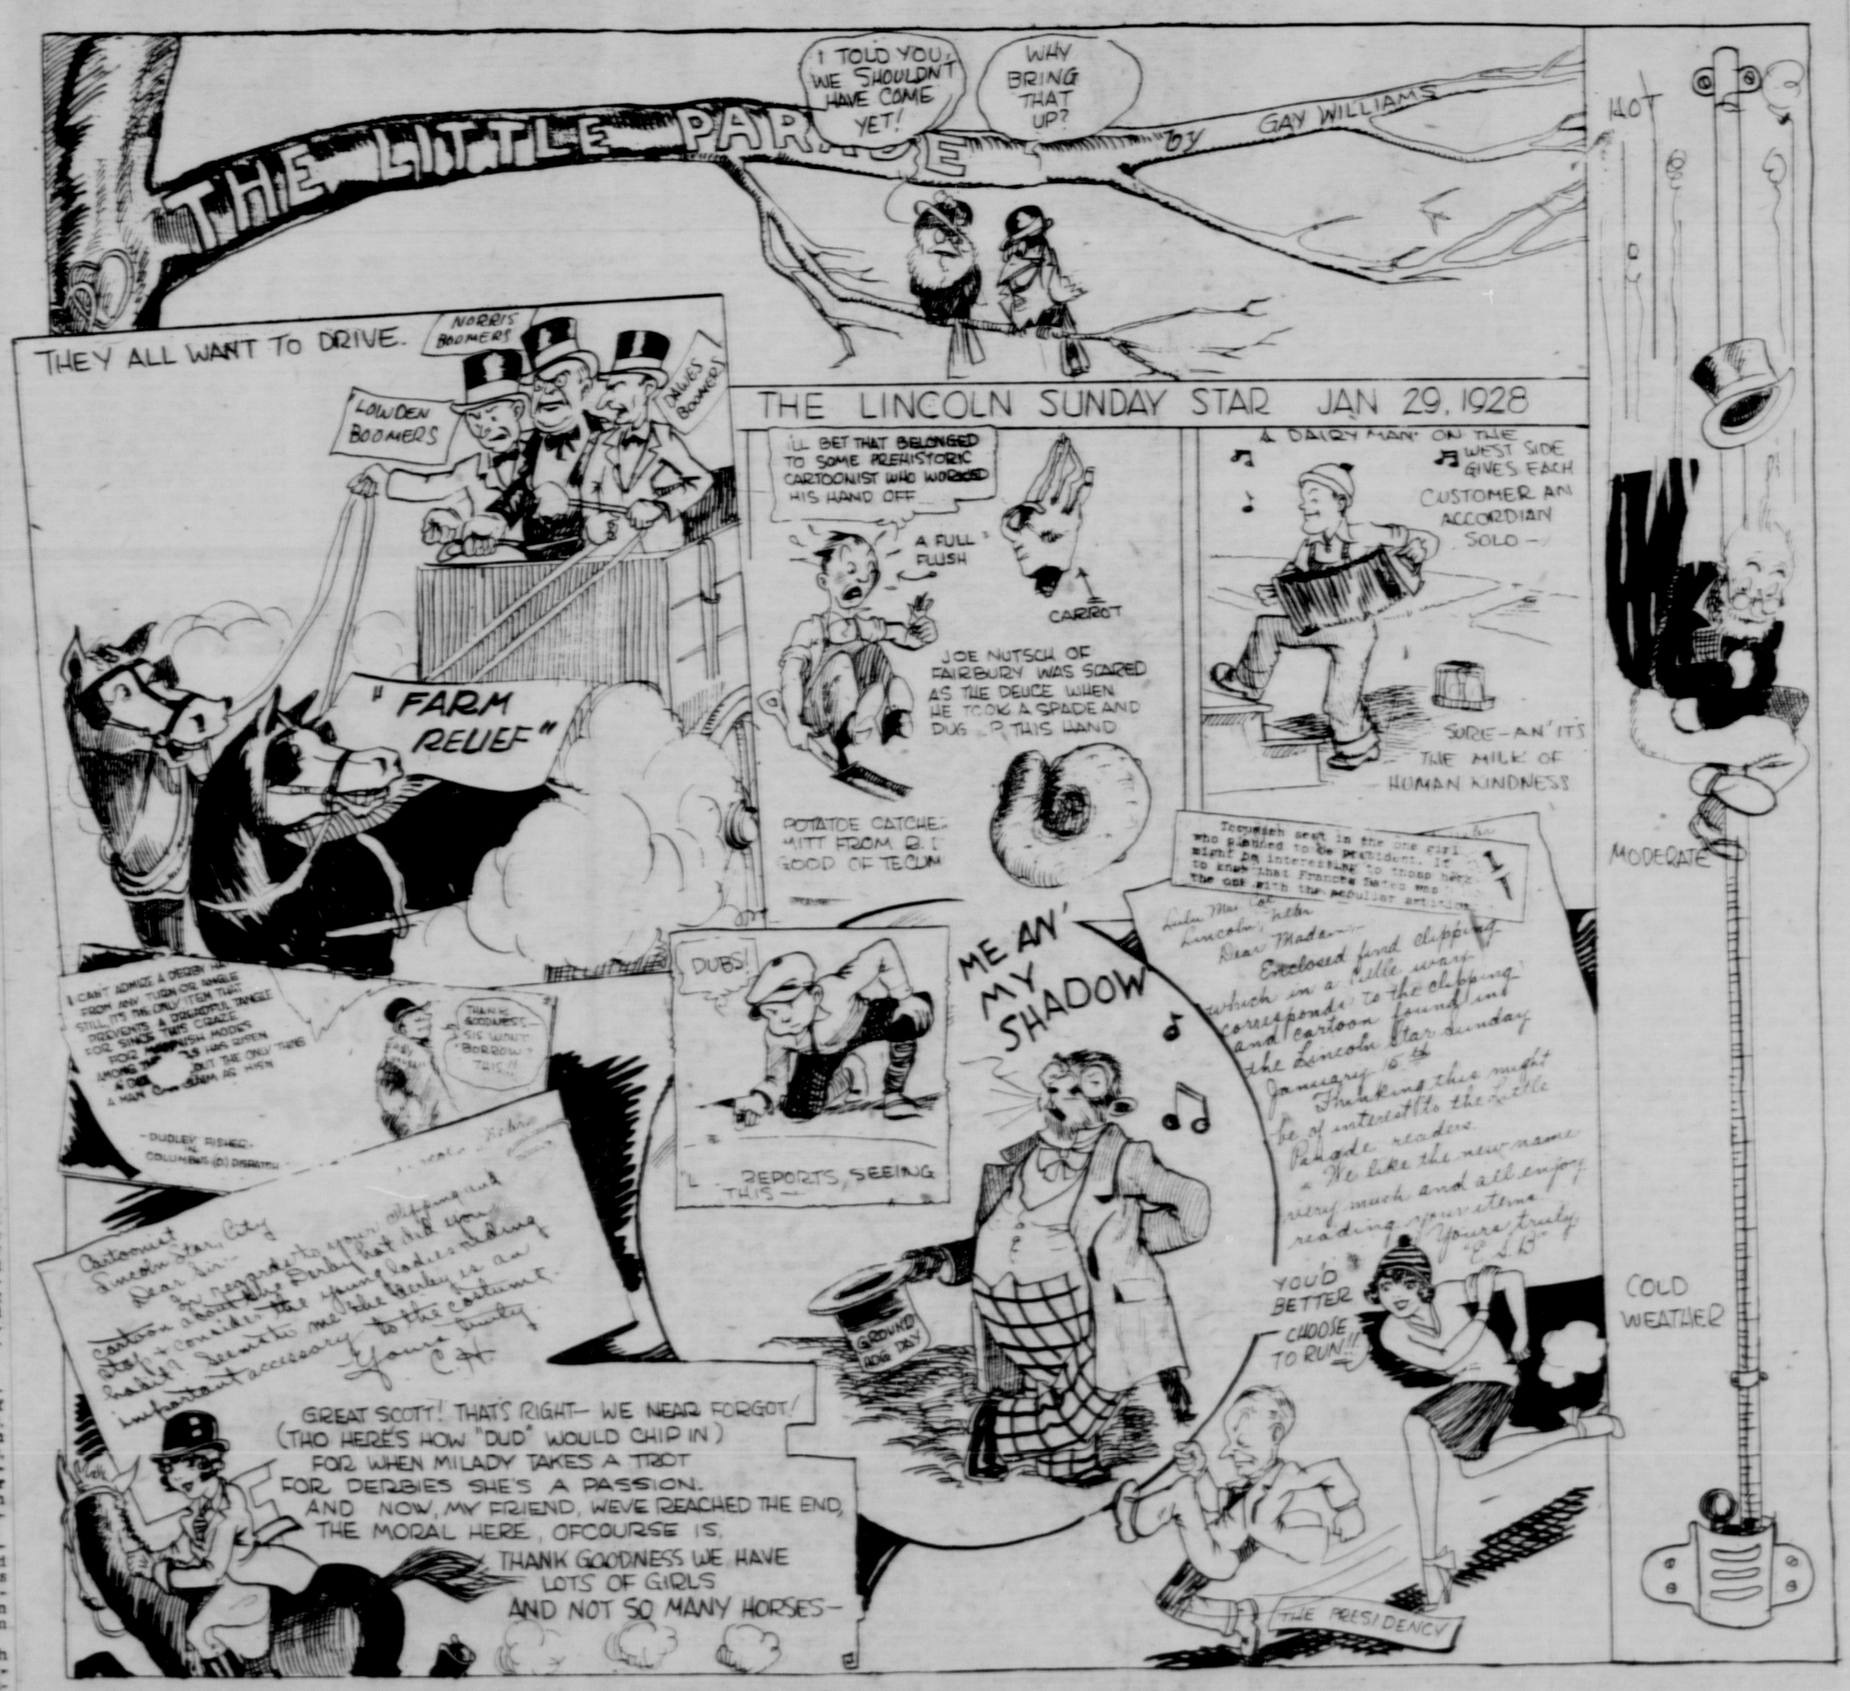

According to an old law the electors were allowed at the general election to express their preference for United States senator, and in that manner Elmer J. Burkett, elected in 1904, had his name on the ballot two times. He was reelected to congress, a member from this district, and he had the preferential vote for senator.

Opposition Feared Thompson.

It was said that he had been elected to congress with the aid of the so-called D. E. Thompson organization. Thompson had twice stood for senator, and, fearing that he might in this campaign run again, his political enemies decided to choose a rising young man from the opposition camp and support him.

Ross Hammond of Fremont wrote an editorial one day, suggesting Burkett for senator. The editorial appeared in a number of republican

Women Who Are Serving Two-Thirds of Nebraska Counties As School Superintendents Are Well Equipped To Direct Educational Work

BY LULU MAE COE.

When the superintendents of the county schools of Nebraska meet in Lincoln this week, two-thirds of the number will be women.

The work of supervising the teachers and curricula of rural schools has not long been included among the feminine professions, but of the state's ninety-three counties, sixty-one of them have women as county superintendents. In the largest of all counties, in the smallest, and in that vast number of intermediate area, women are directing the policies of the schools. They come with all sorts of backgrounds, with varied experience, but as many have been re-elected, and as added numbers of counties are yearly placing women as superintendents, they appear to be as successful in this profession as in the many other modern ones they have adopted.

Sioux county, in north western Nebraska, has Mrs. Elizabeth Emery for superintendent. Mrs. Emery is a graduate of the Fremont normal college at Fremont, and has spent several years teaching the rural and grade schools. She has had five years experience as county superintendent, following two years as the school principal.

Mrs. Rosa Salleng, superintendent of Thomas county, taught her first school in Clay county, later spending three years in the grades at Cozad and three in the Thedford grades. She had her college work at Kearney, Fremont, and Chadron. Mrs. Salleng has also had several years work in rural schools.

For the past year Carrie Kaldal has supervised the Kearney county schools, and that has been her home always, except for six months in Arizona. Miss Kaldal graduated from the university in 1925, after having attended Kearney and Hastings colleges. She has taught four terms in the rural schools of the county.

Long Service.

Thirteen years ago Emma Schwerin was elected superintendent of the Cedar county schools, having been asked to dun while taking a summer course at Wayne normal. Miss Schwerin's last teaching position was in Lincoln, and she also attended the university here, as well as Drake university. The Cedar county schools have made unusual progress in various ways under her supervision, and the county has thirty-one standard schools, the largest number of any county in Nebraska.

Graduating from the Central State Normal college at Ypsilanti, Mich., Mrs. Rose Dennis North of the Lincoln county schools later became principal of the City Normal school in Fort Wayne, Ind., and then supervisor of the training school and teacher of primary methods in the Western Missouri State Teachers' college at Warrensburg, Md. She held various positions in the public schools of North Platte after removing there in 1917 until elected superintendent of the county in 1922. Mrs. North was re-elected in 1926.

Mrs. Nora M. Ratcliffe, superintendent of Dundy county, is serving her sixth year as head of the schools. She is a graduate of the Iowa State Teachers' college at Cedar Falls, and has experience as a rural, village, and city teacher in both grades and high school.

As superintendent of Logan county, Miss Agnes Bakewell, last year chosen as alternate for the most outstanding woman teacher to attend the Philadelphia exposition, meets many problems in a lightly settled community. At that time, it was brought out that the efficiency of her county had been raised from the lowest to the highest in Nebraska. Miss Bakewell, holding the office for five years, is a graduate of the university, and has done special work in Colorado university. She has taught in Nebraska for four years and in Evanston, Ill., for three years.

Mrs. Mamie Humphreyes, superintendent of Franklin county, holds an A. B. degree from Doane. For nine years, she was principal of the Franklin high school, in which town she has always lived, and later was normal training instructor. This year she entered upon her sixth year as county superintendent.

For fifteen years, Mrs. Alberta Ballance taught in the Pawnee City schools, and for five was principal of the grade school. At that time she was elected superintendent of the Pawnee county schools, and is now serving her second term. Her college work has been taken at Wesleyan and the university. Mrs. Ballance was secretary of District No. 1, Nebraska State Teachers' association for two years.

Mrs. Barbara A. O'Malley of the Greeley county schools graduated from the North Western college at Geneseo, Ill. and taught two years in the Rock Island schools. Later, coming to Nebraska, she served in the Greeley schools for twelve years. Mrs. O'Malley was appointed superintendent in 1922 and is now serving her seventh year.

Never Campaigned.

The superintendent of the York county schools, Mrs. Edna C. Anderson, is having her second term, although she has never campaigned. Mrs. Anderson has taught in rural, village and city schools, was normal training instructor at York college, and principal of the Willard school in that city. She is now serving her second term as secretary of District No. 1 of the Nebraska State Teachers' association.

Rural and town teaching in Thayer, Franklin and Cheyenne counties lie behind Mrs. Gertrude Nelson, superintendent of the Cheyenne county schools. Mrs. Nelson was elected in 1926. She has attended normal schools at Boulder, Colo., and at Chadron.

After teaching in a one room school near Adams for three years, Mrs. Viola B. Shepherd, superintendent of instruction of Morrill county, graduated with honors from Peru normal. Prior to her election four years ago, she had taught for six years in Baryard. Mrs. Shepherd has also taught in Sterling, Adams and in Kansas, where she removed some time after her marriage. She has taken graduate work at Franklin academy, after returning to Nebraska, and at Nebraska Wesleyan.

Mrs. Jessie M. Gainsforth, superintendent of Keith county schools, received her kindergarten and primary training from Peru normal. She is now serving her sixth year as superintendent of the county schools. Mrs. Gainsforth taught for seven years in rural schools of Phelphs and Keith counties, and seven years in the kindergarten and primary grades in Bertrand, Lewellen and Ogallala, as well as two years in public school music in Ogallala.

Has Largest County.

Nebraska's largest county, Cherry, for the last six years has had a woman county superintendent of schools, Mrs. Edna H. Jackson. Born in the county, she has taught in the rural schools and in the Valentine grades before her marriage. After her husband's death, she served as normal training teacher in the Valentine high school. She is a graduate of Peru normal, and has studied at the university.

Merle Farris was elected superintendent of the Boone schools in November, 1926. She has attended the university, and taught on year in the rural schools of the county, one year in Loretto, and seven and one-half years in Newman Grove. In the latter town, she was principal of the grade school.

During the time Mrs. Eva B. Shuman has been superintendent of the Jefferson county schools, the number of eighth grade pupils entering high school has materially increased, and this county was the first to adopt vitalized method of teaching. She was appointed superintendent in 1920 while serving as city superintendent at Steel City, and was elected for the second term. Mrs. Shuman has also been superintendent of the Valley county schools, and in 1924-25 served as president of the Nebraska State Teachers' association.

Miss Charlotte Alexander, superintendent of the Lancaster county schools, has educated herself in the Lincoln Business college and the Lincoln normal school. She holds a A. B. from the university, and her master's in education from Columbia. Miss Alexander taught for more than twenty years as a rural teacher, principal and superintendent of the schools at Holland, Hickman, Roca, and Normal. She has also been a teacher in the grade preparatory, and high schools of Lincoln.

No Opposition.

In her second term campaign for superintendent of the Fillmore county schools, Elizabeth Schelkopf had no opposition. She is a graduate of the Peru normal, and has attended the university. Miss Schelkopf has taught in Western two years, Dewitt one year, and for five years was principal of the Craig high school.

Mrs. Ruth Rees McQuiston of Perkins county was elected as county superintendent one year ago. She has been engaged in educational work for sixteen years, for for seven years in the rural school of Perkins, Hayes, and Hitchcock counties. The remainder of the time she spent in the public schools of Palisade, Culbertson, and Elsie. Mrs. McQuiston received her education at the Kearney normal, Hastings college, and the university.

In 1909, Mrs. Miriam Southwell came to Scotts Bluff county, having taught the previous three years in Lake George, Colo., and before that time in South Dakota. She has been engaged in teaching since that time, and taught seven consecutive years in the Gering schools, two years at No. 3, Scottsbluff, as principal, and has been superintendent for five years. Mrs. Southwell has taken work in Nebraska at Chadron and at the university.

Carette Ebersole, superintendent of schools for Nuckolls county, taught several years in the Iowa rural schools, and later in the schools of Jewel county, Kas., her former home. Removing to Nebraska, she attended Peru normal and the university, and then taught in the rural and town schools of Nuckolls county. Miss Ebersole spent sixteen years in the grades of Superior, being principal of the south ward school eight years. She is serving her second term as superintendent.

Mrs. Anna Weber McCartney, superintendet of the Boyd county schools, for the second term, is a graduate of the Iowa Teachers' college at Cerar Falls, and a former student of the Missouri Teachers' college at Maryville, and Colorado university at Boulder. She received her degree from Arizona State Teachers' college at Temple. Mrs. McCartney has taught in the rural schools of Iowa and in the graded schools of Iowa, Minnesata, South Dakota, and Nebraska.

Having taught for twenty years, eighteen of them in Thurston county, Ada M. Riedler was elected superintenlent of county schools in November, 1926. Mrs. Riedler attended Marysville normal and Wayne normal. She has been active as extension leader for the county boys' and girls' clubs.

Appointed to fill a vacancy, Fae R. Haylett is now serving her second elected term as superintendent of the Clay county schools, a total of six years. Miss Haylett has had extended college training, with an A. B. from Doane, and has taught in all types of schools. She was superintendent of a consolidated school of twelve grades at Nora, assistant principal of the Fairfield high school, principal at Park Center school, in addition to rural and town teaching in Clay county.

Mrs. Alice Hall was principal of the grade building at Madison when elected county superintendent of Madison county. Teaching in South Dakota at the time of her marriage, she gave up teaching until after her husband's death, when she again became a teacher, this time at Tilden. Now serving her second term, Mrs. Hall has raised the standard of her county so that twenty-six of the seventy-four schools have the standard plate, at this time a better per cent than held by any county except Douglas. Mrs. Hall has studied at the university, and graduated from the Madison, S. D., normal school.

Before being elected superintendent of the Hall county schools in 1926, Mrs. Henriette Bernstein had had nine years of rural experience. She is a graduate of the Grand Island college in the class of 1926, and has studied at the university in Boulder, and at the Kearney normal. Mrs. Bernstein has also taught in the Grand Island schools.

One year ago, Zelma R. Wonderly became superintendent of the Webster county schools, after having taught several years in the rural and town schools of the county, as well as in Hastings. Miss Wonderly is a graduate of Wesleyan, and taught primary education two summers in Hastings college.

Clara M. McClatchey, before her election as superintendent of the Valley county schools, was head of the typewriting department of the Lincoln Business college and for one year after its consolidation with the Lincoln School of Commerce. She is beginning her second year of superintendency. Miss McClatchey has had college work at Peru and at the university, and has taught in Ord and Ashland.

Jessie Lewis has been a student at the university and at the University of Colorado, and has taught in the rural, grade, and high schools of Red Willow, Dundy, and Furnas counties. She was elected superintendent of schools in Furnas county in 1926, a county of 101 districts, 184 teachers and 3090 pupils.

Serving her second term as superintendent of the Dawes county schools Mrs. Alice I. Roesch has a varied experience for her background. She has taught in the high schools of Hamilton, Mont.; Globe, Ariz.; and Hot Springs, S. D. She is a graduate of Doane college, and has her master's degree from the University of Chicago. Mrs. Roesch has been in public school work as principal and instructor in high schools for ten years.

After teaching for thirteen years, Mabel J. Marsh was appointed superintendent of the Washington county schools in April, 1920. Since that time, she has been twice elected. Miss Marsh taught ten years in the rural schools of the county and three years served as principal of the Herman high school.

Mrs. Luella Parker, superintendent of the Holt county schools, has been a student at the university and at Wayne normal. For seven years she has taught in Nebraska, and has been especially interested in rural school work. Mrs. Parker wa elected county superintendent of the Holt county schools in November, 1926.

Mrs. Kathryn K. Lee was elected county superintendent of Banner county at the last election, and had had eight years of teaching experience in the western part of the state previously. Mrs. Lee has been a student at Peru Normal.

As superintendent of the Wayne county schools, Mrs. Pearl E. Sewell is beginning her fourteenth year, and she has been unopposed for election since the first year. Living practically all her life in Wayne, she graduated from the Wayne normal, but has had summer work at the university. After teaching several years in the rural schools, she taught the fourth grade at Carroll, and from there took up departmental work in the 6th, 7th and 8th grades of Norfolk. Mrs. Sewell was teaching in the 8th grade at Wayne when elected to office. She is secretary of the county superintendents' association.

Mrs. Evalyn W. Grandy of the Nemaha county schools was for

Two Years in School Room, Common Sense And Work Brought Success to Nebraska Pioneer

BY HARRY L. PETERSON.

NEWCASTLE, Neb., Jan. 28—Twenty-four months schooling wouldn't be deemed sufficient education now to give one a good start in life but coupled with good common sense and a willingness to work it enabled Thomas J. Ryan, one of the most respected citizens in this community to become one of the biggest land owners in Dixon county and president of a bank.

The extent of Mr. Ryan's class room work consisted of three months schooling each winter in a log schoolhouse until he was 13 years old. But he has never complained because of his lack of educational opportunities and instead has made the most of his natural ability.

Mr. Ryan was born October 4, 1853 in eastern Ohio. When a child he moved with his parents to Jackson county, Ia., where he grew to manhood. At the age of 16 he went to Dakota territory and took a claim 20 miles north and one mile west of Elk Point. There he lived for eleven years. But Mr. Ryan wasn't satisfied with the amount of range pasture for his cattle because Dakota territory did not have the free range then. So when the opportunity came he acquired some land near Newcastle, he moved to his present location four miles north of Newcastle in the spring of 1881, at the time of the great gorge and flood of the Missouri. But Mr. Ryan did not lose any property because he had settled along the edge of the bluffs. The river which then flowed a mile and a half from his house, now is about 60 rods away.

River Taking Land.

During the past forty-five years he has lost fully 500 acres of rich timber and farming land to the naughty Missouri. Mr. Ryan has a deed to 1234 acres of land but he now pays taxes on 740. During the sustained high water in May and June last summer he lost at least 110 acres of alfalfa and timber land worth $35,000. This relative high figure is accounted for by the fact that half of the land was hard wood timber land which for Mr. Ryan's purpose is worth $600 an acre.

Mr. Ryan, is a master worker with tools. He has lathes, sawmills, log carriers, row boats and various tools all made with his own hands. He is a good blacksmith. Each year especially in the winter he fashions hundreds of single-trees, double-trees, neckyokes, wagon tongues and four-horse eveners from his ash and oak timber, which up until this year has been so plentiful. Farmers come for miles around to get their eveners and single-trees from him.

The antics of the Missouri river have left Mr. Ryan much poorer as far as material things are concerned than he once was. But he is not "kicking." He says he hated to see his land go into the river but he has plenty left for his needs.

Mr. Ryan is a public spirited man. He prospered during the years after he came to Nebraska and he traded at Newcastle. He saw that the growing town needed better banking facilities and was the main organizer of the old Newcastle state bank and was its president for twenty-one years.

Discovered Artesian Well.

He discovered the first artesian well in northeastern Nebraska and it supplied his farm with water for years. It has since been taken in by the river. He is noted as a well-informed and good cattle man and has large herds of Aberdeen Angus stock.

He purchased one of the first automobiles ever owned in Dixon county. He still owns it and has been offered a new car for it. It is a light roadster and has traveled more than 100,000 miles but is still in good running order. For several years Mr. Ryan toured the west with it and it was the first automobile to climb to the top of Flagstaff mountain near Boulder, Colo.

In the early days Mr. Ryan was famous as a marksman and is a good shot today with either a rifle or shotgun. Game was plentiful when he moved to Nebraska and he and sporting friends of his killed deer, hundreds of prairie chickens and scores of wild turkeys on his land. He alone shot sixty-two of the prized birds. He keeps a loaded rifle handy for use against venturesome coyotes.

Although past 74 Mr. Ryan does considerable work about his farm. He has a new and modern ten-room house on it and he did all the plumbing and installing of the furnace himself. His only son, John, helps him in the management of the place. Physically Mr. Ryan is stalwart, keen-eyed and kindly mannered and it is a byword that no one has been turned away from his house hungry. Besides his son he has three daughters living: Mrs. Lizzie Dougherty, of Newcastle; Mrs. Cora Gibson, of Sioux Falls, S. D. and Mrs. John Taylor of Orange Grove, Cal.

T. J. Ryan, 74-year-old Newcastle banker-farmer, is shown above with a balanced buzz saw which he constructed to cut up timber grown on his farm.

papers and a full-sized boom was launched for Burkett. One county convention after another got in line for him, and before the state convention it was evident Burkett was nominated for senator. The netx legislature had a republican majority and though there was a little talk by some that some republicans might bolt, there was no difficulty in the end. Burkett then resigned from the lower house.

In 1906, vital questions, such as free passes, the direct primary, and regulation of railroads were outstanding issues. Norris Brown, who had been attorney general, conducted suit against the Nebraska Association of Grain Dealers', and on that basis became the "trust buster" candidate for senator. A movement was started in his favor, and he was taken up by much the same element that had supported Burkett. Edward Rosewater was his main opponent.

Opponent Favored Brown.

His success was really decided in the county conventions and he was nominated by the state convention, with the successive legislative election. During the early legislature days, there was a report that the Douglas county delegation would bolt Brown and block his election. W. H. Thompson, now on the supreme bench, and Brown's democratic opponent for senator, issued a public statement, saying that Brown was the public's choice, and that it was the duty of the legislature to elect him. His election followed without difficulty.

The senatorial elections of 1911 and 1913 in the legislature took place under the Oregon plan, passed in 1909. The plan provided alternative statements for legislative aspirants to sign, the one promising support of the people's senatorial choice, the other saying he was bound by no choice. No one was obliged to sign either a statement, but many, of course, signed the first statement.

The 1910 campaign was a heated affair, when Burkett was renominated and G. M. Hitchcock was the democratic candidate. Insurgent opposition to Burkett developed in the primary, the first time the primary law had been used to choose a senatorial candidate.

Insurgents Defeated Burkett.

In a violent campaign a republican governor was elected by 15,000 votes on a county option platform. On entirely different issues, Hitchcock received 20,000 of the popular vote. Burkett was defeated by the insurgents, his vote on the tariff and other matters being considered a too strong leaning toward standpat leadership by the insurgents. The insurgents voted for Hitchcock in the legislative election, and he also received some republican votes from those who had signed the first statement of the Oregon plan.

Two years later, Norris Brown met the same opposition as Burkett, when he field for re-election. It was charged that he had failed to please Nebraska interests in Washington. George Norris ran against him in the primary, and was nominated. In the election he received the majority of the popular vote, and the next legislature elected him, receiving the votes of his party and some democratic votes, again due to the Oregon plan.

Since the 1913 election, senators have been chosen by popular election, according to a constitutional amendment. Hitchcock was the first senator in Nebraska to be elected by popular vote as he had been the first selected under the Oregon plan. He was re-elected in 1916. In 1918, Norris was re-elected, and again in 1924 for the third term. In 1922, Hitchcock ran for re-election, but was defeated by R. B. Howell. Howell is standing for re-election this year.

Former Lincoln Man Describes Old Plantation System Which Exists on North Negros Island

Life as it is lived in North Negros, one of the Philippine islands, is reflected by two letters received here recently by John L. Pierce, clerk of the county court, from his son, Dr. W. Dwight Pierce.

Dr. Pierce, a former Lincoln resident and graduate of the University of Nebraska in 1904, has been retained on a two-year contract by the Victorias Milling Co., to help fight the sugar cane worm that is working havoc with the island crops. For fifteen years, he was with the United States department of agriculture in its cotton boll weavil work and is known as an expert in that line.

With Mrs. Pierce, who formerly was Miss Clara V. Loomis of Lincoln, Dr. Pierce went to the islands last July. They live in a community almost devoid of white women. The two letters here printed were written December 15 and December 18, respectively, and received in Lincoln January 20. It takes from thirty-two to thirty six days to get a letter through. Although Mr. Cooper, an amateur radio fan on the islands, tried to send Christmas greetings to Mr. Pierce's friends here, the message was not received. Mr. Cooper is in constant communication, however, with his own family in California.

Island Is Boot Shaped.

Followings is the first letter, written in reply to requests for detailed island:

North Negros is an island shaped almost like a boot, with Occidental Negros taking the top and back and Oriental Negros the front and toe. The center line is an impenetrable mountain region covered by forests and inhabited by wild Negritoes. About the northern third of the range, is Mt. Canlaon, an active volcano. There is a provincial highway in Occidental Negros from Kabankalan to Escalante on the northeast coast, whence one can see Cebu. From our shores and inland we can see the mountains of Panay.

The island extends from 9 to 11 degrees above the equator being about 150 miles long. The entire cultivable area except the low marshy lands (in rice) is given over to sugar cane. The only breaks in the landscape of cane fields are the lines of timber following the numerous streams. These streams are lined with wild bananas, and bambamboos with other vegetation.

The shore line is bordered with cocoanut groves. The mountains are covered with great trees.

The cultivable area is divided into estates called haciendas, the owners being called hacenderos. hese haciendas are grouped into regions in which is located the central or milling company, which contracts with the Association of Hacienderos to mill their sugar, and they must plant three-fifths of the land in cane each year. The centrals are not located in the towns.

Old Plantation System.

Each hacienda is like a manorial estate, with a village surrounding the home of the owner or his encargado. These villages are called barrios. It is the old plantation system of the south; now the hacienda system is not found on Luzon.

The political system is as follows. Negros is composed of the two provinces each with a provincial governor. The province is divided into municipalities which are in reality counties. We live in the municipality of Victorias. The municipality is divided into barrios, which are really townships. Each barrio contains a considerable number of haciendas. The towns are called poblacions. We are in the barrio of Victorias but not the poblacion of Victorias. It is 2 kilometers away.

The people live in houses built on bamboo sticks, floored with bamboo, and roofed and thatched with nepa palm leaves or with a matting woven from palm. They are raised up high and reached by a ladder. The caraboas, goats, dogs, pigs and chickens are underneath. Usually the houses are surrounded by cocoanut and banana with some ornamental shrubs.

The language spoken is a dialect of Visayan. The Visayan islands are Masbate, Ticao, Samar, Leyte, Bohol, Cebu, Negros, Panay, Tablas, Sibyan, Stiquijor, etc., and on each one or more dialects prevail. Panayans can not readily understand Cebuyans. One of our neighbors is from Leyte and she can't converse with her neighbors. The children are taught English but speak Visayan at home. Spanish is the language of the hacenderos, but when they get excited they may use several languages or dialects mixed.

Carabaos Do Hauling.

Machinery is not used in agriculture. The cariboa is the means of traction. It must rest and wallow in a mud hole two or three time a day. The carabao emits one of the funniest little noises or grunts for a big animal.

There are also many native cattle of various inter-mixtures between the native Philippine breed and the Brahmin cattle of India. The native horses are small and wiry and of no use in field work. No successful tractor has been devised for sugar cane field work on this type of soil. We are trying one out but it needs a great deal of remodeling to make it a workable machine.

The food of Negros is rice, fish and root crops such as camote (sweet potato), gabi (a taro) arrow root, cassova, etc.

Dr. Nichancho tells me that every food plant eaten in the Philippines is introduced, that the islands have given no new food. The Spanish padres introduced many plants from America, hence we find American weeds, flowers and trees.

In some parts of the island there is a distinct dry season in February to April, but in north Negros this is hardly distinguishable. Our rainfall is 120 inches a year. Our temperature ranges from 70 at 6 a. m. to 90 degrees at 2 p. m. almost all year around. There is continuous cropping. Every three months one can harvest corn, sweet potatoes, who gathers this drink is called the manangeti.

I saw children carrying long bamboo tubes of water. The common way of hauling things is to attach a sledge, composed of two sticks which drag the point on the ground, and cross pieces to hold the load, to a caraboa.

The common vice of the Philippines is betel nut chewing. They take the nut of the betel palm, and the leaf of the buri palm and add lime (apog) made by burning lobster shells, and pepper. It makes the lips very red.

Next Sunday is Christmas. We had hoped to have the Nickelsens, but our invitation was too late. They arrived on the island last week. We may be alone on Christmas day.

To Merchants—
ST. LOUIS
A Fashion Center

In addition to advantages of location, large open stocks, fast Package Car deliveries, and friendly contacts with its markets, St. Louis offers to Wholesale Buyers today the great sales-advantage of Style! For St. Louis has become, within the last few years, a true Center of Fashion.

Neither Paris, nor New York, nor London, exclusively possess Style. For Style—practical, salable Style—is rather a choosing, a grouping, a combining of new ideas from many sources. St. Louis has the foreign and domestic contacts that keep pace with changing modes, and the vision and facilities to bring here, for your selection, the best that Fashion offers. And behind these is strongly the sense of practical merchandise.

The progressiveness of St. Louis' Style creators and evidence of their leadership are well illustrated by the Annual Style Show held each year. St. Louis is the only city in America, where such a comprehensive assemblage of authoritative modes is exhibited to the market for the benefit of Retailers.

ST. LOUIS ESPECIALLY INVITES YOU NOW! During the week beginning February 6th, are added inducements in the Convention of American Retailers, the Automobile Show, "Billy Sunday," and reduced Railroad Rates, which urge your coming.

THE BOYS ACCLAIM THEIR HERO.

At last we have a definite, concrete measure of Colonel Charles Lindbergh's contribution to American thought and ideals.

The supervisor of a Boys' school at Belleville, N. J., submitted a questionaire to his young charges, asking them to indicate who they would like to be. Out of the 682 young men enrolled, 363, or slightly more than 50 per cent of them, indicated they would rather have been Lindbergh if they weren't themselves. Probably if they had expressed a deep-seated conviction they would have admitted they would have preferred to have been Lindbergh rather than themselves.

While these youngsters were marking their ballots, what a line of notable men must have passed in review before them. There was Lincoln, born in humble estate, elevated to the highest office in the land and honored and revered by a nation. There was Washington, father of his country, an undaunted, courageous military leader and a sagacious president. There was General Lee, General Jackson, and more recently, the erect, distinguished figure of General John J. Pershing. There is Calvin Coolidge, commander in chief of the army and the navy, dwelling every day in a marble home, honored and respected by his countrymen. Or, looking to the material achievements of men, these boys had before them the illustrious figures of Thomas Edison, whose inventions have revolutionized life; Henry Ford, whose wealth is so great that even he himself cannot tell what it is, and J. P. Morgan, head of a great banking house. They could see outlined before them the splendid figure of Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion of the world, a score of heroes of the gridiron, the battle-scarred features of Ty Cobb, or the flying feet of Charley Paddock.

Turning to other shores there was Alexander, Caesar, Napoleon, and more recently the gilded chest of Mussolini. There is Amundsen, who has sailed the seven seas, visited every land, and achieved the great ambition of having viewed the two poles of the earth. There was Livingstone, who unlocked the secrets of darkest Africa, Sir Cecil Rhodes, who became one of the richest men in the world through diamond mines of the Transvaal.

It is, indeed, a great tribute to Charles Lindbergh that his shining light has crowded out the pictures of all of the great heroes of the past.

And he exists, not only in the hearts of boys, but likewise in the minds of men and women. In any gathering, or in any company, it is fairly safe guess that Lindergh will lead in the selection of a popular idol. He is the hero of heroes, whose fame grows daily.

We stop to study his record. He led no armies in victory, he never emerged triumphant in a ring battle, he has given the world no inventions. And yet that day when he headed his plane out to sea, disappearing in the mists and fleecy clouds off the grand banks of Newfoundland, will live forever with these present generations. There was something in the sublimity of the faith which he revealed, in his courage to do and dare alone, which has caught the fancy of the world as few things have since the beginning of time. We see him now, headed towards the rising sun, through the long hours of night, battling first with mist and rain and then with sleet, a lonely figure in the skies.

More than any other man of modern times Colonel Lindbergh has put healthy ambitions, and splendid traditions of courage and deportment into the minds of the young men and the young women of today.

And what are we to say of these young people about whom we have been manifesting so much concern. What about their ideals and their views of life. Is any more proof necessary that they still hold dear those sturdy virtues which characterize splendid manhood than this action of a group of school boys in nominating Colonel Charles Lindbergh as their hero of heroes?

WHERE EFFICIENCY IS UNREWARDED.

The socializing of industry is a beautiful thing in theory, but it fails to work out in actual practice, according to one who has made a study of the situation in Russia. Despite the utmost efforts of the soviet government, this observer declares, the industrial productivity of the country is recognized to be far below what it was before the bolshevist revolution, the process of decline having begun with the compulsory suppression of the piece work system. This was supplanted by a uniform wage system, under which all labor, skilled and unskilled, competent and incompetent, receives practically the same pay.

Anyone but the veriest idealist must have seen that as long as human nature remains as it is such a plan was foredoomed to failure, for it takes from the industrious and efficient workman all incentive to increase output or to perform his task in a skillful manner. And the Russian workmen have shown themselves to be just as human as those in every other part of the world. The majority of those who are really efficient and capable of high production, lag on the job and refused to strike a blow or take a step more than the slowest and most incompetent.

Statistics that have been gathered show that the drop in productivity has been frightful. Taking the year 1913 as par, or 100, production rose early in the war to 144, but after the bolshevists gained control in 1920 and 1921 it fell to 30, or less than one-third what it had been before the war began. Wages are also less than one-third what they were in 1913.

In 1921 a modified system was adopted, including both private and state capitalization and desperate effort was made to increase production. It met with small success and even though piece work was partially restored it was found impossible to bring the output up to what it was in 1913. In 1914 that reached 50, where it stopped, so other changes were made.

During that year the piece work system was still further extended and action was taken against loitering and absence from work on account of simulated illness. These moves have had the effect of raising the production level to 70 and there seems no hope of getting it higher. All of which goes to prove that human nature is just about the same everywhere. Man will not exert himself without hope of reward of some kind and if there is no chance of getting ahead he is going to take things just as easy as he can. This always has been the case and it always will be.

TREE PLANTING IN NEBRASKA.

Turning Nature's own weapons against her may have a very influential bearing upon Nebraska's future. It has been pointed out for many years that no more important task confronts the people of the state than planting trees.

The Nebraska Forestation commission, meeting Saturday at the governor's office made plans to interest thousands of Nebraskans in the planting of trees when the season opens next spring. Nebraska participated in the federal allotment of nursery stock a year ago, and the information at this time indicates more than twice as many seedling trees will be distributed under the same arrangement than were given out a year ago. It appears certain that 700,000 seedling trees will be available for distribution next spring, but full details as that are to be given out later.

Ultimately Nebraska's Forestation commission hopes to have every farm home in the state adequately protected with a wind break. In the eastern counties, most rural homes now have plenty of shade and are sheltered from the bitter winds of winter by fine groves of trees. In the central and western counties, only a small percentage of the farm homes are shielded by groves. Most of the work, then, is to be completed in the west.

No estimate can be placed upon the value of trees in this state.

The conspicuous absence of the old-fashioned "hot winds" of an early date during the crop seasons has been attributed to the fact that much of this prairie region, including Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas, is gradually becoming covered with trees. There can be little argument, however, on the score that trees do tend to prevent drying out of the soil. That is something which has been demonstrated time and time again. Just as Nebraska becomes more thickly timbered, there will be less and less chance for the exceedingly destructive drouths which entail such heavy losses. It is well worth the effort of every Nebraskan to plant trees.

PREPARING FOR BYRD'S POLAR EXPEDITION

Three young eastern college men have entered an intensive course of training to prepare themselves for the hardships which they will encounter when they accompany the Byrd expedition to the South Polar regions next summer. They have been sleeping outdoors in tents throughout an unusually severe winter in the Adirondacks, marked by deep snows and bitter cold.

Even then, the rigors they have encountered will be most mild in comparison to those which they must face near the South Pole. Captain Robert Scott, one of the two men to reach the South Pole, but who lost his life in the successful attempt, reported in 1912 that the South Pole was surrounded by an icy barrier 150 feet high, and that on polar plateaus he found a constant 50-mile-an-hour gale blowing, in a temperature too far below zero to be calculated by ordinary thermometers. The cold in the South Polar regions is reputed to be much more severe than the frigid blasts encountered near the North Pole.

Every precaution which can be taken to protect the members of the expedition from misadventure will be taken. Captain Scott and his associates, and Amundsen and his party made their South Polar expeditions with meagre equipment in comparison to that which Captain Byrd will have at his disposal. They had their dog teams and their pup tents, heated by oil stoves, which after all furnished little protection from the cold and wind. Byrd's base will be equipped with all of the modern conveniences. He will establish a village on the frozen wastes, when further progress by ship becomes impossible, with sheet metal houses, warmly lined and heated. He will have radio to break the monotony of the long siege. He will have unlimited food supplies, unlimited clothing, and adequate medicine. Byrd can take advantage of the fact that it will not be necessary for him to drag his stores for long distances over the ice. The planes, with which he hopes to reach the South Pole, will eliminate for him many of the hardships which Scott found insurmountable. With his wings he will be able to secure a much more comprehensive survey of the South Polar regions than his predecessors. It is probable that the Byrd expedition will give the world the most complete and scientific report on the South Polar regions that has been received.

USE OF WEALTH.

Mrs. Anna M. Harkness, widow of the late Stephen V. Harkness, one of the original partners of John D. Rockefeller in the Standard Oil company, furnished the public with an unusual example of the beneficent use of great wealth in this country.

Mrs. Harkness died in 1926. The administration of her estate has just been completed. And out of the reports upon administration, some interesting information has been given out.

The valuation placed upon her estate was $107,052,494, representing an increase of 100 percent since the death of her husband. In the last six years of her life, Mrs. Harkness gave away $31,390,647, including large endowments for Yale university. A garage was her only real estate, the remainder of her fortune consisting of stocks and bonds in the principal industrial concerns of the United States. Her two old automobiles were valued at $400, and her wardrobe at $700. The great increase in her wealth, despite her most liberal contributions and benefactions, is accounted for in the rapid increase of values of industrial stocks and bonds. Worth $107,000,000 in 1926, they are worth much more today because securities were much lower in price in 1926, when Mrs. Harkness died, than they are today.

Great wealth today is giving increasing evidence of its own voluntary redistribution. In the last ten years hundreds of millions of dollars have been given to educational and philanthropic organizations, and to endow scientific research. If it results in a more intelligent and efficient citizenship in handling the business and industrial problems of the country, it will more than repay itself.

JAILS FOR SALE.

British prisons and jails have been so poorly patronized since the war that a number are for sale. The British papers contain a list of twenty which are now looking for buyers.

Prospective purchasers are given a wide latitude in choice. In the list are some pleasantly situated country jails, ideal for summer resorts, and also some large, elaborately equipped institutions, with an adjoining, detached villa, formerly the governor's house, and a high-walled expansive garden.

In America, it is safe to say these jails and prisons would not go begging for long. Shortly they would blossom out with the proper atmosphere to command a ready sale. But there seems little likelihood that America will have any jails or prisons for sale for some time to come. Her criminal element has been steadily increasing.

A BIT OF HOMELY PHILOSOPHY.

At times you wonder why so few persons appear to be more than slightly interested in you.
You wish you had more dependable friends.
But do you deserve more than acquaintances?
Isn't it a fact that you have avoided becoming better acquainted with people because you have feared that you might be expected to show your friendship in deeds?
You don't want to be called on to help out.
You would like the benefit and the satisfaction of good friends, but you are unwilling to accept any responsibility so far as your friends are concerned.
Friendship is not a one-sided affair.
It cannot be one-sided and be strong and balanced.
There must be mutual confidence in a desire for a good friend.
There must be willingness to assume whatever the friendship entails.
Too many demand much and give little in a supposed friendship.

That Radio Talk Scared Me Stiff!

That Radio is a Tough Thing.

By WILL ROGERS.

I have received so many letters in the last couple of weeks asking different questions in regard to the broadcasting that I was a party of a while back. They all seem to want to know how it was done, and how it was that the cues of each different station was taken up so quick, and there was no delay, and did I broadcast from my own house and do I like taking over the radio, and a thousand other questions.

Now if you don't mind and it will be any news to you I will try and tell you all I know about it, which is not much, but it's what the men told me.

Men worked at my home in Beverly Hills for at least ten days before and the last three days some of them worked all night, rigging up lines, and electrical wire, and big apparatus. They had a complete broadcasting station, as complete as any, all right there in the home. In a kind of a den I have in the basement. (Well pretty near any room we have in our house is a den, for when these Rogers animals get in any of them, they need a den.) Then the wires for the actual broadcasting was done from another room upstairs. Then our radio receiving set was in still another room, so that no one would interfere with the other. Now I spoke into an ordinary receiving micraphone. In fact it went two ways, over two lines. One by way of Frisco and then east to Chicago, and the other south by the way of Yuma, Ariz., one in case the other had any hitch.

Headquarters at Chicago.

Chicago was made the headquarters of the whole hook-up, for it was more central. Then they also had to have special leased telegraph wires. There was a full sending and receiving telegraph set right in the room with all this apparatus, and all their communications in regard to how things were going in all the various places was carried on by telegraph. For once the radio line went into operation, no outside questions or advice could be given over it, so thats why they had the telegraph. All the time any of us were working, they were talking back and forth as to how it was coming in, and keeping time on the time of each stunt. It not only had to be figured out by the minute, but by the second. You see just what I have said was at my home was at four other points. You see Jolson was working from New Orleans, and Whiteman from New York, and Mr. Wilmer from Detroit. Fred Stone was in Chicago, but they had to have all this for him as he was broadcasting from his dressing room at the New Erlanger theater, and everything had to work on the second for him, as he timed his between his appearance on the stage.

Our voices left their various places, went direct to Chicago, then come back out to all the other seventy or eighty stations on the hook-up. For instance, at home my family in the next room when they heard me it had been to Chicago and back, and it was all within the fraction of a second. We had head pieces on and could keep tab on the rest of the performance, but the way it all went so smooth was, we each had cues. That is, I was to finish my announcement on a definite cue. I might in my introduction use the name of Al Jolson a dozen times. But the cue for the finish was, "Mister Al Jolson in New Orleans," or the same with "Mister Fred Stone in Chicago" and "Mister Paul Whiteman in New York." That "Mister" was their cue, and it meant the final words, and the second I finished— "of New Orleans," I was off and Jolson line was on.

I could hear over the headphones but I couldn't have spoke to him. It really was a wonderful mechanical and systematically worked out affair. Sitting right by me during my little part was Graham McNamee, the great announcer of all the big things that are done over the radio. I have known him and been friendly with him for years, but I felt so nervous to be talking there in an amateurish way. While here sat the Daddy of all the talkers over the radio.

Radio Tough For Will.

I am awfully glad its over, for I was as nervous as I ever was on a first night. You know a lot of people don't realize it, but that radio is a tough thing, especially for a comedian. It's made to order for a singer, and a person making a straight forward speech, or talk explaining something. But to have to line up there and try to get some laughs, I want to tell you its the toughest test a comedian has. You don't know what kind of material to use. If you are in a theater, you know about the type and class of people that you will face, and kinder frame up your act accordingly. But on the radio, you got every known specie in the world, and here is the hard part that very few have figured. On the stage when you tell anything and it gets a laugh why naturally you kinder wait till the laugh is over and then go on. Well that little Micraphone that you are talking into, its not going to laugh, so you don't know when you tell anything whether to wait for your laugh or just go right on. You might wait for it and there would be nobody in your party that was listening in laugh at it, then it would seem like a dead wait. So you dare not wait for any of what you think might be laughs, and so the consequence is, that anyone listening in I can't laugh as they would like to or as they would at the same joke in the theater, for fear of missing the next line that you will pull. So that is what I would say is the principal hardship on the comedy fellow doing his stuff over the air.

You can always have better luck broadcasting a dinner where the people listening can hear the people at the dinner laughing. Then of course you get the people who write in, and say "You knocked California when said we imported our roses." Well, what has a rose got to do with the future of California? If they had as much invested in California as I have they might have a kick. Then if you joke about anybody, you get letters from their friends saying, "You knocked Graham McNammee."

Honest, if you could just read the letters, you would wonder. Why do people listen to things they don't like? The radio is the easiest thing in the world to switch from one thing to another. You don't have to get up and leave the theater, and go and buy a tickt to another to hear a better show. All you have to do is to turn a dial and you are rid of what you don't like. That's what makes it great.

Senators are human. Oil prospecting seems to have got into their blood and they are digging again.

You have to bore deep in the dirt to make a big strike in oil. Oil prospectors have found that out, and the senators are apparently bent on following their experience. Some senators feel that only the surface soil of Teapot Dome has been scratched. New derricks have been set up in Washington and the digging is about to start. The first hole yielded big dividends in public confidence in government. Unlike the sort of digging they do in Oklahoma, every load of dirt that is brought to the surface by the senate boosts the stock of public confidence another notch above par. Precautions must be taken to keep the hole from being capped in the event a strike is made.

Range reports indicate that there will be a lot of beefing in Nebraska this year.

Not in the sense that the word is commonly used, however. Nebraska is one of two states in the union which now has more cattle on feed than in January, 1927. The nation as a whole shows a decrease of 12 per cent. The law of supply and demand has not been repealed, and Nebraska stockmen are in the fortunate position of having a good share of the supply. On with the demand!

Nebraska Press

Look Out, Arthur!

(The Omaha World-Herald.)

It is unfortunate that Arthur J. Weaver, republican candidate for the republican nomination for governor, has to be away from the state this week, persuading congress to appropriate money for the development of the Missouri river. One hates to see the proprietor away when the cows are getting into his corn crib.

A week ago Mr. Weaver shucked out as pretty a crop of republican politics as one could wish to see, by filing for governor on an anti-code platform, and cribbed it up to dry out while he went east to try to educate his party a little in North American geography by showing the statesmen a plat of the Missouri river country which, apparently, is not on the maps they use in New England.

And in the meantime Governor McMullen, rejoicing in the experience of having been able to hand out jobs to hundreds of the deserving under the code system, shouts to the world and to Mr. Weaver that to repeal the code would be to destroy the only "business policy" the state ever had.

To this is now added the voice of James Rodman of Omaha, speaker of the Nebraska house of representatives. If Mr. Weaver will come home, execute a perfect right-about-face, admit that he didn't know what he was talking about, and retract his pledge against the Questions from Lincoln Star readers are answered daily by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, president of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman seeks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

You have told us the duty of the citizen toward the state. Please tell us what is the duty of the state towards its citizens.

The state is comparable to the family which exists for the sake of its members. It is also the school in which its citizens learn the lessons of lawful authority. It exists to enforce the law to lessen temptation to violate it, to repress wrong, to widen opportunities for good living, to make loyalty a grateful duty.

In order to accomplish these ends the state must imitate the wise husbandman who does not unduly meddle with nature, but co-operates with her to elicit the fruits of the earth as the reward of his toil. Similarly a well governed state endeavors to adjust its requirements to the general needs of the people, seeks their benefit, avoids irritating interferences with their personal or commercial affairs, respects their religious convictions and abstains from all despotic acts.

Its legal institutions are designed to execute equal and speedy justice. It avoids extremes of policy and knows, as De Maistre said, that the art of governing is to conspire well with things as they are in order to make them what they ought to be.

These obligations mean money from the taxpayers and devoted service from public officials. But to ignore or neglect them costs infinitely more in money and service than their faithful discharge.

Trenton, N. J.

Is it true that religious persecutions always fail and instead of abolishing extend the teachings against which they are directed?

No. Repressive policies have a two-fold effect. In the majority of instances they produce a violent reaction in the opposite direction. Tertullian was measurably right when he said "The blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church."

But in a minority of instances persecutions have succeeded. For example the Christianity introduced into Japan in 1549 by St. Francis Xavier spread with such rapidity that it bade fair to become the faith of the empire. The fears of Japanese nationalists were aroused by the prospect and in 1607 the new religion was crushed out by ruthless massacres. Two hundred and fifty years later, when Commodore Perry opened up the country to foreigners, Japanese Christians had dwindled to an obscure sect. The Albigeneses and the Lollards underwent a similar experience.

In the main, however, attempts to coerce the conscience by physical violence have failed. Their success in past ages depended upon the trend of popular opinion, which usually favored the extermination of political and religious heretics.

My problem concerns the divinity of Christ. I was brought up a Roman Catholic. I am not an Agnostic. I revere and love the character of Christ. I concede He was the greatest teacher the world can ever know. I believe that He was sent and inspired by God. But I simply cannot bring myself to believe that He was God. My church tells me to pray for faith, but a man cannot sincerely pray for what he does not believe possible. Hence, belief does not seem to me to be a matter of choice. Under these circumstances I fear to embrace Christianity, notwithstanding my early Catholic training. I believe God on Judgment day would accuse me

Famous Pets Of Famous People

BAMBINO, THE CAT WHICH MARK TWAIN TAUGHT TO EXTINGUISH HIS CIGAR-LIGHTER.

"Immediately Bambino would jump on the table—and extinguish the flame."

By PRESTON WRIGHT.

Mark Twain always loved cats. For that matter the rest of the Clemens family did, too, so that nearly always one or more felines could be found enjoying a happy existence beneath the Clemens roof—or perhaps upon it.

One of the earliest of these pets was Satan. Away back in the Hartford days, when Jean Clemens was a little girl, she started to church one Sunday in a superb white fur coat. But on the way she found a stray black cat which she thought to be starving, and, although it was wretchedly dirty, carried it back home with her. The white coat suffered terribly, but Jean didn't care.

When she showed the black cat to her father, Mr. Clemens was delighted.

"What a nice little cat this is," he said. "As he's so black, we'll name him Satan."

Satan turned out to be a lady-cat. A daughter was born to her. This brought a big laugh from Mark Twain.

"How about naming the kitten Sin?" he asked Jean. "She's the daughter of Satan, you know."

This was agreeable. Consequently a very innocent looking little gray kitten flourished thereafter with this utterly unsuitable cognomen.

Other cats there were from time to time — Deuteronomy, Genesis, Sour Mash, Bambino and so on. Mr. Clemens liked to have them around him. Often he was photographed with them.

He talked to them as though they were human beings. Sometimes he would have as many as four cats in a chair while he walked up and down in front of them, haranguing them with the utmost earnestness. They sat meanwhile with upturned faces, listening as though they understood every word.

Visitors to Mr. Clemens when he lived at the Fifth Avenue hotel, in New York, got well acquainted with Bambino. This cat, which formerly had belonged to Clara Clemens (Now Mrs. Ossip Gabrilowitch) was very smart. She had trained him, for instance, to wash his own face in a washbowl every morning.

Mark Twain enjoyed Bambino very much and instructed him in another trick. He had a cigar lighter attached to a table at the head of his bed and he taught the cat to turn this lighter off after he had lighted his cigar.

Whenever the author would produce a cigar, Bambino would jump on the bed and watch him. As soon as Mr. Clemens had obtained a light he would bow twice. Immediately Bambino would jump on the table, put his paw on the lighter, and extinguish the flame.

Mr. Clemens was extremely proud of Bambino. He showed him off to every visitor and of course the cat became a celebrity in his own right.

One night Bambino disappeared. He had departed through an open window, bent on a life of adventure.

Mr. Clemens was heart-broken. He advertised, offering a large reward. Apparently everybody in the city responded. Most of them had no idea that they were bringing Bambino home. They merely wanted a chance to talk to Mark Twain.

Two or three days passed. Bambino was located right across the street in a neighboring back yard. Mr. Clemens was delighted.

To stop the flow of visitors bringing cats, he advertised that Bambino had been found. It did no good. People kept coming, just to get a glimpse of the famous Mark Twain.

Two of Mark Twain's stories were born of his love for dumb beasts. "A Dog's Tale" dealt with the injustice of vivisection, to which the author was much opposed. "A Horse's Tale" was a mighty argument for kindliness to animals.

Here and There

Still Dance The Hula.

(The Baltimore Sun.)

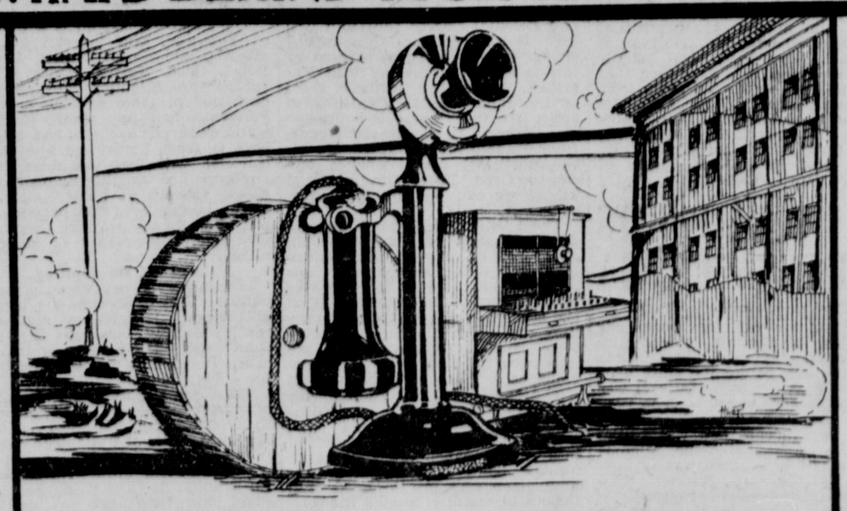

They still dance the hula in Hawaii, at Waikiki, back in the mountains and on the "outside islands"—Kauai, Hawaii, Molokai and Maui.

Tourists arrive in steady streams to express surprise at finding that Hawaii is just a little chunk of the United States, but they find the native Hawaiians still enjoying the hula as the mainlanders enjoy the waltz, fox trot, Charleston or Black bottom.

"Competent observers," in the case of visiting tourists either very young men or men called old declare that the best hula dancers are the older women who attempt not to hide the effects of a poi diet.

Young girls with slender figures make the most charming dancers, even though sometimes they lack the understanding of the dance known to the older "wahines."

WHAT'S BEHIND YOUR TELEPHONE?

A Modern Automatic Plant

No reasonable expense has been spared to provide a modern automatic telephone plant, the best that ingenuity and scientific skill can produce to supply the telephone needs of Lincoln and surrounding community.

No labor saving device has been omitted that would help reduce the cost of service. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been invested for the sake of service and efficiency. A telephone in the home or business, places this modern plant at the subscriber's finger tips for his service.

MORTICIANS

What Would Happen If Motherhood Adjourned?

If all women, everywhere, should cease to bear children, within a generation, every Bank, Merchandising House, Industrial Institution would be defunct. A farm would have no value. There would be no market for any thing. The last remaining humans would starve to death in misery.

All values are dependent upon continuous Motherhood—upon a continuous supply of babies.

We owe everything to Motherhood—our Lives, our Characters, our Possessions.

We also owe it to Motherhood to see that every expectant Mother shall have at the time of her peril and pain the best that Medical Science can give, with every facility of modern Hospitalization, and the best of trained and consecrated Nurses.

If you are a successful business Man, it was your Mother who gave to you the body and mind—the characteristics—which have enabled you to master a place in the Business World.

It was your mother who instilled into your boy mind those traits of character, Industry, Thrift, Integrity, which have given you the mastery of the means to gratify your desire, for the material things of life.

Would you create a memorial to your Mother?

An investment of $2,500 will provide in a modern Hospital a room in which a SCORE of Expectant Mothers may be cared for EACH YEAR through all the years that are ahead.

There will always be expectant Mothers whose families cannot pay for Hospital Service.

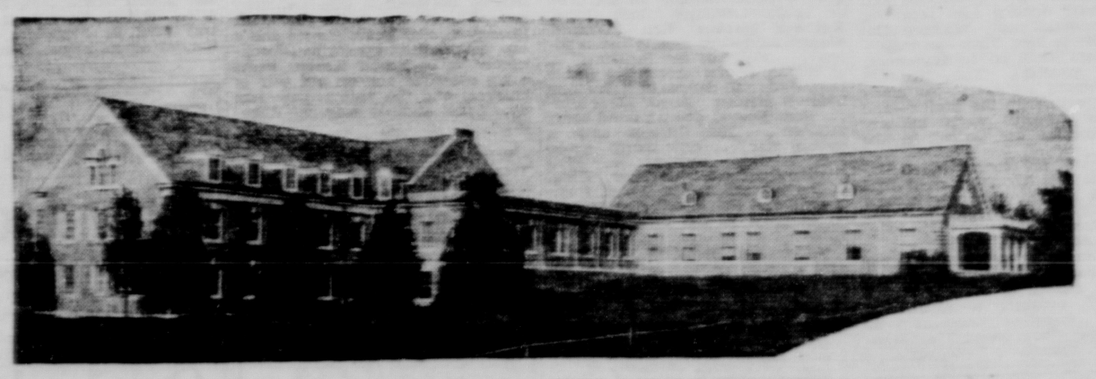

In the name and memory of your Mother you can NOW provide for these.

TODAY you have the power to make such provision. Tomorrow that power may have passed forever.

TODAY a generous gift from YOU will inspire the workers who are giving so generously of their time and energy — AMONG THEM A SCORE OF BUSY MOTHERS—to renewed effort.

TODAY you can inspire your neighbors to emulate your generosity, and so multiply your gift.

NOW is the time to do things.

Bryan Memorial, the BABY in the South Eastern Nebraska Hospital family—with abundant room to grow, and eager to grow big and strong enough to be able to meet every call for help.

Petting Unknown in England.

"Petting? My word, what is that? What is that? What strange terms one hears from the lips of you Americans!"

Mrs. Pat Campbell (Lady Cornwallis-West) had come to America to attempt a stage come-back. "Get her views on something new," explained the Sunday editor; why not "petting." I thought as the grand old lady of the stage descended upon me—lorgnette poised—in the lounge of the St. Regis hotel.

The subject proved new indeed to Mrs. Pat.

Lengthy, but delicate explanations were made. Still the blank expression. We had reached an impasse. Then—enter her ladyship's maid! Here was help.

"Madame, your milk is warmed!"

An appeal was made to the new arrival.

"Ah," explained her ladyship, "you mean 'spooning'—the carryings-on of one's servant girl with the butcher boy at the back entrance. Ah, yes, that must be it! But surely, that isn't done by one's friends. I've never heard of it in England. Don't tell me it is done by your best people."

More explaining—the dismay of preachers and educators.

'Oh, de-ah! Hilda, bring my milk! I'm so discouraged. I fear I shan't succeed here in my new play. I'm really out of date, you see. Such strange people!" And Mrs. Pat Campbell, once the much-sought stage beauty of two continents, sipped her milk, patted her graying hair, forced a pathetic smile, rose with an effort, sighed and dejectedly took leave.

She was right. Her attempt to come back failed. She returned to England — "where petting isn't done."

The Singing Doorboy.

There is a doorboy in a Broadway vaudeville theater who has the right idea. He is always singing; and invariably we have found his songs are snatches from the show.

If the troubadoorboy—(mind if we call him that?)—had his way the ticket seller and the ushers would sing too. Not snatches from the show, perhaps, but they would sing anyhow. The ticket seller as you reached the box office would chant something like this:

Orchestra or balconee?
Box or loge or galleree?
Every seat within good range.
Thank you, mister Here's your change!

And your usher blithely dancing down the aisle, would warble the equivalent of this:

Right this way, sir, take my hand—
And I'll show you fairlyland.
Program? Sure! I'll go and get it!
Oh, no tips! I won't be petted!

Somebody Must Get Married.

When Otto Kahn, Eugene O'Neill and Floyd Dell are invited to a wedding party, somebody must get married in spite of a missing license. So learned Patrick Kearney, the playwright who dramatized Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy."

Kearney's fiancee for his third matrimonial venture — Elizabeth Russell, an artist's model—had difficulty proving she had reached her twentieth year. When the distinguished guests of the theatrical world arrived in Kearney's apartment, the necessary paper was still absent. After a whispered consultation, Dr. Lewis Brown, friend of the groom, once a rabbi, now an author, stepped into the breach and read the marriage "ritual" written by Kearney himself. The wedding party was gay. A few days later, the license came forth and the surprised guests read of the real wedding.

Extra Inspired "The Last Command."

"The Last Command," Emil Jannings' second American picture now running to crowded houses at the Rialto theater, is a bit of striking evidence that eating in restaurants is not always harmful—at least Russian restaurants, is not always harmful—at least Russian restaurants. When Jannings first arrived in New York some time ago, a newspaper friend took him to dine at "The Russian Eagle" on West 57th street, then the smart gathering place for Broadwayites and New York "Muscovites." Nightly one could gaze at Nikolai Balvieff of Chauve Souris fame and the Moscow Art players, as well as Park avenue's bejeweled Bohemians.

But Jannings' eyes were forcused on the restaurant proprietor, a tall, beared, sad-eyed Russian ex-general of the Imperial czarist regime who moved majestically among the crowded tables. Jannings asked his friend for an introduction. The old general sat down and over caviar and borsch told his story. It was a thrilling tale of Russian autocracy with then-powerful general leading the armies of the czar.

Then came the revolution and the "Reds" hurling him from his high command and bringing him eventually to New York—an exile.

Jannings went on to Hollywood. Months passed. The "Russian Eagle" closed its doors—too many refugees eating up the profits—and the once powerfull czarist military leader became an "extra" in the movies.

He is still an "extra" in Hollywood, but his life story, told that night at dinner, has now become the justly acclaimed picture—"The Last Command."

Manhattan Aisles.

"Mirrors," a new play at the orrest theater, by Milton Herbert Cropper, author of "Ladies of the Evening," presents a picture of modern so-called "loose-life" as led by the "best people" of Manhattan's suburbs. Two middle-aged married couples 'step fast' through hectic home scenes with rounds of cocktails, "kiddie parties" and asinine flirtations with exchanged spouses, while their school-age progeny contribute to the melee with "blind" necking parties, liberal drinking, sophisticated chatter and moonlight bathing.

Harm, however, halts outside the door of the magnificent Norton home, even the "necking" of the vibrant, not unattractive youngsters being confined to polite osculatory salutes in the vicinity of the left ear lobe.

Mary Norton of course was different. She had ideals which she purposefully pockets one night to joy-ride with one of her moth's beaux. Returning at the milkman's hour, she feigns inebriety to startle her really inebriated but anxious parents before denouncing their "wanton ways." "I want a home—not a house!" declaims Mary as she leaves to marry Roger, 'the boy who understood."

Sylvia Sydney, just seventeen, who put away her high school books two years ago to enter the Guild School, emerges unscathed as the chaming Mary Norton. A handsome blonde youth, Raymond Guion—the "howl" of "Cradle Snatchers"—wins hearts and laughs with his comedy antics and droll remarks as 'one of the gang." Hale Hamilton is the naughty papa, while Marie Nordstrom labors valiantly as the neurotic self-indulgent mother.

Tragedy in "The Patriot."

"The Patriot," adapted from the German of Alfred Neuman by Ashley Dukes and presented at the Majestic theater by Gilbert Miller, is the tragic story of the reign of the imbecilic Russian Tsar Paul I in the beginnin gof the 19th Century. Magnificent stage settings by Norman Bel-Geddes furnish the tramping ground for royal roguery and intrigue, ending in one assassination, oe murder and a suicide.

Ly Harding, Leslie Faber, Austin Trevor and Madge Titheradge—the last especially brought from England for the play—give a finished performance of a slow-moving drama of awesome splendor.

Restaurant proprietors in the vicinity of the John Golden theater on West 58th street, are busy polishing marble table tops for the opening of Eugene O'Neill's latest play—'Strange Interludes." This piece upon which O'Neill is supposed to have put his greatest labor will begin at 5 o'clock, run until 8 o'clock, recess an hour for dinner, then carry on again at 9 until the close. With subscription tickets the Theater Guild mailed a list of nearby restaurants to subscribers.

Of the fifty-seven going pays in New York, nineteen are musical comedies. . . . Revivals current along Broadway are—"The Merchant of Venice," "The Passing of the Third Floor Back," John Ferguson," and the recently added Galsworthy play, "The Silver Box." . . . The Eatons of the theater are nearly as numerous as the Flying Fratellinis. "Mother's night" put on for Mother Eaton by her three stage daughters took her to "The Five O'clock Girl," in which Mary Eaton stars, 'She's My Baby," with Pearl Eaton and "Excess Baggage" with daughter Doris. . . . Newspaper men — and women — are loomng prominently on the Broadway theatrical horizon. To "Chicago," "The Racket" and "Celebrity," can be added a new play, Man's Estate, written by by Bruce Gould and wife, Beatrice Blackmar, both young Metropolitan newspaper writers.

'Is the hot dog popular on Broadway?' Over $100,000 is the annual return from the "weiner" concession at Madison Square Garden alone.

BITS OF SCREEN GOSSIP

Gary quits cowboy stuff.
Gloria to join DeMille?
Rudy's brother to Hollywood.

Nancy Carroll is to have a try with Richard Dix ... She's his lead in "Easy Come, Easy Go. ... Right off from "Abie's Irish Rose" ... Clever enough to be a potential star ... Thelma Todd and Charles Rogers are the only Paramount school graduates left ... That was worth the school, so they say ... Don't recall Thelma ... Buddy has had several starrish roles.

Sinkers and java ... Thick white cups and toothpicks ... Oilcloth and stools ... Chester Conklin and W. C. Fields ... "Quick Lunch" ... Tired of teams? ... Sort of ... Gary Cooper is never going to be a cowboy ever again ... Neither real nor reel ... Little appeal ... That is, if the audience is more than fourteen years old ... Estelle Taylor likes those crime pictures ... "Lady Raffles" next ... Roland Drew and Lilyan Tashman in support ... Roland was once Walter Goss ... The stars ... heavenly variety—were again him ... He got his number ... Now he's Roland—and a movie actor.

We just had Colleen in a delicatessen shop ... "So This Is Love" is another ... Shirley Mason and William Collier, jr. ... It's really love in Greenwich village ... Maybe Gloria is going over to DeMille ... She and United Artists aren't getting together somehow ... 'Tis said Olive Borden is no longer with Fox ... A little matter of money ... "Saturday Night," ... That should be a happy picture ... Sally O'Neill, her first starring number, and Ralph Graves.

Didn't Help Pola.

Harry Langdon's at work again ... "The Chaser" is just finished ... Pola Negri and Famous Players may part ... Pola finishes her contract in May ... American direction didn't help Pola ... "Out of the Ruins" ... Philip Gibbs wrote it, the story of the war as the French see it ... Richard Barthelmess, who is rather coming back, will have the main role ... Billie Dove still making "The Heart of a Follies Girl" ... Larry Kent, Lowell Sherman, Mildred, Josephine Dunn—all there too.

"Apple Sauce" is on the menu ... First National has just purchased it ... Five o'clock ... Grecian goddesses, Alaskan miners, Kentucky mountaineers, New ork slickers, Follies chorus girls, stage hands, stars ... Just the day's workers going home from a movie studio ... Leatrice Joy and Nilis Astor are swaying to "The Blue Danube" nowadays ... "The Desert Whirlwind" ... Barry Norton and Dorothy Janis ... Arabia and sand ... Lina Basquette, Noah Beery, Robert Edeson, Marie Prevost ... Making "The Godless Girl" ... Story of youthful atheism and modern reform schools ... Excellent picture for a misty, moist, mizzling, blowly November day.

Tom Lingham's been a father forty times, on the screen ... Bessie Love, Priscilla Bonner, Marion Nixon, Laura LaPlante, Buck Jones, Kenneth Harlan, Ken Maynard, Wesley Barry are among his children ... "Sally of the Scandals" is, of course, of the chorus ... Bessie Love leads and dances in it ... Tom Tyler is making "Terror Mountain" ... Buzz Barton doesn't mind being thirteen ... He's thirteen, and a cowboy star ... How many green eyes; is Buzz causing ... FBO Gladys Quartaro, Marjorie King, Lillian Gilmore, Nancy Drexel, Hugh Trevor, and Bob Steele ahe expected to bring in the dividends next year.

"Stocks and Blondes" ... Do you care for the name ... Or do you have a flair for Jackie Logan ... DeMille loaned her to FBO for the picture, Richard ... They call him "Skeets"—if that means anything ... Gallagher ... has the lead ... Buster Keaton is over on the Metro lot ... Nice to have somebody else worry about the pennies.

Another Reel Circus.

"Barnum and Ringling, Inc." ... Name of the next picture of Fatty Cobb and Mildred Kornman and "Scooter" Lowrey, which equals "Our Gang" ... Norma Talmadge and Gilbert Roland in "The Woman Disputed" ... It's to be made with incandescent lights, not Kliegs ... Easier on performers ... No glare ... Less expensive ... permit intermediary shades ... Kleigs are all black as black and white as white.

Charlies Murray is making "It's All Greek to Me" ... Burlesque on Helen of Troy ... Same sets for both, and more money saved ... "Nothing Ever Happens' was the name of Esther Ralston's new picture ... It's got a more Babbitish title now ... "Something Always Happens" ... Two of Mary Carr's are playing in "Hell's Angel's" ... Stephen Carr plays a British cadet ... Tommy also has a role.

Patsy Ruth Miller in the lead of "We Americans" ... Pat O'Malley is trying a turn in vaudeville ... Marion Nixon is doing "Cream of the earth" ... Marion's quite a busy little girl ... Always has a job ... Olga Baclanova has gone to the Merlo studio ... She played in "The Man Who Laughs" ... Once Olga played in the Moscow Art theater ... William Boyd and Alan Hale are to be paired as a comedy team ... The movies will try anything once ... Vera Reynolds is leaving DeMille ... "Hoofbeats of Vengeance" ... Whoof ... The last of Rex's "king of wild horses," starring number.

Use Black Titles.

"Ramona" has black titles ... The background is white ... Reversal of the usual thing ... Joan Crawford replaced Renee Adoree in "Rose Marie" ... The reason was never told ... Renee was ... And then Renee wasn't ... Joan has finished "Rose Marie" ... Now she is going to make "The Tide of Empire" ... A romantic story.

Universal has been reported about to close temporarily ... We've forgotten the number of times ... It isn't ... John Barrymore is the favorite actor of Havana ... No, I don't know that you should be interested ... Nor that he is acutely concerned ... Good for Conrad ... Two studios want him ... And two studios got him ... Hard on those satisfied with preference at one ... And can't get that one ... Metro and Warners are to share him ... Rudolph Valentino's brother is coming to the screen ... He has had his nose corrected for the purpose.

Screen Siftings

Perfect Disguise—Buster Keaton and Lon Chaney go about the M-G-M studio without fear of recognition by the tourists who are lucky enough to get within the gates. Mr. Chaney usually wears glasses and a cap, making him appear as a bookkeeper, while Buster Keaton wears a big eyeshade and an old pair of knickers and the visitors pass him up as just another assistant director.

School On the Run — Loretta Young, Lon Chaney's new leading lady, has found that being a motion picture actress doesn't excuse her from her school work. She is still of school age, and in order to complete her education, she studies on the set between scenes and carries a high school teacher with her to hear her lessons. And when she has nothing else to do, Mr. Chaney, the master of makeup, tutors her in the tricks of the trade.

New Jolson Picture—After the success of "The Jazz Singer" it wasn't at all likely that Al Jolson would turn down an offer to do another picture for Warner Brothers, nor did he. He is said to have received over $100,000 for his work in "The Jazz Singer," but the terms of his new contract have not been made public. Mr. Jolson's next picture will be "The Clown," based on Leoncovallo's opera, "Pagliacci." The Vitaphone will be used to bring out the arias in "Pagliacci." Mr. Jolson has long had a desire to appear as the clown whose smile hid his aching heart.

Mail, and Lots of It—Just to give fans an idea of the immensity of fan mail, Audrey Ferris, a comparatively new player who recently signed with Warner Brothers, already gets an average of over five hundred letters a week from fans. Dolores Costello's mail bag is the heaviest on the Warner lot. She receives 1192 letters a week on an average.

Holds Spotlight — Jack Mulhall, who has been featured with Dorothy Mackaill in pictures, will be all by his lonesome in his next film, "The Butter and Egg Man." The story is from George S. Kaufman's stage comedy and deals with the troubles of a youthful producer of plays. Mr. Mulhall has been making a steady climb upward during his last two years under the First National banner. Richard Wallace will direct "The Butter and Egg Man."

New Story by Hecht—Ben Hecht, a former Chicago newspaper man, who was responsible for the "Underworld" of the films, has written another story which will serve as the next Robert Kane-Allan Dwan production for First National release. The feature is temporarily titled "The Headliner," and is an expose of yellow journalism. Chester Conklin takes the featured part in the picture in the role of a subway guard who is suddenly flung into the front page position of a big city newspaper. Other members of the cast are Sam Hardy, Ned Sparks, Alice White and Bodil Rosing.

Dons Colors—Adolphe Menjou is stepping out from under his silk hat to a giddy scarlet and white uniform for his next Paramount picture, taken from Sardou's famous play, "Ferreol." Evelyn Brent, Nora Lane and other filmland beauties are at present engaged in a series of affairs with the handsome Captain Ferreol." The screen adaptation was made by Ernest Vajda.

Hastings Notes

Classes began the work of the second semester on Tuesday, with the total college registration above the 500 mark. The number registered in the conservatory of music is practically the same as that of the first semester, although a number of new music students have enrolled.

Under the direction of Prof. Joseph Baccus, coach of forensics, a series of one-act plays is to be presented in the near future by the Masqueraders, college dramatic organization. The plays also will be given in a number of towns in the surrounding territory.

The effect of thoughts upon character was discussed at the Y. W. C. A. meeting on Friday, with Miss Helen Eby, '30, Hartington, leading the meeting. Talks were given by the Misses Gesiena Schumann, '31, Barneston; Grace Nellor, '30, Litchfield; Beatrice Gish, '31, Hastings and Elizabeth Alexander, '31, Hastings. A piano solo was played by Miss Marion Fabrique, '29, Nelson.

Preparatory to the college week of prayer, which begins February 7, the Rev. George E. Newell of the Presbyterian church here gave a talk at the weekly Y. M. C. A. meeting in which he presented to the men their responsibilities in giving attention to their spiritual lives.

Mrs. G. W. Rosenlof, of Lincoln, sang a group of solos at the Thursday chapel service. Mrs. Rosenlof is a former student of the college and graduated from the conservatory of music in 1916.

Harold Colvin, traveling regional Y. M. C. A. secretary, spoke to the student body during the Wednesday chapel period, urging upon the students a centralization of their energies.

Twenty-seven students are in the college who did not attend the first semester: Roy Bassett, Hastings; Frances Bradley, Juniata; Minar Gerrard, Juniata; Edward Hoffman, Harvard; Helen Harman, Hollinger; Adeline Kosmata, Ord; Francis Nelson, Verona; Ellen Monfross, Hastings; and Irene Roberts, Springfield, have enrolled with the freshman class. Henrietta Keeney, Cowles, is a sophomore, while the new juniors are: Hillis Hanning, Cambridge; Mrs. Clearman, Hastings; Doyle Hart, Trumbull; Lillian Stratton, Iola, Kas.; and Phyllis Mousel, Hastings. The new special students are: Leslie Robb, Doniphan; Mac Glazier, Doniphan; the Rev. Walter Henry, Hastings; Wanda McGaw, Hastings; Mrs. H. J. Dunn, Hastings and Mrs. Horace Jones, Hastings. Sara Lay, Glenvil; Lillian Rice, Hastings and Walter Zentz, Arcadia, are enrolled in the secondary department.

Mr. Van Kirk is temporary commander of the Robert Flansburg chapter, Disabled American Veterans of World war, and judge advocate of the state department. Mr. Goss is state department commander, and national chaplain of the organization. Mr. Rausch is junior vice commander of the state department, as well as adjutant of the Robert Flansburg chapter.

The disabled veterans have established state department headquarters in the Guggenheim building. The Lincoln chapter expects to put in a bid at the Denver national convention for holding that meeting here next year. Mr. Van Kirk is being urged to enter the race for national commander.

Following are the temporary officers of Robert Flansburg post:

Rolla A. VanKirk, commander.
Glen E. Carpender, senior vice commander.
Dr. Elmer H. Frech, junior vice commander.
Arthur J. Rausch, adjutant.
Dr. I. C. Munger, treasurer.
Ralph Breitenstein, sergeant at arms.
Executive committee: Ivan C. Fleming, Lloyd Williss, O. G. Clowe, and Lawrence J. Wood.

The charter members of the post are: Rolla Van Kirk, A. J. Rausch, Dr. Elmer H. Frech, Ralph Breitenstein, Dr. I. C. Munger, Lloyd E. Willis, J. G. Rector, Glen Carpender, O. G. Clowe, Ivan C. Fleming, Lawrence J. Wool, Charles F. Kinsey and Theo J. Christensen.

At the installation of the chapter at the Legion club rooms on January 24, addresses of welcome were made by the following: Leonard Densmore, American Legion state department; Nathan Grossman, Veterans of Foreign Wars, C. Petrus Peterson, city attorney of Lincoln; Rolla Van Kirk, Robert Flansburg chapter; Mrs. P. W. Jewett, Veterans of Foreign Wars auxiliary; Rex Rankin, American Legion; Mrs. Julia Chapman, war mothers; Frank Powers, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Mrs. Heits, American Legion auxiliary; G. Carpender, V. F. W. No. 1450; Robert Detrick, commander D. A. V. chapter of Omaha; H. Shaw, finance officer state department D. A. V.; Mrs. Frank Knore, V. F. W. auxiliary Post 131.

The address of installation was given by Department Commander M. Wesley Goss of Blue Springs, Neb. He is also national chaplain of the D. A. V.

Peru Normal

Doctor H. C. Gossard, dean of men, Wesleyan university, visited Peru college January 25 and 26 and talked at convocation and also at a combined meeting of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A.

Kathryn Towne, head of the home economics department at Peru for the past several years, has secured a leave of absence, and has left for New York city, where she will do graduate work in Columbia university. Succeeding Miss Towne for the remainder of the present school term is Ruth Dyche of Lawrence, Kas.

Initiation services were held in the Little theater, for new members of the Peru Dramatic club, Thursday evening, January 19.

Dr. W. M. Goldsmith, dean of Southwestern college of Winfield, Kas., has accepted the invitation to install the new chapter of Tri Beta, honorary biological fraternity at Peru, and arrangements are under way t ohave the installation ceremonies on February 20.

Prof. A. Crago visited Iowa City to make definite arrangements concerning his work, for next year, for the completion of his doctor's degree.

The Mink music and dramatic contest will be held in Peru on February 3 and 4, and will be sponsored by the college.

Friday, January 20, the chapel program was in charge of the Sophomore class.

Sigma Tau Delta fraternity met last Monday and discussed the new and the old short-story.

Kirby Page, an internationally known author and lecturer, will visit Peru some time during the second semester. Mr. Page is known throughout the country for his activity in religious and social work. He has traveled extensively in Europe, making a study of the social and industrial conditions existing in the various countries.

A program of instrmental music, arranged by Mr. Jindra, was given before a large audience in the Methodist church, Tuesday evening, January 17.

COTNER NOTES

Dean George Everett Breece gave the chapel address Tuesday on "Enduring Hardships."

The Rev. Dr. Walter Aitken of St. Paul's Methodist church, Lincoln, delivered the first of two lectures on the life and work of Robert Burns, at chapel Thursday.

Miss Dorothy Thomas, ex '26, won first prize for a short story in the annual state contest conducted by the Omaha Women's Press club. Miss Thomas was awarded second place a year ago.

New courses for the second semester include: physical education 42 (technique of sports); chemistry 26 (chemical principles); biology 6 (hygiene and sanitation); physical education 44 (playgrounds and games); physics 46 (electron theory in modern physics).

Everyday Questions

of a breach of the first commandment. And if I cannot conchientiously accept Christ as God I should not join the church.

My attitude is that I just do not know what to think about the claims of divinity for Christ.

The New Testament conceives of Christ as the manifestation of God in and through a human life. The four Gospels and the Epistles leave no doubt as to this manifestation.

But some theologians have absolutely identified its medium with the divine nature it showed forth. This involves the conclusion that God the Father himself abandoned His pre-eminence and died on the cross, a theory which strains rational faith to the breaking point.

It is entirely scriptural and in keeping with the great theologies of the church to say that in Christ and in His sinless being, His teachings and His works we see the very God, learn of His love, ascertain His will and are reconciled with Him. Nor is any other way whereby God could thus reveal Himself either known to the human mind or suited to its powers of apprehension.

This explanation places our Lord in a unique category, since the Father did by Him what He has never done by another. We therefore worship Christ because His divinity is the divinity of the deity He incarnated. May I refer you to Chapters 20 to 24 of the volume on "Jesus Christ and the Human Quest," by Professor Edwin Lewis? They illuminate your difficulty, which is that of many other correspondents.

code, he may have the boon of Rodman's support. If he doesn't do all this well then let every man look to himself. There will be an opposition candidate against Weaver in the primary—possibly Mr. Rodman himself.

The facts are, however, that Arthur Weaver did take upon himself a real fight when he threatened the code system. His opponents are not Governor McMullen or James Rodman alone, either of whom he might regard fairly complacently. His formidable opponents are the interests in Nebraska who want favors at the capitol, and who find it easier to center their attention upon the election of one man—the governor—and to get the state departments, which have the power to grant favors, manned by his appointees, than to have to watch a whole list of elective officers selected by popular vote. Decisions of heads of code departments frequently mean much, in terms of dollars and cents, to interests that seek them. Usually it is safer to secure the appointment of a department head whose point of view coincides with yours, than it is to get him elected by ballot.

As matters stand now, the elective state officers are mere figureheads without authority, and certainly in charge of none of the departments in which the big advantages arise, departments such as the highway department ,the blue sky department, or the labor department.

This is not to charge unethical transactions against any of these departments as managed now. When political advantages of this kind are reaped, they usually arise from compatible viewpoints rather than from bad ethics. But this state supervision is maintained and empowered in the interest of the public, not in the interest of business groups. And since it is, as Mr. Weaver thinks, it should be in the hands of men the public elects rather than in the hands of men the governor appoints.

However, the interest of groups is usually live and the public interest is usually lethargic—so look out, Arthur!

A Delightful Comedy
By Luther Reed and Hale Hamilton
"Dear Me"
"DEAR ME" is a combination of laughter, sunshine, shadow and heart throbs. The story is built about a wistful, romantic little soul who works in a "Failure's Home," She longs to go forth and make something of herself.
The manner in which she makes her wish come true, the unhappiness that threatens to come with her success and the happy ending that is worked out of it all complete the rest of the story.

Answers to Movie Fans

My dear Editor: Shades of "Mark of Zorro" and Bebe Daniels! What next? We have just come from the Rialto, where Richard Dix, gaily attired as a Spanish Don of Old California, romped through "The Gay Defender." It was terrible—for Mr. Dix! He actually looked uncomfortable in his elegant clothes, though goodness knows he played the part as well as he could. That picture is an excellent example of what actors and actresses should never do—play roles for which they are not fitted by type!

Imagine Richard throwing knives, cracking whips in an approved "Don Q" style, strumming a guitar and singing passionate love songs to the girls in a manner befitting the late Mr. Valentino—and all that with a wicked little mustache half hiding his good American grin! Ugh! Please inform the young man, Madam Editor, never again to depart from the good old American roles for which he is so well fitted. He makes a better cowboy that he does a Spaniard; he makes a better Incran than he does a Don. He is just an all around good American with no frills needed to embellish hhim.

We wonder if the Spanish role was a pet dream of Richard's. If so, we hope he does not dream of being a sheiek—he really makes a better Prince.

We can already hear the avalanches of abuse being heaped upon our head by the ardent Dix fans for our criticism of their favorite, and we beg to assure such fans that we are not condemning him. No one admires Richard Dix more than we do. It was the story that did not fit him; not that there was anything wrong it it given the proper cast and treatment. Mr. Dix played the part much better than one would have expected, but it is plainly a Douglas Fairbanks' role and we hope Mr. Dix realizes it and does not attempt to repeat it in the future.

We have seen Jeanne Eagles and think she is adorable. Tell us about her, Madam Editor, will you please? We know that she was rescued from the stage, was the original "Sadie Thompson" of "Rain" fame, etc.

Mary Pickford and Charles Rogers surely were good in "My Best Girl." It is no wonder Miss Pickford is "America's Sweetheart." She is just as dear, and sweet and darling as she ever was, and she has all of our best wishes for her continued success.

Mr. Novarro did a nice bit of acting in "The Road to Romance." We loved his pantomine, and hope he will make use of it again in the near future.

We must stop or we shall bring the displeasure of your whole department down upon our ears for writing at such length. We are pleased to make you another visit; we trust that your good health and disposition are at their best, and hope that you have not forgotten the RATTLER.

Your absence has been duly noted, and your return is most welcome. My disposition might be improved upon, but if my health were any better I should have to become a member of Dr. Lulu Hunt Peters' club, and Heaven forbid! I'm much too fond of goodies.

Poor Richard, he did look rather self-conscious in the role. But he proved his versatility by showing that he really could do it if he had to, and since it was among the "signs of the time" for Paramount to do a picture of the settling of California what other player do they have that could have filled the role? Bebe Daniels could come nearer the part than any of the male members of the studio.

While the players do not always have the "say-so" as to just what type of picture they are given, they are usually taken into consultation on the vehicle, especially when they have attained stardom. I should judge that after having lived in California for a while, Richard felt honored at being permitted to bring some of the romance of the early days of the country to the screen. No doubt hoping that his fans could forget while watching the picture that he is the ideal American type. Since Richard isn't the Spanish Don type, it was difficult for him to give a sincere portrayal of it. The characterizations of the actors on the screen as a rule merely reflect their own real characters.

Jeanne Eagles was born and educated in Boston. She has been on the stage since she was fifteen, although her father was a business man in Boston and she does not come of a theatrical family.

She played in England with George Arliss in such plays as "Disraeli" and "The Professor's Love Story." Upon her return to America she played in several Broadway shows before she won fame as "Sadie Thompson" in "Rain."

"The Cardboard Lover" followed "Rain," and she has returned to New York to resume the stage production of the play after making only the one picture, "Man, Woman and Sin."

Dear Movie Editor—Happy New Year! It's about a year ago since I wrote to you, but you are the first person I'm writing to in 1928.

How long does it take from the time you write and ask for photos of movie stars until you get them? Some I've gotten ni two weeks and others I've gotten in six months.

I think Clara Bow's just too darling for words. I like Alberta Vaughn, too, just as well. They are my favorite actresses.

Ramon Novarro and Richard Dix are my favorite actors. Please tell me something of Ramon's life, his age, color of hair and eyes. I saw him in "Ben Hur" and thought he was just wonderful.

I also want the addresses of my favorites.

I think this will be all for this time. I am an OLD MOVIE FAN of Shickley, Neb.

Thank you for the greetings! I'm happy to see that you have started the New Year in the proper manner, and trust you will not neglect me so long again.

It seems to me you have answered your own question. It depends entirely upon how many letters there are ahead of you for the secretary to care for, and how well stocked in photographs the player may be as to how long you may have to wait for one.

You will find Clara and Richard at the Paramount-Famous-Lasky studio, 5451 Marathon Ave., Hollywood, Calif. Alberta Vaughn has gone to Honolulu. Address her there in care of the Hawaii Film company.

Mr. Navarro is under contract to Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Culver City, Calif. He was groomed by Rex Ingram, who is responsible for Valentino's phenomenal rise to fame, to fill Mr. Valentino's shoes. He is a more spiritual type than Rudy, however, and will never take his place as a great screen lover—in fact, I don't think Ramon has any ambitions along that line. He has advanced rapidly to fame during the time he has spent before the camera and won what was considered one of the best roles before the camera when he was chosen for "Ben Hur."

Ramon is a native of Durango, Mex., where he was born under the family name of Samaniegos, in 1899. He was quite an athlete while he was in school, and it was because of his grace that Marion Morgan chose him for one of her dancers without any training. From there he drifted to extra roles in pictures, and finally won the attention of Rex Ingram, who cast him in "The Prisoner of Zenda."

Ramon has dark hair and eyes and is winning fame as a singer as well as a motion picture player.

Dear Movie Editor—Will you please give me the addresses of the following: Lois Moran, Colleen Moore, Bebe Daniels, Dolores Del Rio, Esther Ralston, Laura La Plante, Greta Garbo, Dorothy Mackaill, Pola Negri, Betty Bronson?

Hoping this escapes the W. O. B., I remain, YOURS TRULY, Crete, Neb.

I hope you recognize your letter, because you neglected to sign any kind of a name.

Lois freelances around a lot lately, but you should be able to locate her out at Fox Film Co., 1401 No. Western Ave., Hollywood, just now. Laura La Plante is a star for Universal, Universal City, Calif.

Colleen Moore and Dorothy Mackaill drive out to First National Studios, Burbank, Calif., to do their stuff, and Greta Garbo turns off the other way and goes to Culver City, Calif., where she woks on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot.

Miss Del Rio receives letters through Edwin Carewe Productions, 5360 Melrose Ave., Hollywood, Calif.

The rest of your favorites are under contract to Paramount-Famous-Lasky, 5451 Marathon, Hollywood, Calif.

Dear Movie Editor—Yesterday I received an adorable picture of Buster Collier, and now I want one of Richard Dix, Ramon Navarro and John Gilbert. Will you please give me their addresses?

By the way, some time ago I received Gilbert Roland's photograph and it was hand autographed. So many of them are just stamped, but you can see where the pen scratched into the photo on this one and I surely am proud of it.

Many thinks for your time, trouble and space, MARGE.

Gilbert probably won't have time to do all of his photographs by hand when he gets a little more popular, so you are fortunate to have received one from him during the early stages of his career.

Richard Dix receives his mail at the Paramount-Famous-Lasky Studio, 5451 Marathon Ave., Hollywood, Calif., and your other two favorites may be seen most any day sauntering around the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot, Culver City, Calif.

Dear Movie Editor—Don't Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios give pictures of movie stars? I've waited three months for an answer from stars.

Who were the leading ladies in "The Lost World" and "The Kid Brother," and what are their addresses? Also what is Harold Lloyd's address? Who was the little child in "The Two Gun Man?"

Please tell me all about Barbara Kent and what is her address? Also please give me the address of May McAvoy and Thelma Todd.

Wha was "Snookums" in "The Newlywed's Xmas Party" and who was "Pearl" in "The Scarlet Letter?" What are their addresses?

Who is in "Our Gang?" In "Don Juan," who was Don Juan's mother and what is her address?

Who was the girl in "It" who fell from the yacht and was rescued by Clara Bow and what is her address?

What shows were at the Lyric the week before and the week after Christmas i 1923 and 1924? Please give me the casts and addresses of the leading lady of each. If you can't find all the shows at the Lyric will you please give me as many as you can? VIVIAN, Normal, Neb.

Why bring 1923 and 1924 up at this date, Vivian? And what would you do with them after you got them? Don't you think the Movie Editor has to clean house once in a while—at least oftener than four and five years? All good alibis aren't they? I'm sorry that I don't keep the theatre programs that long.

Perhaps your letter to M.-G.-M. was lost. I'm sure others have received pictures from their stars. I'll take the matter of photographs up with the studio and let you know in detail the results, next time I get ambitious enough to go over there.

Bessie Love was the leading lady in "The Lost World." Write her in care of Cecil B. De Mille Studio, Culver City, Calif.

Jobyna Ralston in "The Kid Brother." She's doing a lot of stepping round, but I think you should be able to get in touch with her at the Cecil B. De Mille studio, Culver City, Calif. Address Harold at his own sturio, same city.

Billy Butts was the youngster who took the role of Billy Stuckley in "The Two Gun Man."

Thelma Todd with Paramount-Famous-Lasky and May McAvoy is with Warner Brothers 5842 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif.

Barbara Kent was launched into fame by winning a silver loving cup in a personality contest at Santa Cruz, California when she stopped off for a short time enroute from Cadsby, Alberta Canada to Los Angeles. Miss Kent was born in Canada and attended public school there.

Her high school days were spent in Hollywood, and she won a beauty contest sponsored by the Hollywood News, so you see she had something to offer to the screen when she was finally seen by a director and invited out for a screen test.

Barbara is five feet and just a half inch over in height. She has dark thick curls and blue eyes. She's an expert skater and is also at home or horseback. She's an only child and you will find her at the Universal Studio, Universal City, Calif.

"Snookums" is the name under which the young man works and if he has any other he refuses to divulge it. He's one of the highlights of the Universal short reels. Address him at Universal City.

Joyce Coad was "Pearl" in "The Scarlet Letter." Address her at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studio, Culver City, Calif. Hedda Hopper was "Marquise Rinaldo" in "Don Juan." Write her at the Warner Brothers Studio, 5842 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Calif.

The members of "Our Gang" now are Joe Cobb, Farina, Jackie Condon, Jay Smith, Harry Speer, Jean Darling, Mildred Kornman, "Wheezer," and the dog "Pete."

Priscilla Bonner was "Molly" in "It." Address her at 6811 Leland Way, Hollywood, Calif.

Dear Movie Editor—This is my first visit to your department and I bet you hope it is my last.

First I want to know the addresses and all you can tell me about Billie Dove and Laura La Plante.

Could you also tell me who played "Skippy" "In Old Kentucky."

This may be a little out of your line, but I wonder if you could tell me how I could get in touch with Babe Ruth. Thanking you in advance and hoping my static wont escape the press, I will ring off. TY A.

I trust it's just a beginning of many visits.

Billie Dove is a New Yorker by birth. She started her career when she was just sixteen posing for magazine covers by famous artists. She is five feet and a half inches tall and is considered one of the prettiest girls on the screen.

Her advent to pictures with "Get Rich Quick Wallingford," followed a career in the Ziegfeld Follies. She has appeared with Doug Fairbanks, Hoot Gibson, Tom Mix, Jack Gilbert when he was with Fox, and other famous men of the screen, and is now a star in her own right for First National Pictures, Burbank, Calif. Miss Dove is married to Irvin Willat, the director.

Laura La Plante's husband is also a director. He is William Seiter, who directed her in "Thanks for the Buggy Ride."

Laura is a blond, or rather semi-blonde, a little over five feet tall and weighs 115. She's an expert dancer and an artist with the violin as well as a motion picture star.

Laura was born in St. Louis, Mo., of non-theatrical parents. She attended school at San Diego, California, where her parents moved when she was a child, and then started her professional career in Christie comedies.

Miss La Plante was chosen as one of the "baby stars" by the Wampus Club in 1924 and has risen steadily ever since until she is now a star at Universal, Universal City, Calif.

Wesley Barry played as "Skippy" "In Old Kentucky." Do you remember him as the "Freckles" of several years ago? He has grown up and married in the meantime while pursuing a vaudeville career.

Write to Babe Ruth in care of First National Pictures, Burbank, Calif. He worked for them and they will be glad to know that he has won some fans on the screen as well as through his baseball career. Or if you prefer, he's the "swat king" of the New York Yankees.

Screen Siftings

New Wampas Stars — The Wampas club has picked thirteen more Hollywood film players to try out the wings of fame during 1928. The girls who were chosen by the publicity men for their candidates as being the most likely prospects for future stardom are: Lina Basquette, Flora Bramley, Sue Carol, Ann Christy, June Collyer, Alice Day, Sally Eilers, Audrey Ferris, Dorothy Gulliver, Gwen Lee, Molly O'Day, Ruth Taylor and Lupe Velez. The young ladies will make their official debut at the annual Wampas Ball to be held at the Ambassador auditorium February 25.

Kept Busy — Jacqueline Logan, who will commence work as a Cecil B. DeMille star in July, is not to have much time to loiter between pictures. She has been borrowed from Mr. De Mille by F. B. O., to play the featured role in "Stocks and Blondes." The picture will be released as a big feature production. Skeets Gallagher will appear opposite Miss Logan.

To Be Married—Grace Darmond, who was formerly a star in motion picture serials, is to marry Randolph N. Jennings, a wealthy retired business man of Beverly Hills.

Given Lead—Sue Carol, who has been selected as one of the new crop of Wampas Baby Stars, is to do the featured feminine lead in "Walking Back," which is about to go into production at the Cecil B. De Mille studio. Ivan Lebedeff, Richard Walling and Warner Richmond are all important members of the cast. Rupert Julian will direct the picture from George Kibbe Turner's story, "A Ride in the Country."

Lincoln Man In "Ramona"—John T. Prince, former Lincoln man, has a role in "Ramona," the film version of Helen Hunt Jackson's novel which Edwin Carewe has just completed. Dolores del Rio is the star of the picture, Warner Baxter appears as "Alessandro," and Roland Drew will be seen in the role of "Felipe."

First Stars—Nick Cogley and Tom Santschi claim the honor of "Baby Stars," too. In fact they insist that they are the original baby stars of the movies, because they appeared in the first movie that was ever produced in Hollywood. That was back in 1909 and the picture was made in a former Chinese laundry by the Selig Polyscope company. The film was called "Across the Divide." Both of the early players are still working before the camera. Mr. Santschi is a villain and Nick Cogley has won his spurs in character roles. He is now taking the part of Father Whalen in the Paramount version of Anne Nichols' play, "Abie's Irish Rose."

Another Part—Otis Harlan, noted character actor, who recently completed a featured role in "Thoroughbreds" for Universal, will continue to make his daily trip through the Pass for another few weeks. He has been signed for a part with Reginald Denny in "Be Yourself." Mary Nolan occupies the leading feminine role, while Dorothy Gulliver is taking the part of Mr. Denny's younger sister. Dorothy is one of the newly elected Wampas stars. William Seiter is calling the action on "Be Yourself."

Directs Cody Comedies—Malcolm St. Clair, a former newspaper cartoonist, and who has won fame as a director in such pictures as "How Baxter Butted In," and "Are Parents People," is to guide Lew Cody through a series of sophisticated comedies. In the meantime, while the director and scenarist are preparing for Mr. Cody's first picture, the star is appearing in a vaudeville skit over the Orpheum circuit in cities around Los Angeles billed as "Lew Cody—Visiting Vaudeville by Courtesy of M. G. M."

Golf Salesman—Richard Dix is to characterize a golf suit salesman who encounters many difficulties in peddling his wares, in his next picture, "Sporting Goods."

Two Members of High School Graduating Class Give Talks At Commencement Exercises

PAUL MOESSNER.

The two members of the Lincoln high school graduating class who are shown above, gave talks Friday evening at the January commencement exercises held in the high school auditorium.

Miss Rose Cohen took as her topic, "Commercial Aeronautics in the United Statees," while Paul Moessner talked on "Farm Relief."

Miss Cohen's speech follows:

In the business world of today the airplane is an important factor. Its use as a tool in business is much the same as a typewriter or a truck, it saves time and energy.

"The trans-Atlantic flights of Lindbergh and Chamberlin have opened up a field of possibilities never realized before, which will change the economic relations of the world. The United States is naturally situated to be the leading country in aeronautics. Our planes fly long distances without crossing any international border.

"The weather conditions are almost always favorable, and one of the most important factors in transportation is the saving of time. The airplane decreases the length of time necessary for a commercial or industrial errand, and to our people time-saving means more than to any other country.

"Commercial aeronautics should be developed in the United States because the airplane is becoming as great a factor in transportation as the railroad train or the motor. Air-transportation in the future will perform a function in the economic scheme of things.

"The airplane may be of great importance to the manufacturer whose schedule in producing some articles might be delayed by the breaking of some piece of the machinery. If the manufacturer should need the new part for the machine immediateley it would be impractical to rely on a truck or the railroads to deliver it, when the airplane could deliver it in a much shorter time. For example, not long ago a printer in Moline, Ill., broke an important part on a big press which was used twenty-four hours a day. He ordered a new part which cost three or four dollars from a manufacturer in Connecticut. It was delivered in twelve hours by air mail. The postage charge was $120, but the time saved was worth several times more than this to the printer.

"The principal obstacle in the way of any manufacturer's using air-transportation profitably is the lack of landing fields. Statistics show that there are today only 845 airports in the United States. This is a comparatively small number and should be increased at least to 10,000.

"Landing fields give a city the advantages of the service which aviation gives. A good landing feld should be situated near the factories which will make use of the air service. Most modern planes have four-wheel brakes which the pilot applies when he lands. This permits the plane to stop in a much shorter distance than otherwise, and therefore an extremely large field would not be required.

"If plans for the new postoffice at Chicago are carried out, the mail planes will land on the roof of the building, and chutes will carry the mail from the landing field on the roof to the sorting room below. This would save a great deal of time.

"The development of regular commercial air routes in the United States has doubled in the past year. No other nation carries as much mail or express by air. The transcontinental airway between New York and San Francisco is over 2,500 miles long, most of the distance being equipped for night flying. Last year government air mail planes flew a distance of two and a half million miles over this route, almost half the distance having been covered at night. These machines carried, altogether, almost seventeen and a half million letters. The weather throughout these twelve months included the worst blizzards, but the flying of these air mail planes rated 93 per cent perfect. There were only two fatal accidents, less than one death per million miles. Airtransport companies operating 4,759 miles of feeder lines for the trans-continental route flew 2,086,395 miles last year, carrying 7,-

THE UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

Among new classes offered for the third term, which commences tomorrow, are beginning classes in harmony under Don Berry, analysis under John Rosborough, piano repertoire under Marguerite Klinker, a class designed for any who expects to teach and elementary piano pedagogy under Genevieve Wilson.

The public is cordially invited to the second public students' recital to be given in the Temple theater Monday evening, January 30 and consisting fof the following program:

Chopin—Nocturne, F sharp minor.
Alice Roscow.
Tschaikowsky—Pilgrim's song.
Leoncavallo — Prologue from "Pagliacci."
Lyle De Moss.
Beethoven—Sonata, Op. 27, No. 1; Andante-Allegro; Allegro molto e vivace.
Margaret Anderson.
Giordani—Caro Mio Ben.
Grieg—Ich liebe dich.
Mendelssohn—It is enough, from "Elijah."
Carroll Nygren.
D'Albert—Allemande.
Alberiz—Sequidilla.
Bernice Schellenberg.
Beethoven—Sonata, Op. 31, No. 1; first movement.
Marguerite Thompson.
Brahms—Rhapsody, G minor.
Florence Hilton.
Schumann—Die Lotus Blume.
Alyward—Beloved, It is Morn.
Emma Johnson.
Sternberg — Poetico, Concert Etude.
Patrice Nickols.
Schumann—By Moonlight, In the Forest, Spring Night.
Mildred Johnson.
Lillian Polley of the voice department, accompanied by Marguerite Klinker will be heard this afternoon in the vesper concert at the Lincoln high school.

A company of young women from the school furnished a program for the Womans' club at Grand Island Monday afternoon. The performers were Sylvia Cole, '27 and a trio consisting of Ethel Owen, violin, Harriet Newens, 'cello and Emma Strangman, piano.

Hazel Kinscella of the pianoforte department will give a recital for the convocation of the University of Nebraska Tuesday morning.

Adrian M. Newens, director of the University School of Music, will give a character reading, "To Him Who Hath," at the Westminister church Friday evening, Febraray 3 at 8 o'clock. The program sponsored by circle 3 of the church, with Mrs. W. H. Brehm, as president. Musical numbers will be by Mrs. L. P. Davis, contralto, and Louis H. Babst, flute soloist.

The forty-third concert of the sixth season of the vesper concert series, arranged by Charles B. Righter, under the auspices of the board of education, will be given on January 29 at 3 o'clock, at the Lincoln high school auditorium. The Walt String quartet, with Mrs. Lillian Helms Polley, soprano soloist, and Miss Marguerite Klinker, accompanist will present the program. These artists are favorites with the vesper concert audiences.

The Walt quartet is made up of the following Lincoln musicians: Edward J. Walt, first violin, Earnest Harrison, second violin, William Quick, viola, and Miss Lillian Eiche, violin cello. This group will play a number which is the only one of its kind, the famous "American" quartet, by Dvorak, based on negro folk melodies and rhythms. It was written while Dvorak, was living in America, and was intended as a tribute to the musical and rhythmic sensibilities of the negro race and as a proof that their themes could be made the basis of a national school of composition.

Mrs. Polly will sing a group of numbers in which will be featured three Schubert songs and the aria "Hear ye, Israel" from "Elijah." Musicians throughout the world are celebrating this year the Schubert centennial and programs everywhere contain numbers by the great master of melody who died one hundred years ago.

The complete program for the afternoon is as follows:

1. Quartet in F Major, Opus 96... ..... Dvorak
   a. Allegro ma non troppo
   b. Lento.
   c. Molto vivace (Scherzo)
   d. Vivace ma non troppo, finale.
   The Walt String Quartet
II. a. Mimi pinson, from "La Boheme" ..... Leoncavallo
   b. The Trout ..... Schubert
   c. Ave Maria ..... Schubert
   d. Hark, Hark, the Lark!.. Schubert
   e. Lullaby, from "Harold" ..... Napravnik
   f. Hear Ye, Israel! from "Elijah".. ..... Mendelssohn
   Mrs. Polley
III. a. Rondo from String Quartet.. ..... Haydn
   b. Largo ..... Haydn
   c. Molly on the Shore ....Grainger
   The Walt String Quartet

The next concert February 26, will be given by the Nebraska Wesleyan university men's glee club, an organization which is appearing for the first time on a vesper series concert. The soloist will be Earnest Harrison, pianist. Mr. Harrison recently appeared as soloist with the Lincoln Little Symphony, playing the Grieg Concerto in A minor.

DE VILMAR-SCHAEFER STUDIO.

The First Presbyterian church orchestra under the direction of Prof. Jean L. Schaefer will render "My Paradise," by Zamenick, at the services tonight, 7:45 o'clock.

Prof. Jean Schaefer will be in Omaha three days this week playing two concerts with the Omaha symphony orchestra, of which he is a member.

Miss Hazel Gertrude Kinscella, of the University of Nebraska school of fine arts, will appear in a piano program Tuesday morning, January 51, at the temple theater at 11 o'clock. Miss Kinscella will present the following program:

Mozart, Pastorale Varice.
Bach, Prelude in A minor.
Pergolesi, Aria.
Daquin, Le Coucou.
Scarlatti, Sonate in E.
Schumann, Scenes from Childhood.
Chopin, Polonaise in A Flat, Opus 53.
Debussy, Golliwogg's Cake-Walk.
Gossens, The Hurdy-Gurdy Man.
Richard Strauss, Traumerei.
Schubert-Tausig, March Militaire.

The world hunger for those things which lift us above the humdrum of everyday life has perhaps more than anything increased the demand which makes music an imperative part of the training of every boy and girl. Countless thousands of parents have found that the ability to play the piano possessed by their children has been the key which has opened the doors to brilliant social success.

The son or the daughter who is able to play this universal instrument at once stands out in any group. Naturally the first outlook for the parents is to make and safeguard the child's opportunities for social, material and moral progress. No instrument made by man has contributed as much to this progress as the piano.

Although the asset of playing the piano is an advantage to boys in this day, it is more important to the girls, the potential mothers of our race upon whom the preservation of the American home with its ideal depends.

About the time when William Penn was laying the foundation for a new commonwealth in the world a little instrument maker in Florence, Bartolommeo di Francesco Cristofori, was engaged in inventing a little stringed instrument with a keyboard, which could play both soft and loud. The man laid the foundation for one of the greatest cultural movements ever known to man. The invention so stimulated the imaginations of composers and so advanced the means of interpreting the masterpieces that the whole musical progress of the world leaped ahead in an altogether astonishing manner.

We are living in music's greatest hour. The radio, the talking machine and the reproducing piano have sent musical taste and musical interest flying ahead one thousand per cent in the last few years. This is a glorious epoch for the art which is contributing such elevating and energizing force to the world.

Lincoln Symphony Notes

The next concert of the Lincoln Little Symphony orchestra will be held on Tuesday, February 7, at St. Paul's church. The program will consist of the following numbers:

Dvorak—New Yorld Symphony.
Ippolitow - Iwanov — Caucassian Suite.
Wagner—Overture to Tannhauser.
Massenet—Overture to Phaedre.
Handel—Gavotte for Oboe and Strings.
Grainger—Shepherds Hey.

The orchestra has been rehearsing steadily and assiduously for this concert; they are spurred on by the splendid impression they made at the last time—an impression they do not wish to lose but rather to accelerate. And it is a fact that a symphony with the same group of players can do none other than progress if there is an ounce of intelligence either in the orchestra or in its conductor. The group gradually acquires an ensemble spirit, plus a firmer grip of the ideas of the orchestra leader. One is not actually facetious in saying that in about seven years we ought to have a great orchestra. It took Oberhoffer that long at Minneapolis and Olin Downes of the New York Times last year said in one of his articles on music that Gabrilowitch has the foundation of strings in his Detroit orchestra that should equal the never to be forgotten timbre of the old Boston Symphony under Gericke in about five more years.

Let us consider what it takes to prepare a concert. The Lincoln and Omaha orchestra require ten rehearsals of two to three hours each in which the conductor gets in his "licks," to use vernacular. I feel that it is a common impression that the conductor's supreme task is to lead the orchestra at the concert; it is really of least importance. He has whipped them into shape at rehearsals, stopped them here for playing too loud, or there, for playing too soft, not to say anything of his pedagogy in the creation of feeling and spirit. He works like a horse, his coat is soon off and he is wiping the "sweat" off his brow. His patience must be unbounded, for when he tells them of effects he desires in phrasing he is expressing an emotion, is asking it to be carried out; but, emotions are felt by many but clearly expressed by few. He struggles along and gets his effects from what appears to be a stupid bunch of musicians. But this isn't so; it is the situation.

THE LOST WORLD OF YESTERDAY

A Pen Picture of the Vanished Past—The Horse and Buggy

Taking her our for a spin; in 1880, to "spin" a girl was the sure way, to win her.

You might see it in 'Anno Domini 1880,' skimming along any country road, it or them, the horse and buggy. A fairy vehicle, it seemed, light and swift, so that the buckboard and the lumber wagon seemed at once hopelessly clumsy, slow and inconvenient. It was the last word in ease.

It had a step to step in by, so that there was no need to throw oneself over the side, as in the lumber wagon. It had springs between the body —the chassis—and the axle, so that when the wheels hit a stone or bumped into a rut the light chassis osciliated in the air like a canary's nest on a willow bough.

With the buckboard, each jolt was a collision, head-on and uncompromising; the lumber wagon had about as much give and take as a war chariot; the buggy danced upon its springs like a daffodil.

Invention at Its Peak.

In front was a dashboard sheltering from the splash of mud, and folded into it, by a miracle of inventive ingenuity, a waterproof rug or cover for the knees. Behind the seat, by another stroke of invention, was a sort of locker or receptacle that would hold two quart bottles.

But the real point of the horse and buggy was their speed. Goodbye to the heavy lumber wagon left behind in the dusty road as we spin past on the green grass that edges the track; goodbye to the buckboard, once the dashing marvel of the corduroy road; goodbye to the hayrack and the horse-threshing machine, and the other vehicles of the country highway. The buggy passes them as if they are standing still.

The horse and buggy had no speed indicator. But they could hit up seven miles an hour with ease, and make it ten if the horse ran away. There was no speed limit in terms of miles; the law forbade reckless driving, but seven miles an hour was all right anywhere, except only inside a village, or an incorporated town, or a municipality, or beside a church, where it fell to two, and up-hill, where it sank to one.

The horse and buggy used no gasoline. With them, there was no painful nuisance of filling the tank or cranking up. It wasn't necessary. Just get the lantern and go out to the stable and slip the harness on the horse, bring him round to the trough and break the ice if it was winter, or if it was summer just pump a little till the pump started and fill up the trough, and then put the horse into the buggy and bring them round to the back door, and that was all.

A smart man could hitch in fifteen minutes. Even a child could do it all except the tail-strap.

When the horse and buggy, skimmed the cream of their popularity, there was in the buggy, typically, a lady and gentleman—I beg pardon, I am forgetting how to use my own original language—there was in it a "young feller and a girl." He was taking her "out for a spin." In 1880, to "spin" a girl was the sure way to win her.

The young feller wore his store clothes, gingerbread brown, and a black hat copied from the North American pirates, and the girl had on a colored dress copied from the Algonquins. They didn't take their fashions from France in 1880. They got them right here.

Safety First and Last.

The spin in the horse and buggy as compared with the modern motor car also called the automobile or the horseless carriage—was safety itself. The horse might dash into a stake fence and hurl the girl over it on to a pileof stones in the fence corner; but without damage — you couldn't hurt those girls in 1880.

The horse might, of course, get a puncture by picking up a stone, but all you had to do was to speak softly to it, lift its leg, and kick it in the stomach. In a few minutes you were off again.

The young feller and the girl in the horse and buggy were making love. They didn't know it, but they were. They thought that they were just out for a spin looking at the crops.

"Them oats," he said, "of Bob Ame's's's ain't headin' out the way they should."

"No, indeed," she answered, "they didn't ought to be so green still."

Both of them had been to school —in the red schoolhouse on the road itself: both of them could speak grammar, if they tried to; but that would be affected. And when he said "I ain't seen no crops on the whole equally superior to them there," the language had a home feeling about it that you don't get in a spelling book.

The Weight of Words.

Some of these young fellers of 1880 afterwards sat in legislatures, or preached from city pulpits, and became the nation builders of this continent. But when they gave up saying "this here" and "them there," they had taken on something alien totheir true selves—but did they ever really give it up? I doubt it. In the most plutocratic homes of the continent, when the English butler's back is turned, your host may still say to you, "Try one of these here cigars." And if you come from here he does, you will answer, "Yes, sir, they're a good cigar, them."

But I forgot the horse and buggy —they're off and gone a quarter mile down the road; they're passing through Riddel's Bush on the hillside, and the swinging boughs and the green leaves nod over their heads. Not making love? I am not so sure of it. Look—the young feller has handed to the girl a "conversation lozenge," a white, flat piece of peppermint candy with a motto on it in red poison: "If you love me as I love you no knife can cut our love in two."

A Loze nge Illumined.

When that lozenge was passed from hand to hand in 1880, it was as full of meaning as when Morgan the Buccaneer handed a chip to his associate pirate, or the Turkish sultan a bowstring to his vizer. It spelt fate. And if the girl took it and ate it—I mean, "took and et it" (I keep slipping upon this language)—then her fate was settled.

At the end of the vista of green trees, she could see already in her fancy the meeting house and the minister and the stern paraphernalia of marriage as it was in 1880.

The horse and buggy have done ther work. Turn then head home in the evening twilight.

631 passengers and 2,000,000 pounds of mail and express without one accident.

Help Establish Communication.

"Airplanes are especially useful in rocky regions where there are many blizzards and blocked roads which destroy the usual means of communication. Many instances are on record in which much needed relief has been brought by airplanes to people in these regions.

"In an effort to stimulate interest in trans-oceaenic flying large sums of money have been offered in the United States as prizes for flights from Los Angeles to Tokyo; from the Pacific coast to Honolulu, and from Dallas, Tex., to Hongkong. Chief research engineers in our country have predicted that within five years airplanes will leave New York for Paris every half hour, and the fare will be about $325 each way.

"Colonel Lindbergh's flight has aroused among thousands of Americans an interest in flying, and Lindbergh states that the development of aviation depends mainly upon financial support and experimentation. Furthermore, we need great laboratories similar to those maintained in Europe by the aid of government subsidies.

"General William Mitchell, former commander of air service of the A. E. F., says, 'There are only two airplanes made in this country which are suitable for long-distance flying. They are the Fokker three-engine plane and the Ford three-engine plane.' These planes afford a high degree of safety on account of their multi-power plant. They are comfortable for passengers, they are equipped with suitable navigating instruments and are safe to operate. General Mitchell believes that thse planes could make a flight from New York to Paris in three stops. The first jump would be from New York to Labrador; the second jump from Labrador to Iceland, and the third from Iceland to London or Paris. The planes would travel night and day at an average speed of 100 miles an hour, and by making three stops the passengers would not have to remain in the plane more than fifteen hours at a time.

Better Planes Possible.

"He also says, 'Much better airplanes can be constructed if the demand for them should exist.' He suggests a plane which would be suitable for trans-oceanic flying. The structure of this plane would be of waterproof material. The plane would thus be able to float on the water for a few days, while the passengers could live inside the ing. The landing gears would have shock absorbers, which would allow the plane to land at a speed of 100 miles an hour ithout injury to the passengers. The wheels would be large enough to enable them to roll over fences, deep ditches or jagged ice. The plane could carry about passengers, and travel 100 to 200 miles an hour.

"Colonel Lindbergh's predictions in regard to the future development of aviation may be summed up as follows: 'First, trans-oceanic air service is not only practical but inevitable. Second, it will be conducted with multi-motors and flying boats operating in conjunction with air stations. Thrd, the regular trans-oceanic air service will probably be inaugurated in five to ten years.'

"In regard to Lindbergh's suggestion about floating stations, some inventors have proposed huge landing stages to be anchored at intervals of 500 miles across the ocean. They would have to be enormous harbors in order to shelter seaplanes. These harbors would have vast landing decks for land ships, and provide hangars, machine shops, mechanics and hotels for the passengers.

Trans-Atlantic Service Planned.

"Charles A. Levine, the first passenger to fly over the Atlantic, and his pilot, Clarence D. Chamberlin, plan a regular trans-Atlantic aerial service. Mr. Levine plans to build ten planes, each with a capacity of fifty passengers besides its crew. Each plane will have seven engines, of which only four will work at one time, leaving three in reserve. The ships will be monoplane flying boats capable of landing at sea. Chamberlin and Mr. Levine plan to have their planes in operation in one year.

"Guiseppe M. Bellanca, designer of the "Columbia," the airship of Levine and Chamberlin, says, "Aeronautically, the Atlantic ocean has shrunk until to the flier of 1927 it is what the British channel was to Bleriot in 1909. Trans-Atlantic airplanes must be safe and comfortable or they will not be patronized and their owners will fail. First of all, safety must be concerned, then comfort, and lastly profit.'

"General William Mitchell says, 'the British, in their reports, show that a distance equal to twenty-seven times around the earth has been flown for each loss of life in their commercial aviation. This means that it is safer to travel by air than to travel in street cars, automobiles, railroad trains, or steamships.'

"The airplane is dependable and an economizer of time, in transportation. The locomotive and the automobile were great steps in the advancement of transportation; but the airplane will prove to be an even greater step, and there is no question but that in time it will revolutionize the transportation of the world."

Wesleyan Notes

Nebraska Wesleyan university is well represented on the program of the Epworth League and young people's institute of the Lincoln district of the Methodist Episcopal Church which is being held at the Elm Park M. E. church from January 27-29. Prof. Earle E. Emms is the dean of the institute. Prof. Roy W. Porter of the teachers college, Rev. Harold Bryant, a Wesleyan student who is pastor of the Emmanual Methodist church, Dr. A. V. Hunter, '12 superintendent of the Hastings district, Mrs. Lillian Glock Fawell, '16 co-director of the Wesleyan foundation are members of the faculty for the institute. Miss Helen Wescott of Plattsmouth, a junior at Wesleyan, is in charge of the singing and recreation. Chancellor I. B. Schreckengast will deliver the institute address this morning. This afternoon Dr. Hunter and Professor Emme will give closing remarks. Several Wesleyan students are attending the institute.

Dean H. C. Cossard appeared before the students of Peru normal in a series of four addresses on Wednesday and Thursday. He spoke on modern religious thinking and social relationships.

Prof. W. C. Bishop recently was the guest of the Chautauqua circle at University Place at a luncheon which was held at the home of Mrs. F. M. Gregg. Following the luncheon he addressed the circle on the subject, "The Geology of Nebraska." He accounted for the differences in the soils of eastern and western Nebraska through their differing geological history and discussed the sandhills and their forestation. He said that the soil in western Nebraska is composed of a mixture of loose materials, shales and sand, that were left from the wash at the time of the uplift of the Rocky mountains. The influence of the glacier region is shown in soils of western Nebraska. The deposits that were made then are responsible for its highly fertile soil, Professor Bishop said.

Rosie's BEAU
BY GEO. McMANUS
Registered U. S. Patent Office

THAT'S A FINE THING YOU DID- I ASKED YOU TO HIRE A SECRETARY FOR- ARCHIE AND OF ALL THE FOOL THINGS TO DO- YOU GIVE THE JOB TO MY DAUGHTER- ROSIE.

SORRY- SIR I DIDN'T KNOW SHE WAS YOUR DAUGHTER.

NOW WHAT IS TO BE DONE? I MUST GET MY DAUGHTER OUT OF THIS OFFICE OR NOTHING WILL BE DONE.

SHE'LL SPEND ALL HER TIME TALKING TO ARCHIE AND HE'LL SPEND ALL HIS TIME LISTENING TO HER. THE ONLY THING TO DO IF ROSIE WON'T QUIT IS TO FIRE- ARCHIE-

ELEVEN O'CLOCK- WOW- I HAD FIVE APPOINTMENTS WITH BUYERS HERE THIS MORNING AND NONE IS HERE YET-

THIS IS AWFUL- BUSINESS IS GOING TO RUIN- I'VE GOT TO FIRE- ARCHIE-

OH I'D RATHER BUY FROM YOU THAN FROM YOUR DADDY.

I'LL DOUBLE MY ORDER.

JUST TRIPLE MINE

I DON'T THINK I'M GOING TO LIKE THIS-

THE GREAT WALK ACROSS THE FALLS IS ABOUT TO BEGIN!

WONDER WHAT HE IS DOING WITH THAT POLE?

TAKE THAT MULE AWAY! SHE MAKES ME NERVOUS!

BEAT IT! YOU'RE A HOODOO! I MIGHT FALL IF YOU LOOK AT ME!

STOP HER!

OUCH!

I'LL PUT HER IN THE PAPER! THE FIRST MULE TO WALK ACROSS THE FALLS!

WELL, I GOT MY PICTURE IN THE PAPER!

THAT'S THE MULE THAT WALKED ACROSS THE FALLS!

DAILY PAPER

SO THAT'S A THEATRE! GUESS I'LL GO IN AND LOOK AROUND!

MR. DOUGH'S FRIEND, PROFESSOR GLIMP, HAS DISCOVERED A SERUM THAT HE THINKS WILL MAKE PEOPLE FEEL AND LOOK YOUNGER. HE WANTS TO TRY IT ON MR. DOUGH! THE IDEA MAKES A HIT WITH DOUGH!

IF THAT SERUM WILL MAKE ME FEEL AND LOOK YOUNG IT'S GREAT STUFF!

YOU KNOW PONCE DE LEON TRIED TO FIND THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH—

—BUT HE COULDN'T LOCATE IT!

SWALLOW IT RIGHT DOWN!

I'VE GOT TO HAND IT TO MR. DOUGH! HE'S GOT NOIVE!

YEAH HE'S BRAVE!

DO YOU FEEL ANY EFFECT YET?

HOW DID IT TASTE?

HE LOOKS ABOUT THE SAME!

HEAVENS, IT MUST BE STRONGER THAN I THOUGHT OR ELSE I GAVE HIM AN OVERDOSE! HE HAS GONE BACK TO BABYHOOD!

DA, DA!

WHAT SHALL WE DO?

BAW!

MAYBE HIS STOMACH HOITS HIM!

THERE, THERE, DON'T CRY!

BAW!

YOUSE BETTER GIVE HIM A SHOT OF SOOTHING SYRUP!

SOUNDS LIKE AN ELEPHANT IN DISTRESS!

BAW!

IT LOOKS RATHER SMALL!

IT'S THE BIGGEST WE COULD FIND!

WE GOT IT AT A FOINITURE SALE!

ZZZ

THANK GOODNESS HE'S ASLEEP! I WISH I HADN'T GIVEN HIM THAT SERUM!

I HOPE HE WON'T SNORE LIKE THAT ALL THE TIME!

IT'S LUCKY HE AIN'T TWINS!

I LOOK, BABY. SEE NICE TOYS HOOLIGAN AND DUBB BROUGHT!

DA DA!

HERE'S A RATTLE AND A TOY RABBIT!

SQUEAK

HOW'S THIS?

AS DOUGH IS A BABY MENTALLY, HE HAS TO BE DRESSED LIKE A BABY!

STOP YOUR LAUGHING! HOW AM I GOING TO GET HIM RESTORED!

DA DA!

HAR, HAR!

HAW!

10

BABY DRINK NICE MILK

AND TO THINK THAT HE'S GOT MONEY TO BOIN!

I'M GLAD HIS FINANCIAL FRIENDS CAN'T SEE HIM NOW!

11

WELL CHESTER - IF YOU WANTED RABBIT PIE - I'M GOING OUT AND GET IT FOR YOU - OR IF YOU'D RATHER HAVE A LITTLE VENISON - MOOSE OR A GRIZZLY BEAR - JUST GIVE YOUR ORDER -

I'D LIKE TO MEET A TIGER -

GET A LARGER BAG THAN THIS - WE'RE GOING TO GET SOME BIG GAME TODAY - YOU'RE GOING TO SEE SOME TALL SHOOTING -

I'M CRAZY TO HAVE YOU TEACH ME HOW -

RABBIT HUNTING? YOU DON'T MEAN TO SAY YOU ARE GOING TO TEACH CHESTER TO KILL A LOT OF HARMLESS LITTLE CREATURES AND CALL IT SPORT -

SAY - DON'T FORGET THAT ROAST BEEF YOU ATE FOR DINNER DIDN'T GROW ON A VINE - SOME POOR INNOCENT STEER GAVE UP HIS LIFE TO GIVE YOU SOMETHING TO EAT WITH YOUR MASHED POTATOES -

DON'T FORGET THAT COAT YOU WEAR WASN'T A COAT TILL AFTER THE LEOPARD'S FUNERAL - AND THOSE FEATHERS YOU HAVE IN YOUR HAT WEREN'T MANUFACTURED BY MACHINERY -

IF IT WASN'T FOR HUNTERS LIKE ME - YOUR BACK YARD WOULD BE FULL OF LIONS AND TIGERS READY TO SPRING AT YOU - YOUR LIFE WOULDN'T BE SAFE -

COME ON POP

I'LL TEACH YOU HOW TO TELL THE DIFFERENT TRACKS - EACH ANIMAL LEAVES A DIFFERENT FOOT PRINT ON THE SNOW -

HA! A FRESH SCENT - A NICE YOUNG RABBIT - LEAVING HIS NAME AND ADDRESS IN THE SNOW - WE'LL STEP OVER TO HIS HOUSE AND PAY HIM A VISIT -

IT WON'T BE LONG NOW - ALL WE HAVE TO DO IS FOLLOW THE ROAD MAP -

WE'LL TRACK HIM RIGHT TO THE FAMILY RESIDENCE - THERE MIGHT BE A WHOLE BUNCH OF THEM THERE -

WHATEVER THAT WAS IT WENT UP THE TREE - THERE MIGHT BE A MOUNTAIN LION AROUND HERE - STAND BACK NOW AND WATCH -

I HEAR A BELL

I WANT TO SEE YOU SHOOT HIM - SHOOT HIM LIKE YOU SHOT THE LION YOU TOLD ME ABOUT -

COME DOWN BIG BOY! WHATEVER YOU ARE SHOW YOUR FACE -

OH PAPA - I KNOW THAT KITTEN - IT BELONGS TO LITTLE ARTHUR WAIDE
